Pool cost rises to $1.4 million

BY HEATHER MICHON
CORRESPONDENT

The cost of Lake Monticello's pool replacement has risen from $900,000 to $1,399,265.

In a special session Wednesday afternoon (Aug. 15), the Lake Monticello Board of Directors unanimously approved a contract with J.A. Heisler Contracting for the project, which is scheduled to begin as soon as this year's pool season ends in early September.

During the meeting, Contracts Manager Angie Cook and several of the directors cited the high cost of ADA compliance, demolition, concrete removal, and the construction of a new equipment room as the main causes of the increased cost.

Keeping the pool in the same location also drove up costs. "We were originally going to move the pool towards the parking lot to save money on site work," General Manager Steve Hurwitz said in an email Sunday night.

Lake Monticello Owners' Association decided in early 2017 to replace the pool following an inspection in late 2016 that found "literally hundreds of potential leaks" in the pool's liner and other critical structural and plumbing issues.

With the help of Timmons Group, a Charlottesville-based engineering firm, they unveiled a preliminary design for a new pool facility in a series of town hall-style meetings in March 2017.

The budget for the project was set at $900,000. In June 2017, members approved a $100-per-household special assessment and permission to withdraw up to $434,000 from the emergency reserve account (ERA).

The decision to keep the pool in its current location was made in the fall of 2017 on the recommendation of Timmons Group, due to the higher costs of new permitting, excavation, and other financial and logistical factors.

But keeping it in the same place also turned out to have a higher-than-anticipated cost. Hurwitz said the directors approved an additional $200,000 from the major repairs and replacement (MR&R) fund, bringing the budget to $1.1 million, late last year.

Timmons Group prequalified six companies to bid on the project, and three companies ended up submitting bids. "We did not know in advance [the bids] would come in higher," said Hurwitz.

The pool itself will cost $700,000, which Cook said was in line with Timmons' original estimates. The rest, Hurwitz explained, is "the general contractor's cost for demolition, site work, concrete, fencing, and equipment rental." Timmons Group will receive around $100,000 for their work on the project, including $22,000 recently approved by the directors for redesign work.

Residents will not be asked to pay more out-of-pocket. An additional $425,000 will come out of MR&R and the short-term operating funds account (STOFA).

Under the contract, the pool is to be finalized by April 1, 2019, and open on May 1, 2019. The directors noted the contract has stiff penalties if the project goes over the timeline, costing the general contractor $500 a day for every day of work past April 1, and $2,000 a day if drags on past May 1.

Teacher defends School Board chair's controversial comments

CONTRIBUTED BY JESSICA JACKSON
FLUVANNA COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS TEACHER

Editor's note: The following editorial is in response to a story that ran in last week's edition entitled, "Firestorm lit at School Board meeting."

I am a teacher in Fluvanna County Public Schools and have been for many years. I do not understand why some School Board members (Shirley Stewart and Brenda Pace) were upset by Chair Perrie Johnson's comments at an Aug. 2 staff breakfast.

At that breakfast, Johnson said thank you to teachers, called them heroes and explained why she is on the School Board. Many leaders who are addressing new employees or a new work cycle often explain their motivations for being in their leadership position. I have heard several Fluvanna School Board chairs and superintendents begin a school year by stating their personal reasons for serving. Johnson did the same thing. So what is the problem? Johnson did nothing out of the ordinary. She never stated she spoke for the whole board. She said "I."

It takes commitment to the education of students to retire and still choose to work to make the schools better. Johnson demonstrates that commitment. It takes courage to say that there are things that are good and there are things that need to change. Johnson is courageous.

I wonder if those School Board members who were so upset with Johnson's comments even took the time to ask Johnson why she quit and try to understand her reasons.

I have known Johnson for several years. She is a person of integrity. She is a very caring individual. She only wants what is best for students, employees and parents. I believe that whatever Johnson's reasons were that led to her leaving her job as a teacher, she gave careful consideration before she left. She did what she felt would enable her to have a bigger impact on the lives of students.

Thursday (Aug. 16) during lunch, I saw Johnson at my school helping with lunch duty, not because she had to, nor because it was teacher appreciation week, but because she wanted to serve students and teachers.

Every time she visits our school, she says thank you to individual staff members and asks if there is anything she can do.

It is difficult to understand why some board members feel there needs to be a memo written by Superintendent Chuck Winkler to teachers. I agree with Carolyn Ley, who responded during the School Board meeting to the complaints about Johnson's comments. I think they were petty.

I really hope that the School Board does not vote for Winkler to send us teachers a letter restating the mission, beliefs and strategic priorities of the School Board. Our principals review those with us every year. To have Winkler create a letter would be a waste of time, paper and money.

Perhaps there needs to be time spent trying to build better relationships on the School Board. Pace said she does not feel she is working on a board. Perhaps she can spend some time trying to create a board that feels like a board to her. She has been on the School Board eight years. Surely, she would know how to work with other board members to make it feel like a board.

I am glad Johnson is on the School Board. I believe she is a blessing to Fluvanna schools. Her comments were hers, and I took no offence to them. Nor did I take offence to the other Fluvanna superintendents, supervisors and School Board chairmen who stated their motivations for serving.

Hello, my name is Sadie!

I am approximately 5 years old. I am FIV positive and front paw declawed, so I would need to be an indoor kitty only. I get cranky when I am around other cats. ## LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor's note: Some of the following letters are in response to an editorial called "Defending our profession" by publisher Carlos Santos that ran in last week's edition.

Mainstream media deserves criticism

I agree with President Trump's criticism of the press. When the national news media's coverage of Trump is arguably 90 percent negative you can't then proclaim the press is playing it down the middle – just the facts ma'am. Because of Trump's criticism, people are taking a closer look at what is being said, on both sides. The problem the press has is the people are starting to see the bias. I don't have any issue with the Fluvanna Review, but this editorial was sanctimonious virtue signaling. An attack on one of us is an attack on all of us? No. The mainstream media deserves to be called out on their hypocrisy. And Carlos Santos needs to be called out on his.

Ted Schjoth
Lake Monticello

Are Trump's programs working?

In 1987 a very large consumer products company brought in a new CEO. He was rarely seen by anyone for two weeks so when he called a meeting of all 150 corporate employees, it was an anxious moment. He walked into the room, introduced himself and gave a very short talk that consisted of two sentences. "Next week half of you will no longer be employed by the company. Then when I find a computer program to replace the rest of you, you will be gone. Have a nice day." Even though we had a CEO that most people said was crazy, he turned the company around and became the largest company in its industry.

In 2016 the people of the United States hired a CEO just like that one. Seemingly erratic, but in reality, very focused; knowing exactly what he wants to accomplish.

Here are the facts of Trump's accomplishments:

- Approval rating among black Americans at 36 percent:
<https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/politics/onpolitics/2018/08/16/trump-approval-rating-african-americans-rasmussen-poll/1013212002/>
- Dow Jones Industrial Average on Friday, Aug. 18 was 25669:
<https://quotes.wsj.com/index/DJIA>
- 4.1 percent annual GDP growth rate in July. Job gains of 224,000 per month for four months:

<https://money.cnn.com/2018/08/03/news/companies/july-jobs-report/index.html>

- Tax revenues up 9.1 percent due to tax cuts:

<https://www.investors.com/politics/editorials/income-tax-revenues-trump-tax-cuts-economic-growth/>

- Mexico is close to signing new NAFTA agreement:

<https://www.nytimes.com/2018/08/17/us/politics/nafta-canada-mexico.html>

- The U.S. is the world leader in oil and gas production and in the reduction of carbon emissions under Trump policies:

<https://www.forbes.com/sites/jef-fmcMahon/2018/07/04/four-new-ways-america-is-number-one-in-energy/#69491e46e150>

You might not like Trump's brash style, but you should like the results he is producing. The assertions made in recent letters to the editor by Julius Neelley and George Coussoulos are without merit and are distortions of the record of our president and have no basis in reality.

Robert Harris
Lake Monticello

Dystopian world approaches

Today's crisis of irrational political one-upmanship is dangerously unpredictable. In this age of the manufactured crisis such as the nuclear arms race, we witness the rise of ruthless and immoral leaders using the extreme polarization of ideology and wealth to their advantage.

Currently we do not live in George Orwell's dystopian world where propaganda slogans shouted "War is peace," "Freedom is slavery," and "Ignorance is strength." However, we have come very close. During the Vietnam War U.S. planes bombed the town of Ben Tre and our military applied the slogan, "We had to destroy the village in order to save it." The United States tenuously remains a democracy but has stepped to the edge of demagoguery more than once. Example: President Richard Nixon believed that when a president broke a law it was acceptable because the office of the president was exempt from accountability. During an interview with David Frost, Nixon actually said these words: "Well, when the president does it, that means that it is not illegal," believing that he was above the law while in office. I suspect that President Donald Trump is nearing his own fateful encounter with reality.

I'd prefer to gaze into a crystal ball for a moment despite the mounting chaos. Here's a possible conclusion to this sorry state of affairs in our nation's capital. Trump will be impeached. Every member of the U.S. Congress will utter a collective sigh of relief. U.S. Marshals will drag Trump from the White House foaming at the mouth and haul him off to his gold fortress in New York City. President Pence will immediately pardon Trump to put the nightmare behind us. The stock market will soar. After 17 years of war in Afghanistan, the United States will declare victory. Rising tides of plastic trash will inundate our southeastern coastline. And Americans will sleep more soundly at night with a profound belief that the truth is not the truth. It just seems that way some of the time.

Julius Neelley
Lake Monticello

Santos' editorial applauded

We, the undersigned, are very proud of the Fluvanna Review's publisher, Carlos Santos, in expressing his heartfelt concern about the future of press freedom in the United States and the impact that President Trump has had on the hallowed institution of our constitutionally protected rights to free expression through the media.

His calm expression of concern and his admonition to our president to "lead the country and to a degree to inform our American culture" may fall on deaf ears, but it must be said in the current climate so prevalent in this county today. His was a positive statement about one of our fundamental rights as citizens. He is also correct in stating that although Mr. Trump's attacks have generally been against the national media "the unfair characterizations filter down to the smaller daily and weekly newspapers."

We applaud Mr. Santos' articulate and badly needed defense of his own profession and our rights as citizens. He stated "Untruths are the enemy of the people. The media...is one of the pillars of our society." We could not agree more.

Is this America or the Gulag?

Kudos to George Coussoulos for his insightful letter entitled, "Is this America?" A few days after I read it I saw an article in the Washington Post that made me ponder the same question again. It was titled, "ICE detained man driving wife to hospital." The event took place in California as a husband and wife drove to a hospital for a scheduled Caesarian section for the birth of their fifth child.

The couple stopped for gas in San Bernardino. Two vehicles immediately flanked them and asked for ID. The woman showed hers, but the husband apparently left his at home in the rush to go to the hospital. The agents took the husband away in handcuffs leaving a sobbing nine-month pregnant wife who then drove herself to the hospital.

Is this America, or are we living in the Gulag?

Man sentenced in unusual DUI case

BY HEATHER MICHON
CORRESPONDENT

A Greene County man was sentenced in Fluvanna County Circuit Court Friday afternoon (Aug. 17) after pleading guilty to an unusual DUI charge.

Commonwealth's Attorney Jeff Haislip told Judge Richard E. Moore that Jason Scott Breeden, 44, was pulled over by Sergeant Stephen Proffitt of the Fluvanna County Sheriff's Office after he was spotted making an illegal U-turn in front of E.W. Thomas on Route 15 at around 10:15 on the night of Dec. 8, 2017.

Breeden smelled of alcohol and was clearly disoriented, with a half-empty bottle of rum in the backseat of the car. After "a very awkward few moments" trying to pass a field sobriety test and portable Breathalyzer, he was placed under arrest. Later that night, he was taken to the University of Virginia Medical Center and was found to have a blood alcohol content (BAC) of 0.373.

"This is the highest BAC I believe I've seen," said Haislip. "Mr. Breeden has to be a very seasoned alcoholic."

Experts say that a blood alcohol level in the 0.250-0.399 percent range is life-threatening. A BAC of 0.40 or above can lead to coma and death from respiratory failure.

Breeden's attorney, James Cooke, told the judge that it was amazing Breeden had been as functional as he was that night. "That's not really meant as a defense," he added. "More of an observation."

While he did not contest the Commonwealth's evidence, he noted that Breeden had been attending Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) and receiving counseling at Region Ten since the incident.

"I've had to fight this for a very long time," Breeden told the judge, describing periods of sobriety broken by serious relapses. "It's pretty much wrecked my life."

"It's not the tenth drink, it's the first drink," Moore observed.

"Yes, sir, that's right," Breeden responded.

Moore was sympathetic to the progress Breeden has made since his arrest, but said, "You can never drink and drive without risking killing someone."

He added that, over his years on the bench, he's seen many alcoholics and drug users think that, because nothing bad happened when they drove under the influence, there was no risk.

From a public safety standpoint, though, every time someone drives under the influence, "You went out and attempted manslaughter. You just weren't successful," he said.

Moore sentenced Breeden to 12 months, with all but 90 days suspended, along with five years on good behavior, during which time he is prohibited from possessing or consuming alcohol. He also suspended Breeden's license for a period of 12 months and ordered him to report to the Alcohol Safety Action Program (ASAP).

"I want you to do better," Moore said. "You are doing better."

Harlowe honored with electric co-op leadership award

BY MADELINE OTTEN

Hard work and dedication has paid off for Fluvanna resident Roberta Harlowe, who was awarded the 2018 Electric Co-operative Leadership Award from the Virginia, Maryland & Delaware Association of Electric Cooperatives (VMDAEC) on July 23 in Hot Springs. The recipient of this award is recognized as an outstanding co-op leader within the three-state region.

"I was breathless and speechless when I received the award," said Harlowe. "It was a complete surprise. I feel incredibly honored for the recognition and deeply appreciate the many kind words and accolades from all across the family of electric cooperatives."

Harlowe was the second woman to receive this award and was honored for her devoted service and leadership. She was praised for her time as chair of the VMD Education Scholarship committee, which provided more than $500,000 in scholarship assistance to over 500 high school seniors, and her service as chair of the association's Educational Services Committee.

"Her leadership as chair of the scholarship fund has moved that foundation to a success that few people could have imagined," wrote Jackson E. Reasor, retired CEO of Old Dominion Electric Cooperative.

Harlowe's time with Central Virginia Electric Cooperative (CVEC) began 35 years ago when she was the first woman elected to the Board of Directors. Harlowe got started with CVEC through an invitation to consider a new opening position on the board. After her visit, she realized that serving on the board was going to be a great way to help members in Fluvanna County and throughout the entire CVEC service area.

The challenges of educating herself with the work of the co-op, the needs of the community, and the different facets of the electrical business and the membership did not hold Harlowe back.

"Roberta has been an integral part of our cooperative's success," said Gary Wood, CEO and president of CVEC. "She is recognized by many to be a dedicated and effective leader. Roberta is someone that you want in the room when important matters are on the table."

During her time with CVEC, Harlowe took advantage of the opportunities and leadership roles within the company. Her first step was in 1995 when she was elected vice chair. Overall she has served as vice chair for three terms, chair for two terms, board secretary, and currently as board treasurer. She has also been active on several committees with CVEC and VMDAEC.

"It really is an incredible experience. I love working with the board members from different parts of the CVEC service area and talking about the needs of the members and communities. When we come together as board members, we come to make one decision for the entire membership," said Harlowe.

In addition to being held in high esteem by her peers on the CVEC Board of Directors, her work through the statewide association has impacted many more people in the three-state region. Harlowe's efforts drew the attention of leaders outside of CVEC who wrote letters of recommendation for her to receive the leadership award.

Del. Rob Bell (R-Albemarle) of the 58th District wrote, "Mrs. Harlowe has modeled servant leadership for her community and fellow board members for over 35 years."

Before joining CVEC, Harlowe helped her husband, Bill, found Harlowe Auction, which enabled them to travel around the world through their clients. She also served as choir director for Beaver Dam Baptist Church and regional representative for the Christian Woman's Club.

Harlowe grew up in Charlottesville but relocated to Fluvanna County 55 years ago. She and her husband have two children, who have also made homes in Fluvanna County, and four grandchildren. When Harlowe is not serving on the board, she can be found reading or cooking, especially trying out new recipes.

CVEC serves more than 36,000 homes, farms and businesses in the rural portions of 14 counties, including Fluvanna, Albemarle, Amherst, Appomattox, Augusta, Buckingham, Campbell, Cumberland, Goochland, Greene, Louisa, Nelson, Orange and Prince Edward. It was formed in 1937 and is a member-owned, not-for-profit electric utility company.

Lynn Fairchild Martin

It is with great sadness that the family announces Lynn's passing on Aug. 1, 2018, after a long battle with cancer at the age of 51. She lived in Lynchburg, but grew up as a teenager at Lake Monticello, and graduated from Fluvanna County High School in 1984. Lynn was born Sept. 8, 1966. Preceding her in death was her father, William "Bill" Fairchild, her grandparents, and beloved Perry Karnes.

She was devoted to her children, Kelsey Murphy and her husband Ryan, and Charles "Chip" Martin, Jr. She is also survived by her mother, Connie Fairchild; her brother, Chris Fairchild; niece, Kayla Fairchild and her children; nephew, Hunter Fairchild and his wife Robin; as well as aunts, uncles, and cousins, and her best friend, Cheryl Key, and her children.

Lynn had a wealth of political information, with a statewide network of friends. She attended Virginia Tech where she studied international relations, electrical engineering, and computer science. She was a graduate of the Jennifer Byler Institute and a 2011 graduate of the Sorensen Institute for Political Leadership. She was very active in local and state political campaigns, having helped numerous officials being elected to public office. Lynn was a supporter of the Lynchburg Chamber of Commerce; the Lynchburg Historical Foundation; the Lynchburg Sports Club; and was an avid supporter of transportation and caring for fur babies/pets statewide. Lynn was co-founder and past president of Central Virginia Republican Women, and participated in "We the People," helping educate young people on our constitution. She recently had been honored on Flag Day in Lynchburg, with special recognition from Gov.

Bob McDonnell, Gov. George Allen, and Lt. Gov. Bill Bolling. Gov. Allen stated, "You have been an especially loyal friend and energetic leader in the arduous campaigns of so many public servants – with steadfast loyalty and dedication to all that is wholesome and good in our Commonwealth of Virginia and country," and Lt. Gov. Bill Bolling stated, "In politics these days there are a lot of people who want to be involved and recognized, but there are few people who are really willing to roll up their shirt sleeves and do the hard work of freedom. Lynn is one of those people – in all of Virginia, we had no better friend."

Lynn may be gone, but her outgoing personality and love for people will live on through her children and her many friends. She will especially be remembered for her spirit of adventure and her "groovy" personality. She will be sadly missed by family, friends, and her many fur babies.

A Celebration of Life was held Aug. 12, 2018, in Lynchburg at Heritage Baptist Church.

Mother Stanton shines at 100 years old

BY SUE A. MILES

When you walk into Mother Stanton's quaint home on a dead-end road in Buckingham's Stanton Town, one of the first things you see is a wood stove. Resting for the summer, it represents a long-ago era when such stoves produced delicious food while heating the home. For Mother Stanton, that era still exists, as she refuses to give it up.

Known as "Mother Stanton" to all in her community, Edith Marie Stanton can do anything she wants because she recently turned 100. She's the boss. No argument.

Born in the Gravel Hill area in 1918, Mother Stanton lives in the same house she and her husband built in 1939. Slim and petite, her head covered in a colorful scarf, and with long elegant hands, Mother Stanton reigns with dignity and grace. And at 100, don't assume she's feeble and forgetful. She has her full faculties, washes and irons her clothes, goes to church every Sunday, and is loved and revered by all in her community.

One of four children born to Martha Francis Lee and John Alger Scruggs, Stanton can share many years of memories. Stanton would walk to school with her siblings and remembers, vividly, her 12 | FLUVANNA REVIEW Aug. 23, 2018 first book – Baby Ray. Attending what was known as the Jones School until the sixth grade, Stanton began working in the fields for different farmers in the area. "I got paid 50 cents a day," she said. "Twenty-five cents if it was a half day."

A true beauty, Stanton married Joseph Stanton at the age of 22. "I only wanted one man," she said. "We went to Buckingham Courthouse to get married." After the wedding, they came to Stanton Town where she has been living ever since. The couple had three children, all at home. No hospital for this lady – she's only been in once in her life. The only health issues that bother her are her legs and a bit of arthritis. "My legs hurt sometimes," she said.

Longevity is not that common in Mother Stanton's family. "My father ran a saw mill and was killed in an accident when he was young," said Stanton. "My mother lived to be 45 and died of a ruptured appendix." And her husband, who worked at the slate quarry, died at the kitchen table of a massive heart attack 13 years ago.

During her adult life, Mother Stanton worked hard. "We raised chickens and hogs," she said. "We also had a milk cow and a big garden."

What has led Mother Stanton throughout her life is her faith. When asked how she managed to live so long, she immediately responded, "The good Lord. I got my religion when I was 11 years old and I've been 'shouting' ever since. When I say I got religion, I don't mean being religious but filled by the Holy Spirit." A lifelong member of Baptist Union Baptist Church, Mother Stanton has attended every Sunday, sitting in the exact same place – third seat from the front. Over the many years she has become known as the hat lady for her Sunday apparel, which always includes a spectacular hat.

To this day, she has never driven a car. "I ain't a going person," she said. "Been like that all my life." When running her home, Mother Stanton would venture to Dillwyn to Poole's, Davis Store, and Fred William's grocery store. She still has her first and only dryer bought from Poole's. Now she's content to be at home and let her family and neighbors bring her whatever she needs. That's doesn't mean she's idle. "As long as I'm on my feet I'm going to do something," she said. That includes fixing dinner, washing the dishes, cleaning, and staying up until 11 p.m. after reading a bit, watching Wheel of Fortune and hopefully some preaching on TV.

She's hesitant to offer advice to young people. "If you try to tell people something they'll say I didn't ask you anything. I don't want to hear it," she said. "I try to treat everybody right. I don't care how good you treat some people, they just don't want to hear it. I pray for them. Ask God to help them. I don't have anything against anybody. Thank God for that. I see a lot of people sit down and talk about each other. If I've got something to say about you, I'll tell you. We be sitting around talking. I don't want to hear about what happened the other night. If I've got something to say about you, I'll tell you."

Which brings us back to that wood stove. Seems that Mother Stanton won't let it be removed from the house. "I love it in the winter time," she said. She does have an electric stove but noted its limitations. "When you come in the stove's hot, but you're cold. Can't say that about a wood stove." She also loves chicken wings and salted lake herring, chocolate cake and sweet potato pie.

Along with many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, Mother Stanton is cared for by her son, her neighbors, and her church family. Many consider her a beacon of light and revere her. In June her church family, friends, and relatives celebrated her 100th birthday at Baptist First Baptist. People traveled from all over the country to celebrate her longevity. Hymns were sung and senators and other dignitaries sent her letters of congratulations. It was indeed a great event for a great lady.

High school educator reflects on teaching art

BY PAGE H. GIFFORD

Fluvanna County High School (FCHS) art teacher, Michelle Coleman, knew at the age of 13 in seventh grade that art would be her destiny.

"I decided then that I wanted to be just like my art teacher when I grew up," she said. "I took every art class I could get my hands on in high school and even took private art lessons throughout high school as well. I never changed my mind."

Originally from New Jersey, she got her associate's degree at a community college before transferring to Radford University and completing her bachelor's in art education. After being hired at FCHS, she pursued her master's of arts in history and culture from Union Institute and University. Once former high school art teacher Diane Greenwood retired, Coleman stepped up from behind to fill her shoes, continuing to do what she dreamed of doing: inspiring art students the way she had been inspired.

The artists who influenced her include Andy Warhol, Georgia O'Keeffe and Keith Haring.

"I am drawn to pop art, bold colors, graphic styles, pop culture, and repetition," she said. For that reason she follows the work of contemporary artists like Ryan McGinnis, Banksy, Shepard Fairey and Khinde Wiley. All of them display their styles in different ways but stay true to bold graphics, like McGinnis, or art deco influence in the graphic prints by Fairey, or the offbeat style of Wiley seen in his recent portrait of former President Barack Obama.

"I am drawn to work that focuses on our culture and popular subjects," she said. Most are familiar with the semi-abstract work of O'Keeffe and Warhol, the father of pop art, but Haring features much of the political symbolism and repetitive patterns in his graffiti-like work, painted in bold comic book colors that Coleman favors.

Her influence is seen in the work of her students. Students who were strong in this spring's art show were those who featured a bold graphic style and statement in their work. Rather than savoring solitude and self-discovery on her own, she has chosen to mentor others in their projects. She transmits her passion and concepts to a younger generation, sharing the joy of exploring the creative mind and, with practice, mastering skills to get to the next level.

Regarding her favorite mediums, she said, "I enjoy using collage, watercolor, and acrylic paint. I especially enjoy mixed media works because I don't have to settle on just one media and I can add a lot of texture." Watercolor was a preferred medium among many of her students.

"I want my students to learn to appreciate art, see its usefulness and its place in our world as well as understand that art is everywhere they turn. Sometimes when students think of art, they think of famous art hanging in galleries," Coleman said. For this reason, she teaches them to look at things differently and to incorporate art into their environment. "I want them to understand that the things they enjoy: video games, clothing, posters, graphics on their phones, album covers, TV shows, sneakers, even their cereal boxes, are all works of art. Everything is influenced by it and everything borrows from it."

She added that the concepts she teaches her students will likely influence the decisions they will make as they venture off as adults, such as recycling, layout, balance, keeping tools clean, safety and knowing how to use tools properly.

"Aesthetic ideals are part of human nature, and art makes it possible," she said.

Fluco golfers start season strong

BY DUNCAN NIXON

The high school golf season starts and ends early in the fall. The Fluco football team has yet to play a regular season game. However, the golf team's season is more than half over. Coach Bryan Searcy said that his team started the season with two warm-up multi-team tournaments over in the valley. On Aug. 1 the Flucos played on the Lakeview course in a tournament hosted by Spotswood High School. On Aug. 3 the Flucos played on the Ironwood course in a tournament hosted by Fort Defiance High School.

On Aug. 8 the Fluco golfers traveled to the Birdwood golf course for the first of two Jefferson District tournaments. Searcy was happy to report that the Flucos finished in a very respectable third place in this tournament. Junior Justin Werner was the top finisher for the Flucos at the District event.

The Flucos' first dual meet against a Jefferson District foe was scheduled to be played Aug. 13, with the Flucos hosting the Monticello High Mustangs. The first foursome teed off at 4:30 p.m., and only completed two holes of the scheduled nine-hole match. Searcy then blew the horn indicating that a thunder and lightning storm was rolling into the area. Just as the players were returning to the Lake Monticello course cart barn, the skies opened up and serious rain began to fall. After waiting out the brief but intense rain, the coaches reviewed the radar and determined that thunder and lightning were likely to continue for the rest of the daylight hours, so play was ended and the teams agreed to consult on a rescheduling sometime in September.

Searcy said that he has 11 student athletes on his squad this season. Dual matches are normally played with six contestants per team. The top four scores are added to establish a team score and, of course, the low score wins. Contestants play every hole to conclusion and all putts must be holed. Players walk the course, with male competitors playing from the regular men's tees and female competitors playing from the regular ladies' tees (the white and red tees on the Lake Monticello course).

For the match against Monticello High School the Fluco's six competitors were Justin Werner at number one, senior Jack Kershner at number two, sophomore Jarred Williams at number three, junior Maggie Wentz at number four, junior Caleb Vickers at number five, and junior Ethan Smialek at number six. Kershner is the only senior on the team, so Searcy has a young squad this year. Golf is a co-ed sport and two of the Fluco competitors are females.

On Aug. 16 the Flucos traveled to Orange County to take on the Hornets on their course. On Aug 20 they traveled to William Monroe, and on Aug. 21 they hosted Charlottesville. On Aug. 23 the Powhatan Indians will be at the Lake Monticello course. The season ends on Sept. 17 with a second District match hosted by Western Albemarle High. In contrast, the Fluco football team does not play its first Jefferson District opponent until Sept. 21.

Justin Werner prepares to shoot.

Rivanna River debris removal to begin this week

Crofton boat ramp and parking lot closed to traffic for up to three weeks

PRESS RELEASE

A contractor with the Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) has begun mobilizing equipment to remove the large debris pile near the Route 600 (South Boston Road) bridge over the Rivanna River.

Crews will access the debris pile via the Crofton boat ramp. The parking lot and boat ramp are closed to all traffic and will remain closed during the work, which is expected to take up to three weeks. Route 600 will remain open during the work.

VDOT has coordinated the closure with the Department of Game and Inland Fisheries (DGIF) and is working with DGIF officials and the Rivanna Conservation Alliance to place signage upstream to warn boaters and paddlers of the debris.

The work is necessary to avoid significant bridge damage and reduce the risk of flooding during future storms.

In the weeks since the torrential rain in late June, VDOT contract crews have removed debris from numerous locations in other counties.

Feeding Fluvanna Again

On Saturday September 8th from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Grace and Glory Lutheran Church in Palmyra will host the 2nd Feeding Fluvanna Community Day. Last year, thanks to the efforts of 10 Fluvanna congregations, two tons of food items were collected and $4,000 in cash was received for the benefit of the Fluvanna Christian Service Society Food Bank at MACAA.

Come join us for a day of food, games, bounce house, 50/50 raffle, a Tricky Tray, the opportunity to purchase unique craft and bakery items, and the highlight of the day – the dunking booth. The price of admission is one non-perishable food item or a cash donation.

We need your help to make this day a success. Volunteers are needed to collect food at local grocery stores, make baked goods, visit local businesses for donations, and there are many other ways to contribute your talents. If you are interested in partnering or assisting in this special endeavor, Contact Dave Wirth at feedingfluvanna@graceandglory.org or Grace and Glory church office at 589-2217 or check out our website at <http://www.graceandglory.church/feeding-fluvanna>
