Teachers receive surprise 4 percent raise

Cafeteria debt tops last year

BY RUTHANN CARR

Fluvanna County Public Schools staff can expect a 4 percent raise in their next paycheck.

Superintendent Chuck Winkler suggested the move to the School Board at Wednesday's (June 12) meeting.

"We will use funds that have been allocated within the payroll lines to provide an additional 1 percent raise," Winkler said in an email Thursday. "It will now equal approximately 4 percent total for fiscal year 2020 (FY20) contracts."

In April the board voted to give staff a 3 percent raise.

Chair Perrie Johnson (Fork Union) and Winkler had an earlier discussion about the FY20 budget.

When building a budget the administration tries to put in a 1-3 percent cushion for contingencies such as decreased state and local funding, increased utility, health care, technology, instruction and transportation costs.

In a $41.8 million budget that cushion is between $420,000 and $1.2 million.

Winkler said Johnson suggested the board be "less conservative" and use part of that cushion for instruction at the beginning of the year rather than waiting to see if it's left over.

The past several years the school budget ended in the black.

"The board elected to be less conservative and lean towards the 1-2 percent [cushion] side of things looking into FY20," Winkler said. "Therefore, the funds for the newly adjusted raises [1 percent more] will come from the payroll lines within the various categories."

Board members Brenda Pace (Palmyra) and Andrew Pullen (Columbia) were not at Wednesday's meeting.

In other news, Food Services Supervisor Gwendolyn Jones asked the board to approve a 10-cent increase in school lunch costs, a 15-cent increase in breakfast and a 30-cent increase in adult meals. The Board approved it unanimously.

Shirley Stewart (Rivanna) asked how much the cafeteria fund was in debt for the year. Jones said $46,706.25.

Last year's debt of $41,000 brought a public outcry.

In September the board decided on a multi-prong approach, including:

- Prohibiting students from purchasing any extra items once the account has a balance of $0 or less;
- Emailing notices to parents or guardians weekly if the account balance is $5 or less, when there is a valid email on file; and
- When a household has reached a threshold of $250, legal collection procedures may be initiated. All other efforts to collect delinquent or bad debt will be handled by food services, administration and guidance working collaboratively.

Upon hearing of the more than $46,000 in debt this year, Stewart said, "So what we're doing isn't working."

Winkler announced Standards of Learning tests are done and he expects Fluvanna schools to be fully accredited.

Instruction and Finance Director Brenda Gilliam reported on the staff survey. For the first time in six years, less than half the staff (49 percent) filled it out.

- The survey has seven categories.
- Work environment: 82-98 percent had a positive response;
  - Building administrative support: 91.84 percent felt supported and recognized, but the margin dropped to 64.1 percent regarding whether discipline is handled consistently, fairly and in a timely manner;

TAX TIPS

BY RUDY GARCIA, RIVANNA WOODS FINANCIAL / TAX SERVICES

Get Your Life Back! Ideas to Unplug

This week's Tax Corner isn't about taxes! Nope. This week's Tax Corner is about how to have a better Summer! Enjoy.

With endless movies, TV shows and video games available to us 24/7, it's become too easy to spend all our free time on electronic devices. If you and your family are looking for ways to unplug this summer, consider these ideas:

- Turn off notifications. Hey! Guess what? Bill just posted a photo of his dinner! And look at this! Minneapolis just set the world record for the largest pillow fight! Let's be honest, most alerts you get on your phone are meaningless, yet we allow them to steal our attention several times a day. Review your phone settings and turn off all non-essential notifications to keep you focused on the things that are important to you.

- Ration your screen time. Limiting time in front of a screen is important for both you and your kids. Setting daily screen limits is a good way to keep your media consumption under control and allow for guilt-free time when you just want to scroll through social media or watch a movie.

- Make a summer reading goal. Set a goal (with prizes at the end!) for yourself and your children to read a certain number of books before Labor Day. According to the Chicago Tribune, because reading is an active activity (not passive, like watching TV), "it reduces stress, promotes comprehension and imagination, alleviates depression, helps you sleep, and may contribute to preventing Alzheimer's."

- Schedule phone-free activities. Plan a get-together like a picnic or BBQ, but with a catch – phones need to be checked at the door. That way you and your guests can focus on each other without the constant distraction of a phone. If some of the guests don't know each other, even better! They might leave the party with a few new friends.

- Start a new outdoor hobby. Getting outside is a great way to separate yourself from your electronics. By finding an outdoor hobby that interests you, like hiking, gardening or camping, you'll have an activity that takes your attention away from your phone and provides added benefits, like exercise and vitamin D.

By getting your electronic habits to a manageable level, you'll free up more time and energy to live this summer to the fullest. By the way, I do hope you have a wonderful 4th of July Celebration and a great summer! Don't forget to call if you have any questions about your personal or business tax situation!

Fluvanna Business Corner

In Economic Development Business Owners Should Have a Seat at the Table!

Bryan Rothamel

Fluvanna County Economic Development Coordinator

A key strategy of mine for the Fluvanna Economic Development Office is to hear from the business community. I can only work best when I fully understand market conditions, issues affecting businesses and where assistance is needed.

I have begun hosting "Fluvanna Business Roundtables" to foster communication between owners and the me. These events are comfortable and informal gatherings, hosted throughout the county. Business owners or representatives can drop in to discuss operating a business in Fluvanna. You can stay five minutes or two hours.

Our first roundtable was at Bottomz Up Bar and Grill located just off of Slice Road at 63 Market St

Palmyra, VA 22963. Representatives from utility companies to banks to independent contractors came by to chat about how their business is doing, where they see growth and how they'd like to collaborate with other Fluvanna businesses. They were also able to ask questions about county projects, initiatives and operations. Special thanks to Danny and the Bottomz Up crew for hosting us!

Our next roundtable will be on June 25 between 11:30 am and 1:30 pm at Troy Market and Deli (19321 James Madison Hwy, Troy, VA 22974). Stop by for a tasty sandwich while we talk shop. Feel free to drop in any time during that two hours to talk to me.

I am working on five key strategies to better the Fluvanna County economy: meet with the business community, advertise the county's assets better, meet with regional partners, foster growth in the Zion Crossroads area, and create in-person gathering opportunities for county residents. We need your help to make sure when we create or implement new initiatives they ring true to Fluvanna and our market.

I'm also happy to come out and meet you wherever you are! Please contact the office at (434) 591-1910 or brothamel@fluvannacounty.org so we can schedule a time outside of the roundtables to meet. Also feel free to contact me if you would like emails on future Economic Development Office events!

I hope to see you take a seat at a Fluvanna Business Roundtable soon so we can make sure operating a business in Fluvanna is pleasant, just for you!

Straight talk from departing county administrator Steve Nichols reveals what he'll miss – and what he won't

BY CHRISTINA DIMEO
EDITOR

Fluvanna County Administrator Steve Nichols, 65, will retire July 3 after seven years as the county's most powerful employee.

Eric Dahl, former assistant county administrator and finance director, will take his spot in the corner office.

Widely credited with fostering professionalism and transparency between county government, the Board of Supervisors and citizens, Nichols cited strides on water and sewer infrastructure as the greatest accomplishment of his tenure.

In order for a rural county to grow, a "core requirement is to make sure that anything you have to fund is not paid for completely just by the homeowner," Nichols said in an exit interview with the Fluvanna Review. "Today, most of the funding for county government comes from the pockets of homeowners in our county. That's not unusual in a rural county, but we are a little bit out of whack because we have very little business and commercial interests in the county relative to what we would like to have."

Fluvanna has two main sources of income: real estate and personal property taxes, Nichols said. If businesses start carrying more of the tax burden, "regular taxpayers" don't have to shoulder as much of the weight. But businesses have a difficult time moving into the county without water and sewer infrastructure.

To combat this problem, county government has developed two water projects: the $11.6 million Zion Crossroads water and sewer system and the $11.1 million James River pipeline. "Infrastructure costs money," Nichols said.

The first will connect the Zion Crossroads area with up to 75,000 gallons per day of treated water from the women's prison on Route 250. It will also route between 100,000 and 125,000 gallons per day of sewage back to the prison for treatment.

The James River water project will pipe water northwest through Fluvanna to Louisa County with the provision that Louisa will eventually supply up to 400,000 gallons of treated water per day to Fluvanna's Zion Crossroads area. The historic nature of some of the land slated for construction, however, has delayed the issuance of a necessary permit.

The projects have required a massive amount of communication between county government and the Board of Supervisors – a board that Nichols said is "spectacularly good to work with."

"It wasn't always fantastic" working for the board, Nichols said. "But this board – for the last several years – is a really strong, collaborative, professional, respectful board. They appreciate the efforts of staff. They are professional and collegial to each other even when they disagree... And they don't do it with any nastiness or any subterfuge. They may strongly and vehemently disagree, but they do it as professional colleagues, not as enemies."

Nichols heaped similar praise on his staff. "I could not ask for a more dedicated, amazing group of people that [impress] me all the time with the stuff that they think of, do and get done," he said. "Whether you agree with the policies and how we do things in the community, or whether you like all the laws that are set, this county staff cares about our citizens and works really hard to provide great service to meet their needs. We want to know when we do well, and we equally want to know if we're not meeting expectations because we want to fix it."

Challenges

The difficulties of not having enough money, people or space are common to all public service roles, Nichols said. Instead, he pinpointed communication as his biggest challenge as county administrator.

"Keeping the people we serve informed – it is really hard," he said. "It's really hard to communicate with everyone effectively... It's hard for people to be positive about local government – or critical of local government – without the facts. And our job is to get them the facts... We're never going to please everyone, but oftentimes when people know the true story, and know the facts, it informs their opinion."

Nichols pointed to a quote by John Maynard Keynes he keeps on the wall of his office: "When the facts change, I change my mind."

"I wish I could convince everybody of that," he said.

Then he nodded at a second quote by Nelson Mandela: "I never lose, I either win or learn."

"I love that one; I live by that one," he said. "I think it's the most positive way to look at life. I didn't get my way or I didn't get what I wanted – does that really matter as much as what you do after that? And when you go through and experience life and learn from it, that's a positive to me. I just love that outlook. I use it around here all the time."

In order to improve communication, Nichols asked supervisors to approve a new assistant county administrator position that includes "a variety of programs that we've always done piecemeal – we've never had somebody fulltime dedicated to them." In this role, Kelly Harris will act as the public information and Freedom of Information Act officer, as well as the officer for special projects and internal controls. "It's an incredibly good fit for the county," Nichols said. "It's a great way for us to improve the things that we have not been able to do as well."

Highlights

Nichols took the job in 2012 after retiring from almost 40 years in the military.

"This was a chance to serve in my community," he said. "In the military you're always serving in someone else's community – your country or someone else's country – but not in your community. You only live there for a year, or a year and a half, or two years. In my almost 40 years we moved 23 times around the world."

The longest Nichols and his wife, Brenda, were ever in one location was for three years and one month. Taking the county administrator job "was a chance to serve my friends, colleagues, neighbors in my community. And so that's why it was an incredible privilege for me, because I got to serve my neighbors."

Surprises

But moving into a small community had some surprising elements.

"When you didn't grow up in a small rural county, you don't have a clue how many relationships there are," Nichols said. "Neighbor relationships, familial relationships, marriage relationships, former teammate relationships – you don't know that this person is that person's cousin. Still to this day – I've been here in the job over seven years – I still find every week, 'Oh my God, I didn't know you were related to that person.'"

"You have to be very careful and sensitive to that, because it's not that way in the military," he continued. "We're all a mix and a blend and we come from all over the world, but your sister, your brother, your uncle, your cousin is not in the seat next to you because you're not in your hometown."

When asked if he was ever bitten by that dynamic, Nichols laughed. "It's a pleasant minefield – that's kind of how you have to look at it," he said. "I'm not much to mince my words. I'm about mission, about getting things done. I'd like to be softer about it sometimes, but I'm mission driven, and when we have a task to get done, that's really important... You can really step on something and say the wrong thing to the wrong person, but it's also pleasant to know we have such strong relationships in our community."

Those very relationships are Nichols' favorite thing about the county. "That's the most rewarding thing about living here – the collective neighborliness of the people around," he said. "If you need help – if you don't get it – it's because either you didn't ask, or no one knew you needed help, because here it is just an automatic thing."

Moving

Nichols and his wife bought their home in Lake Monticello in 2007. She moved in while Nichols was deployed to Afghanistan, then he arrived in August 2008, retiring from the military soon after.

"My daughter and son-in-law lived here; that's why we moved here," Nichols said. "She's our only child. Our son-in-law is from Fluvanna and they went to college together. When they settled here we knew we would be here as soon as I retired from the military. Wherever our daughter was going to be, we were going to be."

Steve and Brenda Nichols moved to Nahor Village in 2012, just after he became county administrator, and lived there until this past April. Now they live in the Pantops area of Charlottesville.

"Again, we're following our daughter," he said. "Our daughter and son-in-law built a house at Pantops three years ago, so we knew when we retired we were going to follow them. We're just down the hill from them, and our granddaughter. It's wonderful."

Adventure

Nichols has been harboring a retirement dream ever since he saw The Way, a film featuring the Camino de Santiago, a trek that pilgrims have undertaken for 2,000 years.

He leaves Sept. 1 to join the pilgrims, walking 500 miles across France and northern Spain to the cathedral in Santiago where the remains of St. James are said to be buried. "You stay in hostels along the way. Everything you need is on your back," he said. "It'll be four to six weeks depending on how many detours I take."

Nichols will walk by himself, but looks forward to meeting pilgrims along the way. "When I saw that movie, it just intrigued me. I started researching and reading. It's a way to experience the world in a totally different way than when you're riding in a car or flying on a plane," he said. "I think it's going to be spectacular."

Words of wisdom

While Nichols is hiking the Camino, Eric Dahl will be learning the ropes of the county's top job. Nichols has already passed along his words of wisdom, which he called "the most important advice a senior leader can get."

"Be a lot more worried about doing your job than keeping your job," Nichols said he told Dahl. "If I were worried about keeping my job every day, I wouldn't have taken the same challenges or the same risks or tried to get as much done. If you're worried about keeping your job you want to please everybody all the time, and you cannot please everybody all the time."

Nichols said he came by that piece of wisdom honestly. "I've always been of that bent because I'm a little bit reckless compared to some others," he said. "I'm not worried about making a mistake. I worry about getting stuff done. And the only way you're going to get stuff done is to try, to experiment, to make an effort. If you sit and wait and try to find the perfect time, the perfect circumstance, or the perfect information before you make a decision, you're never going to get anything done."

Nichols said he doesn't remember a time in his 30 years of senior leadership roles in which he deliberately decided not to worry about keeping his job in favor of doing what he felt was right. "I'm self-confident enough, and always have been, to not really worry about...keeping my job," he said. "If I'm worried about my job, I must not be doing my job very well. There's not very many times when you're going to get canned just because the person didn't like you. Who cares if they like you or not? Are you doing a good job?"

This maxim may not be a universal truth, Nichols acknowledged. "After the bad things that happened in 2012 when the five most senior people in the county lost their jobs, just before I got hired, that was a huge trauma, a huge shock," he said. "The staff was wound up, worried and upset. But that was because of a specific circumstance. I still think that if you do your job well every day, you're not going to have to worry about keeping your job."

Nichols pointed to another secret of success. "There's an old saying my staff has heard me use: 'When my boss is interested in something, I'm absolutely fascinated.' Because I should be," he said. "I may not want to do it personally; it may not be my personal choice. So what?"

Saying goodbye

Nichols had an immediate answer when asked what he'll miss about the job. "The people. Always the people," he said. "It's the relationships you build. It's the people you know. It's the teamwork, the esprit de corps, the feeling of accomplishment alongside someone else, that is really important. I'll miss that."

That doesn't mean there aren't any elements of the job Nichols won't mind leaving behind.

"I will not miss having so darn many evening and weekend meetings," he said. "It's an incredibly strong and heavy time commitment away from family. When you're working five 12- or 14-hour days, and you've got four evening meetings and one weekend event, it doesn't leave a lot of time for yourself or for others."

Nichols joked that his top priority when he returns from the Camino is to stay out of his wife's kitchen. "Honestly, I don't know," he said. "I'm certain I will be involved in organizations, on boards, commissions, committees...but I don't have any specific plans other than playing golf and traveling. It will be nice to take a breather. I love being in the outdoors. If I want to take a walk at 2 in the afternoon, I can."

Lenherr announces treasurer reelection campaign

PRESS RELEASE

It has been an honor and privilege to serve the citizens of Fluvanna County as treasurer since 1984. I have worked hard to provide excellent levels of customer service and financial stability for Fluvanna County. I have excellent staff members who work diligently to give all customers great customer service and to resolve issues that might come up.

I have been blessed in many ways: My faith in God, my husband, my children and grandchildren, and extended family and friends have supported me through 48 years of public service. For the past 35 years, it has been my honor to serve you as treasurer of Fluvanna County.

I have been very blessed to have your support in the past elections, and hope to once again have the privilege of serving as your treasurer. I ask for your support and vote on Nov. 5.

I was born, raised and educated in Fluvanna County, attending Fluvanna County Public schools and graduating from FCHS at Carysbrook. I am married to Richard Lenherr and we have three sons: Michael, Steven and Daniel, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. I have attended Wesley's Chapel United Methodist Church all of my life and serve as lay leader, cemetery chairman, on finance committee and community outreach.

I worked from June 1971 to Dec. 31, 1983, for the commonwealth's attorney and county attorney for Fluvanna County. I was elected treasurer in 1984 and have served in this public service position since then. I am a member of the Treasurer's Association of Virginia.

Editor's note: Also running for treasurer are Ben Hudson and Kim Oliver-Hyland.

Oliver-Hyland announces run for treasurer

Wife, mother and small horse farm owner Kim Oliver-Hyland officially announced her candidacy to become Fluvanna County treasurer and has filed all necessary paperwork with the registrar to appear on the ballot in November.

"Fluvanna County citizens deserve a treasurer's office that is accountable to the taxpayers of Fluvanna County and that operates with integrity, efficiency and fairness," Hyland stated. "Citizens from one end of the county to the other are demanding integrity and transparency in the office; efficiency and modernization in the collection of your tax dollars; and fairness in the treatment of all citizens. The treasurer's office should be an integral part of a well-run county, lending itself to a more efficient local government. I believe that I am uniquely qualified to return those core values to the treasurer's office and run an office that will work for you."

Hyland is a graduate of George Mason University, where she majored in international relations. She possesses a strong resume – working as a defense contractor and finance manager, managing multimillion dollar accounts before later becoming a realtor and insurance broker. After starting a family, Hyland followed her dream of raising Chincoteague ponies and began participating in competitive reining with her two quarter horses. Hyland and her family live on a small horse farm in the Cunningham District where they are restoring their farmhouse, built in 1896.

Find the campaign on Facebook at Hyland for Treasurer or email hylandfortreasurer@gmail.com.

- School Board: Scores dropped in all three categories polled, with the highest being 69.83 percent who felt the board supports them and their profession.

The board asked that survey comments be made public after names are redacted. Several retiring staff members were honored: Susan Brown, Nancy Heins, Nancy Hutcherson, Cheryl Daidone, Doug Campbell, Feda Coleman, Delores Palmer, Judy Raviotta, Michelle Shinaberry, Lisa Lucas, Jane Ford and Clinton Estes. They represented close to 300 years of experience.

During public comments, Andrea Overweg took the board to task.

"I am here tonight because I care about our community, our schools, our children and our valued teachers and staff," Overweg said. "I am here tonight because the board has continued in a deleterious trajectory. It is plainly evident to any attendee of a School Board meeting that this board is dysfunctional."

Overweg cited a few examples of recent board conduct.

"With community members and teachers present for a School Board meeting, what message does it send when a School Board member objects to the acquisition of a textbook because it references 'white privilege,' which he asserts is recent terminology, when in fact it is a historical reality grounded in factual events?" she said. "What message does it send when a board member fundamentally does not comprehend how a budget operates or is allocated for a school system?"

Overweg talked about declining elementary school enrollment and linked it to parent dissatisfaction with policies and practice.

"People talk to each other and it's more important than a Yelp review," she said.

The board will hold its seminar July 30.

WE'VE GOT YOU COVERED IN ALBEMARLE, FLUVANNA, LOUISA AND MORE!

Fluco baseball wins first-ever State championships in 16-10 blowout

BY DUNCAN NIXON

The Flying Fluco baseball team did it all. Every time they needed outstanding pitching, they got outstanding pitching. Every time they needed searing bats, they got them. And throughout the playoffs, typical of a championship team, they got great fielding.

In their run to the State Class 3 title, the Flucos won three straight in the Region playoffs, followed by three straight wins in the State tournament.

On Friday (June 14) playing at Kiwanis Field in Salem, Va., the Flucos jumped to a 5-0 lead in the top of the first against the Tabb Tigers from just north of Newport News. The Tigers were forced to play catch-up the rest of the game as the Fluco offense was firing on all cylinders and just kept pouring on the runs.

In the first, senior third baseman Ryan Groome led off and made it to first on an infield error. Junior first baseman outfielder Mason Gross singled to make it 3-0. Junior outfielder Toby Sherman walked to load the bases again. Batting in the eighth slot, senior second baseman Kyle Algieri then came through with one of the biggest hits of the game – a fly ball to right that just eluded the right fielder and landed for a two run double. Psychologically, a five-run first inning is much bigger than a three-run first inning.

second and scored on a two-out single by Andrew Ward, his third of five hits. Jacob Critzer and Kevin Ward then launched back-to-back home runs. Dansey ran into some control problems in the third and the Tigers scored two with only one hit.

The Flucos were far from done. Sherman led off the fourth inning with a home run to left field. Two walks and singles by each of the Wards resulted in two more runs for an 12-2 lead. The Tigers got a two-run home run in the bottom of the fourth, but the Flucos again responded with three in the top of the fifth. Singles by Sherman, Algieri and A.J. Brown resulted in one run and Andrew Ward's double down the right field line drove in two more.

The Tigers would not give up and they scored three in the sixth and three in the seventh, but it was way too late. In the seventh with three in, Algieri was pitching and he induced three consecutive ground balls. Shields made nice plays on the first two and Groome handled a bad hop on a hard shot and threw to Kevin Ward for the final out.

In this game, Andrew Ward was five for six with three RBI. Kevin Ward was three for four with a home run, a walk and

Andrew Ward singled sharply. Senior catcher Jacob Critzer walked to load the bases. Junior DH Kevin Ward singled to drive in one. Junior shortstop Cameron Shields grounded to short and the Tigers tried for a double play. Shields beat the throw to first, as a run scored. Sophomore Fluco starting pitcher junior Wyatt Dansey managed to hold the Tigers scoreless in the first and second, although they had two baserunners in each inning. The Flucos really blew things open with four in the top of the third. Algieri opened the inning with a single. He stole four RBI. He also made several excellent picks on low throws at first base. Critzer was two for three with a home run and three walks. Algieri had three hits and Sherman a home run. In a statistic for baseball fanatics, all nine line-up positions recorded at least one RBI.

After the game, Coach Joel Gray noted that his squad demonstrated all year that it can come back after a low scoring game and “tear the cover off.” He noted that due to VHSL rules to prevent overuse of pitchers, he was not able to use either of the Ward brothers on the mound in the championship game, so he had to do a little juggling with his staff. Starter Dansey and relievers Kristian Negron and Algieri did have some control difficulties, but they restricted a strong Tabb squad to only seven hits, while the Flucos recorded 19 hits and also benefitted from wild pitching by Tabb.

in Salem. This was a tense, hard-fought game from start to finish.

The Tigers scored one in the first. The Flucos bounced back with two in the third, with runs scored on an error and a sacrifice fly.

The Tigers scored two in the top of the fifth to go up 3-2; however, the Flucos responded with two runs as Shields drove in one with a single and Gross plated the other with a sacrifice fly. Brentsville came right back with a run in the sixth to tie the score. The Flucos went up and down in order in the bottom of the sixth. Andrew Ward, on the mound in relief of Kevin Ward, struck out the side in order in the top of the seventh. The stage was set.

With one out, Critzer stepped in. With two strikes on him, Critzer noted later that he was “just trying to put the ball in play.” However, he got a “low fast ball,” and at the crack of the bat everyone in the stadium knew the game was over. It was a foregone conclusion that the ball would clear the left field fence with plenty of room to spare, for a walk-off home run to send the Flucos to the final.

Critzer had quite a State playoff run. In three games, he was 6-8 at the plate with five walks. He had two home runs – one a game winner. In the crucial semifinal game, he scored three of the Flucos’ five runs. He was also steady and reliable behind the game for all the innings of every game. Groome was the defensive standout against Brentsville, as he made outstanding plays at third base in the first inning and the sixth to shut down rallies by the Tigers.

Men's member-guest tournament ends in soaking rain

Mark Marshall, Boston Craddock and Eric Parlet. Photos by Deborah Nixon.

The shootout to determine the overall winner in the Lake Monticello men's member-guest golf tournament started in a light drizzle and five rounds later ended in a soaking rain.

The member-guest, which is one of the biggest tournaments on the Lake golf calendar, is played on the second weekend in June (June 8-9 this year). Thirty two-man teams play in five flights. Each team plays five nine-hole matches, once against each team in its flight. In each nine-hole match, one point is awarded per hole for the best score on the hole on a gross score basis and on a net score basis. The team in each flight with the highest overall point total qualifies for the shootout to determine the tournament's overall winner.

This year the team of Eric Parlet and Boston Craddock won the overall title. Their win might be considered appropriate as they were the lowest handicapped team in the tournament. However, their win was far from a foregone conclusion. The shootout is always an exciting conclusion to the tournament. Golf pro Mark Marshall takes the five flight winning teams to the 18th hole and all 10 players shoot to the green from a designated distance. This requires a shot over the small pond that guards the front of the green.

This year, the best score of the two players on each team was the determining factor as to who qualified for the next round. As it turned out, a three by either player moved his team to the next round. Two fours put a team out, and it took a two to win.

In each round, a number of players hit the green with their first shot, but no one could make a two. The pin was in the middle of the green, but in a difficult position because of the significant slopes in the 18th green. In the fifth round, Eric Parlet (the member in his twosome) put his first shot on the green, but well short of the hole. In the first four rounds, a number of players had missed from considerably closer to the hole. Parlet, however, fired a deadly putt that won the title for his team.

Because of its format the member-guest has quite a few winning teams. In each flight of six teams there is a winner of gross points and a winner of net points. If a team has the most points in both categories it wins the gross points prize only and the team with the second most net points wins the net points prize. In the first flight, the Augusta flight, the gross score winners were Parlet and Craddock. The net score winners were Kyle Gravitt and Donald Gravitt. The Gravitt team won the overall title in 2018. However, the Parlet and Craddock team went to the shootout on the most overall points criteria.

In the second flight, the Bethpage Black flight, the gross point winners were Bill Russo and Jack Leidich. The net score winners were Stan Leap and Karl Cooper. Russo and Leidich went to the shootout from this flight. In the third flight, the Pebble Beach flight, the winners in the gross points competition were Mitch Morehart and Matthew Shane. The winners in the net points competition were John Miller and Andrew Mundell. Miller and Mundell went to the shootout from flight three. In the fourth flight, the Royal Portrush flight, the gross point winners were Dan Atkinson and Gerard Kiernan. The net points winners were Joel and Craig Dwyer. Atkinson and Kiernan had the most overall points so they went to the shootout. In the fifth flight, the Sawgrass flight, Phil Scott, Sr., and Phil Scott, Jr., won the gross point competition, while Bill Hardin and Ricky Johnson were best in net points. The Scott team went to the shootout.

Interestingly, this tournament proves that handicaps can pretty accurately predict results. The gross points competition is based on the actual scores recorded, so the team with the lowest overall handicap in each flight would be expected to win their flight's gross point competition. In four of the five flights this is what happened. An 80 percent successful prediction of results is impressive in any sport.

Prizes were also awarded for longest drives and closest to the pin. The only winner in these contests not named above was Brian Zelasky, who won one of the longest drive competitions. Other longest drive winners were Leidich and Parlet. Closest to the pin winners were Craddock, Mundell, Atkinson and Leap.

After a decent day on Saturday, Marshall noted that he feared that the second day's play might have to be cancelled due to a persistent Scottish mist all morning. However, the players persisted and got the two nine-hole rounds in. Ironically, the rain stopped while the players moved inside for lunch and the awards ceremony for flight winners. When the flight winners returned to the course the rain returned and just kept getting worse as the playoff rounds continued.

Sharks swim strong against Division 1 team

The Sharks of the Lake Monticello Swim Team (LMST) kicked off their 2019 summer swim season Wednesday evening (June 12). The Sharks participated in an unscored away meet against Division 1 team ACAC. The Division 2 Sharks had a strong showing.

The Sharks kicked off the meet racing in eight different 200-meter medley relays, in which each of four swimmers on a relay team swims 50 meters of a different stroke. LMST has an amazing group of swimmers this season and in the boys and girls 13-14 age group, those two relay teams both took home first place wins. Likewise, in the boys and girls 15-18 age group, those relay teams also took home two first place wins.

The team also competed in 25-, 50- and 100-meter races which included freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke and butterfly. This was the first time for many of the kids in a 50-meter pool and the swimmers gave it their all. In addition to the four medley relay wins, the Sharks brought home an additional 12 first place victories.

This was also the first time for many of the swimmers to experience swimming in a competitive meet. Head Coach Sito Arroyo, along with his coaching staff, praised the team, saying, "We're very proud of our swimmers for how well they did in the meet versus ACAC this week. They showed us their great sportsmanship and team spirit. We're looking forward to a fun and successful meet next week!"

Each week the LMST coaches select one male and one female swimmer of the week.

This is a swimmer who the coaches feel has exemplified great character that week in the form of sportsmanship, dedication, hard work, encouragement, perseverance, respect and helpfulness to the coaches and their teammates. The coaching staff would like to congratulate the Swimmers of the Week for week one: Jacob Ondek and Emmy Graves.

"Jacob is one of the lane leaders at the 8-9 p.m. practice," said Arroyo. "He can often be seen encouraging the younger swimmers behind the blocks. He listens very well and does his best at every practice, even when they get challenging. The LMST coaching staff can always count on Jacob to show up to practice with a positive attitude and a smile on his face. Emmy is a new swimmer in the 11-12 age group who always comes to practice with a smile on her face and a positive attitude. Emmy listens to her coaches very well and looks for ways to improve by asking her coaches what she needs to work on and if she is doing the stroke correctly."

Shark families and coaches are looking forward to continuing with an exciting season schedule, which included a meet against Glenmore Country Club Tornadoes on Wednesday (June 19). LMST swims its first home meet of the season at the brand new LMOA pool against the City of Charlottesville Swordfish next Wednesday (June 26). Come on out to the "Shark Tank" and cheer on your LMST Sharks!

The Fluvanna Aquatics Sports Team (FAST) kicked off the 2019 summer swim season with a tri-meet against the Elks and the Louisa Gators at Louisa's aquatic facilities Wednesday (June 12) at 6 p.m. It was a rainy and cool night for a swim meet, but FAST swimmers, coaches and families warmed things up by donning aloha shirts and leis in support of the team's Hawaiian theme.

As the first meet of the season, it was unscored, thus giving new swimmers and families a chance to experience how a meet operates and to prepare them for the remainder of the season. FAST's returning coaching staff of Head Coach Nate Johnson and Assistant Coaches Anna Hurdle, Brennan King, Michael DiFazio and Emma DiFazio helped swimmers navigate their first night of competition and guided them to a successful finish of the fast-paced meet.

Swimming in their first-ever swim meet, 6-year-old twin brothers Levi and Paxton Strickland each successfully completed the boys 6-and-under 25-yard backstroke and 25-yard freestyle events. Levi showed his strength with a second place finish in the freestyle, while Paxton clinched second in the backstroke. Johnson said that the boys only began learning to swim three weeks ago, and are such naturals in the pool that they have quickly moved out of lessons, onto the team and into winning form at the meet. "They had awesome first swims and I can't wait to see what is to come for them," he added.

Also competing for the first time was 6-year-old Ryan Birkhead, who has spent the last few years cheering from the pool deck for her older brother. Ryan made her meet debut with second place finishes in both the girls 6-and-under 25-yard backstroke and 25-yard freestyle. Johnson pointed out how calm, cool and level-headed she remained at the meet. He noted that first meets are often anxiety-inducing, particularly for younger swimmers, but said, "Ryan was ready to hop in and swim her hardest."

When asked if there was one swimmer who stood out for the night, Johnson quickly named 14-year-old Jackson Kinsella. According to Johnson, Jackson worked exceptionally hard over the winter swim season. "His hard work is paying dividends in the form of amazing swimming and dramatic transformation of his physique," Johnson said. "His 100-yard freestyle was amazing to watch." Jackson swam the Boys 13-14 100-yard freestyle in an impressive 1:00:38, a 4.72 second drop since last summer. Jackson is also recognized by the other swimmers and parents for being kind and supportive of the entire team.

Overall, Johnson expressed his satisfaction with how everyone swam. "All our swimmers, both new and returning, gave it their all and performed well," Johnson said. "First meets have a habit of being chaotic, but our swimmers did an excellent job of staying focused and performing their best. I look forward to a successful and fun season."

FAST hosted the Culpeper Country Club at Fairview Swim Club on Wednesday (June 19) and will host the Elks at their pool Tuesday (June 25).

RETURN TO THE RUINS

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE'S

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

JULY 12TH - 27TH

AT THE HISTORIC BARBOURSVILLE RUINS
 DIRECTED BY LYDIA UNDERWOOD HORAN

The beloved, nationally acclaimed SHAKESPEARE AT THE RUINS collaboration between Four County Players & Barboursville Vineyards returns—after 13 years—for a special one-time production.

Make plans now to join us for a truly magical show under the stars, featuring delicious Barboursville wines, local food trucks, and a top-notch production of A Midsummer Night's Dream—all to be on-site in the beautiful Barboursville Vineyards, at the historic ruins of Governor James Barbour's mansion, designed by Thomas Jefferson and destroyed by fire on Christmas Day, 1894.

*On a midsummer's night, four young lovers find themselves wrapped in the dream-like arms of an enchanted forest where sprites lurk and fairies rule. While a feuding Fairy King and Queen are at war, their paths are crossed by Bottom, Quince and their friends presenting a play within a play. Chief mischief-maker Puck is on-hand to ensure that the course of true love is anything but smooth, and games of fantasy, love and dreams ensue in Shakespeare's most beguiling comedy. All performances will be held at the Historic Barboursville Ruins
 July 12, 13, 18, 19, 20, 25, 26, 27
 Gates open at 5:30PM
 Pre-show entertainment at 6PM
 Show begins at 7PM

visit www.fourcp.org for event information, picnics, and policies.

$20/ticket, general admission. Tickets may be purchased online or through the Box Office. $15/ticket, groups of 10 or more. Group sales must go directly through the Box Office. Once 300 seats are sold to a performance, we will release a block of standing-room-only tickets (no guarantee of a seat) for $15/person. These will be released on the day of the performance, and are available only at the door.
