Town Gets VHDA Grant

By Ron Smith
Correspondent

Scottsville Town Administrator Matt Lawless recently announced that the town has been awarded a $23,000 grant from the Virginia Housing Development Authority (VHDA). The authority was created in 1972 to help obtain quality affordable housing for Virginia residents. According to Lawless, "the grant will be used for redevelopment planning at the old (tire) factory site."

VHDA supports healthy communities and mixed use-mixed income projects and, according to the Lawless, "over the next 4-6 months this grant will support some market research, local outreach and surveys, and project design concepts that connect well with our comprehensive plan process and our UVA Architecture School partnerships."

Planning Commission – Work continues on updating the town's Comprehensive Plan which should be concluded within the next few months.

The Planning Commission is also studying a proposal to expand what is known as the Historic Overlay District. The current district is primarily the town limits before annexation of land by the town in 1994. The Commission recognizes that there are structures outside the current boundaries that are of a historic nature. Another reason behind expanding the district is to ensure that the typography of the land not be altered in a manner that would be inconsistent with the nature of the town's historic typography. The Architectural Review Board has been assisting in this project and members of that body have been meeting with the Planning Commission on a regular basis.

Town Council – At the May 21st meeting of the Town Council a public hearing was held on the 2018-19 budget. No one spoke either for or against the budget as presented although there was some discussion by Council members on the matter. A vote on the budget is scheduled for the June 18th meeting.

Thomas Morley is the town's "summer intern" working with Town Administrator Matt Lawless. Morely, a Syracuse University graduate is in his second year of graduate school at UVA working towards a master's degree in urban planning.

The ARB announced that long-time head of that committee, Jeffrey Plank, will be resigning from that post on June

Thomas Morley, a summer intern, is working in the Town Administrators office for the summer.

30th. Plank who has headed the ARB for over twenty-five years felt it was time to turn over the reins. The Council recognized his service.

Doug Hurr who recently completed work on the bateau at Canal Basin Square has been hired and given a budget to rebuild a replica of a freight boat for the outdoor museum's exhibit.

Mayor Nancy Gill reported that upgrades to the Rivanna Water and Sewer Authorities water treatment plant on James River Road has been completed and is in operation. This new system is "state of the art" she said, and "uses a process that ensures that our drinking water is top quality."

In Other News from Around Town –

Alex Stone reported that the Carling for Creatures fundraiser he organized raised almost $2500 for that organization. The May 20th event at the pavilion was well attended and several animals were adopted on the spot. Well done Alex!

At the helm for 26 years Tim Karr loves a parade

By Ron Smith
Correspondent

Almost everyone loves a parade. Visit Scottsville on July 4th and you will see that statement to be true. For over a hundred years, with few exceptions (for some reason there was no parade in 1935) there has been a Fourth of July Parade in Scottsville.

The Scottsville Museum has evidence that there was a parade on the 4th in 1913. For the next eighty years organizations such as the Veterans of Foreign War (VFW) the Town of Scottsville, and the Chamber of Commerce either sponsored a parade individually or partnered with one another to see that a parade happened.

The Scottsville Fire Department came into being in 1936. In 1942 the fire department became involved in the organizing of the parade. And, in 1993, the fire department became the sole organizer of the event.

Scottsville's Tim Karr has live here since he was a toddler. He wears several different hats. Tim is a professional firefighter. He serves as a Battalion Chief with the Charlottesville City Fire Department. He is also committed to Scottsville. Tim is also a chief with the Scottsville Volunteer Fire Department. He is levee superintendent for the Town of Scottsville, a position that keep him busy every time the river rises, ensuring that the town does not flood. He owns and operates a landscaping company and is a member of Scottsville Baptist Church.

The Confederate re-enactors color guard.

In his "free" time, as has been the case for the past 26-years, Karr has seen that the annual Fourth of July Parade takes place. This will be the 105th edition of that event!

Tim relates that "during the 1980's the parade was sometimes a part of Scottsville Day and followed a much different route. The parade used to go all over town, winding its way through neighborhoods until it reached Dorrier Park." The parade had been pretty much a VFW sponsored event for thirty years. The VFW asked the fire department if they would take over the organization. Karr was asked to take over leadership of the parade committee in 1992, following the groundwork laid by John Collins and Mike Johnson.

Tim sees himself as a "figurehead" since, as he says, "lots of people are involved to make the parade a success." There a logistics to work out with VDOT. Valley Street has the distinction of being the only state highway that has been given permission to shut down for a parade! There is advertising, trophies to buy and making sure the one hundred units in the parade know what is expected of them. And then there is the fireworks show.

When Tim's dad Duane Karr was responsible for the fireworks show the fireworks were actually on the south side of the river. Tim emphasizes that "the fireworks are community funded and this year $9000 is budgeted for the show." Contributions are always welcome.

With the dawn of July 5th the previous day's parade and fireworks will be vivid in our memories. Tim Karr should take the day off and rest. But, knowing Tim, he will already be working on the 2019 parade! Volunteers are what make things happen. If you see Tim or any of the many connected with the July 4th celebrations around town take a minute to tell them how much you appreciate what they do for our community both professionally and as volunteers. They deserve our thanks, and they would not mind if you volunteered too!

Sunny Sides

By Sue Miles

Dent (left) and Liebl (right), collectively known as The Sunny Sides, perform original as folk and indie music for a local pre-school.

Sometimes the stars and the planets align up just right and wonderful things happen. That may be just what occurred, two years ago, when Evelyn Booker Dent and Susan Liebl met. The result of that encounter is now a great friendship and a musical group called The Sunny Sides. “We met at an anti-pipeline meeting,” said Liebl. “We started talking and after realizing that we had so much in common, we became friends.”

Both ladies had come to Buckingham for personal reasons. Dent had returned to her home place after living in New Jersey for many years. Liebl, who had lived in California, was drawn to the county because of the Yogaville community. “We both love music, spiritually, enjoy playing cards (scrabble), love nature, and want to work towards protecting the environment,” said Dent. Turns out it was a perfect match.

Because of their passion for music, the ladies starting playing together and were soon asked on many occasions to play at the anti-pipeline meetings. “We started doing sing-alongs,” said Liebl. “We both play guitars and are both singer-songwriters.”

Dent also plays piano. She is a regular at area churches and also plays electric bass as well as acoustic. Liebl taught herself how to play the guitar and also plays piano and flute. “I sang in church choirs, community theatre, and school musicals and also played in a band in San Francisco,” she said.

Thus, the combination of similar interests and the love of music evolved into The Sunny Sides. “That’s our signature song,” said Liebl. “We’ve play at Habitat events, at the Appomattox National Park, at the Historic Village and the World Day in Charlottesville. We are starting to be known for performing songs that represent the unsung voices of our local history as well as indie folk music.”

One such song, “Three Days Free,” written by Liebl, is about Hannah Reynolds, a slave who tells about being freed immediately after Appomattox. The musicians also have other originals based on local stories. "We Will Work" is an example of a song that slaves sang when they labored. "Many of the slaves songs were sung to give messages of hope and rebellion against enslavement," said Liebl. "Most of such songs have double meanings."

The Sunny Sides see themselves evolving over time. "We'd like to have one or two more musicians join us," said Liebl. "We'd like to add a bass, percussion, and drums." Dent nodded and added, "But we have to find musicians who understand the thrust of what we're doing. Our singing wouldn't feel as authentic if we don't stick to what we believe in. We don't want to stray from the message."

The Sunny Sides see themselves networking with others and performing more in the community. "We'd like to align with the local historic society do to program on enslaved, indigenous, and immigrant members," said Liebl.

The group has a number of upcoming events on their calendar for the spring and summer and welcome the opportunity to share their music and message. Liebl can be reached at srliebl1@gmail.com or 620-200-2699.

In the meantime, here are the words to Three Days Free. Read the message but make sure you make the effort to hear The Sunny Sides perform it in person.

Three Days Free

My name is Hannah Reynolds
And I lived my life enslaved
Till April 1865 when
Freedom flowed through my veins.

The Yanks marched round
Appomattox town
Lee laid his saber down.
The tyrants knew their time was through
And freedom was the sound.

My master and my missus
They ran to save their hide
And left me all alone
In the Coleman house I cried.

The sound of bullets splintering
The roar of cannonballs
I stayed behind the fireside
But one shell hit the wall.

The Yankee doctor struggled
He tried to save my life
But in the arms of my dear husband
I knew I had little time

For three long days I lingered
Joy was all that I could see
Because I knew those precious hours
I was living free.

Three days free
The good lord gave to me
I sing this song to tell you
The joy of livin' free.

Three days free
The good lord gave to me
I JUST ROSE to tell you
The joy of livin' free.

Free, free, free, free,
Free, free, free, free.

The Sunny Sides joined hands when Evelyn Booker Dent and Susan Liebl met two years ago at a local meeting. They have now formed The Sunny Sides, a musical duo that performs songs representing the unsung voices of local history. Photo by Sue Miles.

Opening Ceremony of Scottsville VFW Post 8169 Memorial Day Service. All photos by Ron Smith.

Sunday, May 27th saw the annual Memorial Day Program presented by Scottsville VFW Post 8169. Post Commander William Saunders officiated at this solemn occasion. The guest speaker was Bruce Eades, Commander of American Legion Post 74 and a Vietnam veteran. Various organizations placed wreaths at the town's Veteran's Memorial. Those who attended were inspired not only by Commander Eades' speech, but also by 94-year-old veteran Leake Winston who sang the song "Soldiers Last Letter".
