Commissioner of Revenue's office wins two awards

BY HEATHER MICHON
CORRESPONDENT

The Fluvanna Board of Supervisors kicked off its Oct. 2 regular meeting with the presentation of two awards for the Commissioner of the Revenue's Office.

Commissioner of the Revenue Andrew (Mel) Sheridan and Supervisor Tony O'Brien recognized Shaneka T. Brown for attaining her Master Deputy Commissioner of the Revenue certification from the Weldon Cooper Center for Public Service at the University of Virginia. The certification is awarded to deputy commissioners who have completed substantial coursework and participated in state and district meetings and professional development events.

Sheridan added that it was the first time a mother and daughter had won certification in the same year: Ms. Brown's mother, Carolyn Tinsley, works with the Albemarle County Finance Department.

"This is also kind of a first," Sheridan said as his staff joined him at the podium. His office had met the requirements for the Commissioner of the Revenue Association's new Office Accreditation Program, an acknowledgment that he and his staff were meeting high standards of professionalism and customer service.

"I'm proud to say that we were one of 23 counties out of over 93 that received this accreditation for the first year," he said. "And that is absolutely due in large part to the work of these four ladies. I just get to kind of ride along on their coat-tails."

Zion Water Project

Supervisors voted 5-0 to carry over $6,072,136 in unexpended funds from the Zion Crossroads Water and Sewer Project Capital Budget for Fiscal Year 2019 (FY19) into the same fund FY20. Finance Director Mary Anna Twisdale explained that while capital improvement project (CIP) funding carries over from one fiscal year to the next, "Zion Crossroads is in a separate fund, so we actually have to come to the Board and ask to roll these funds forward."

In a general discussion on the status of the project, Supervisor Don Weaver asked why the cost of land acquisition had gone almost $300,000 over the proposed budget.

The county had originally estimated that it would cost about $150,000 to acquire land along the right-of-way needed to lay new water and sewer lines. To date, it has cost about $450,000. County Administrator Eric Dahl explained that both the cost of land and legal fees had simply been higher than anticipated, but added that the $1 million contingency fund more than covered the overage.

Later in the meeting, Dalh revisited the color and design of the tower, saying that they needed to choose a base color no later than their October 16 meeting and a logo no later than November 6.

The base color is likely going to be light blue, although he noted there are countless variations on light blue to choose from. Meanwhile, he said the schools "were pretty gung-ho" about letting their art students come up with some potential logo designs.

Pleasant Grove

Parks and Rec Director Aaron Spitzer gave a presentation on improvements made at Pleasant Grove since the 2011 Master Plan.

Among other improvements over the last eight years, they've added a stage, scoreboards, a disc golf course, outdoor bathrooms, a butterfly garden, and an access road. The welcome center has been refurbished, and the Farm Museum is now open.

However, Spitzer said revenue was flat at about $100,000 per year.

"Lights would help bring up the revenue," he said. While the park has three soccer fields, a softball field, and a baseball field, the lack of lighting means all play has to stop at sundown. This limits the potential to rent the fields to adult leagues or other groups. Right now, the Master Plan doesn't call for lights to be added until 2023.

Asked by Supervisor Mozell Booker about his top three priorities, Spitzer said he would like to see the development of an inclusive playground, lighting for the ball fields, and perhaps fencing for the soccer fields.

TAX TIPS

BY RUDY GARCIA, RIVANNA WOODS FINANCIAL / TAX SERVICES

Another Year, Another New 1040

If you check the temperature outside you would swear it was still summer here in Central Virginia. But no, it is really Fall. October brings the opportunity for some tax preparation work as well as some tax deadlines you should make sure you don't miss. The extension deadline for Individual and C Corp extensions is looming on October 15th.

In 2018, the government attempted to "simplify" the tax-filing process by drastically shortening Form 1040. The result was six new schedules that created a lot of confusion. Now the IRS is attempting to ease some of that pain by revising the form and removing some schedules. Will it help? Here is what you need to know:

- More information on the main form. To make it easier for the IRS to match pertinent information across related tax returns, new fields have been added on the main Form 1040. For example, there's now a separate line for IRA distributions to more clearly differentiate retirement income.
- 3 schedules are gone. Schedules 4, 5 and 6 have been eliminated. However, those lines (and many others) have found a new home on one of the first three schedules. Less paperwork, but still the same amount of information.
- You can keep your pennies! For the first time, the IRS is eliminating the decimal spaces for all fields. While reporting round numbers has been common practice, it's now required.

- Additional changes on the way. The current versions of Form 1040 and Schedules 1, 2 and 3 are in draft form and awaiting comments on the changes. Because of the importance of the 1040, the IRS is expecting to make at least a few updates in the coming weeks (or months) before they consider it final. Stay tuned for more developments.

Now is the time to call and make an appointment to do a review of your estimated tax liability for 2019. Maximizing your retirement contributions may make sense in order to lower your taxable income. It may also be in your best interests to meet with your financial advisor or broker and see if there are opportunities to harvest some tax losses to offset capital gains. In the rush of the end of the year these things can get overlooked. Acting now could really impact your overall tax liability for 2019. Failing to act now could cost you money.

Fluvanna Business Corner

Fluvanna Chamber Minute: Ribbon Cuttings, Candidates, and Anniversaries Ruthann Carr, Fluvanna Chamber of Commerce

So many things to celebrate and so much to learn. September was a great month for your Chamber as we Connected, Educated and Promoted our local businesses. October is also going to be a very good month for your Chamber.

It was standing-room-only when citizens turned out en masse to hear all three candidates for Fluvanna Treasurer answer questions and help EDUCATE county citizens about what they see as the issues. If you missed it you can go to YouTube and put in the search bar "Candidate Forum – Fluvanna County Treasurer," or find it on the Chamber Facebook page.

Thanks to everyone who participated in Restaurant Week which was sponsored by Jefferson Pharmacy. We'll announce how much was raised in next month's column. Take the time to visit our Facebook page and leave a comment about your favorite experience.

The Chamber had a wonderful breakfast at The Pub, Oct. 1 where attendees heard speaker Paul McKinley from Soup of Possibilities EDUCATE us about the "Knowing-Doing Gap."

Come and CONNECT with us on Oct. 10, from 1:00-8:00 p.m. as we help Core Thermography Health and Wellness, (5574 Richmond Road) celebrate their 10th Anniversary. Make sure to give founder to help Cindy Stillwell Chronister a high five for this great achievement! On the other end of the business life cycle, come and CONNECT with us as we PROMOTE the new Sprint store (78 Joshua Lane next to Local Eats) by doing the official RIBBON cutting for them. The official ceremony and open house starts at 12:30 on October 11.

On Oct. 21 at 6:30 p.m. come back to the Fluvanna Public Schools Administration Building (Old Palmyra Elementary, 14455 James Madison Hwy.) for a statewide candidates' forum. The seats for state house districts 65 and 58 and senate district 22 are contested races and all six candidates have agreed to take part in the forum. We owe it to ourselves and our community to be informed voters.

READY FOR A NIGHT OF FUN AND MUSIC?
The Chamber Annual Meeting/Silent Auction is at 6:30 p.m., Oct. 22, at Lay's Ranch, 2273 Thomas Jefferson Pkwy. Enjoy good food, wine, music and beer. Hear who won the 2019 Business of the Year, Emerging Business of the Year and President's Award. This event is sponsored by CHO, the Charlottesville/Albemarle Regional Airport. We'll also pick the Taste of Fluvanna Raffle winner. Don't have your ticket yet to win more than $400 in gift certificates to area restaurants, grocers, gift shops, wineries and bakeries? It's not too late. Just go to www.fluvannachamber.org to buy yours online. Thanks to Dominion for sponsoring the Taste of Fluvanna raffle that funds our Bill Hughes Memorial Scholarship.

If you're a member of the Chamber, you, your guest and up to five of your employees and guests are welcome at the Oct. 22 Annual Meeting/Silent Auction. Not a member yet? Join now. That's your ticket to this fun event. Go to www.fluvannachamber.org to learn more.

Would you like to get your business out in front of scores of Fluvanna's movers and shakers? Donate an item you sell or service you provide for the Silent Auction. Contact Ruthann 434-589-3262, or ruthann.carr@gmail.com. # LMOA donates $25,000 to fire and rescue

PRESS RELEASE

The Lake Monticello Owners' Association (LMOA) Board voted on Sept. 26 to once again donate $25,000 to the Lake Monticello Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad. General Manager Steve Hurwitz will make the check presentation to Lake Monticello Fire Chief Richie Constantino on Wednesday, Oct. 9, at noon at the Fairway Clubhouse (51 Bunker Blvd.).

LMOA agreed on June 23, 1989, to annually donate $20,000 to Lake Monticello Fire and Rescue. In 2014, the donation was increased to $25,000. To date, LMOA has donated a total of $585,000.

Additionally, LMOA donates the Lake Monticello Golf Course for an annual fundraising tournament for Lake Monticello Fire and Rescue. The LMOA Board recently voted to donate two acres of land at the Lake Monticello Campground for further expansion of the fire department.

"We have a good working relationship with Lake Monticello Fire and Rescue," said LMOA Facilities Administrator Tom Schauder, adding that the fire department recently used a fire hose to help rid the Tufton Pond Fishing Pier of a wasp problem and the fire department has jumped in to help clear our roads after storms. When LMOA has needed divers, the Lake Monticello Water Rescue Team has scheduled a training exercise to help out. "It's a win-win relationship," Schauder said.

The LMOA Maintenance Team clears the access road and parking lot of snow for the fire department. In this good-neighbor relationship, the Fire and Rescue Teams participate in most large events at Lake Monticello—like July 4th and Monticelloman.

Upcoming free events at PVCC

PRESS RELEASE

Piedmont Virginia Community College's Fine Arts and Performance season will continue with two free film events on Friday, Oct. 18. The "Documentary Filmmaking Workshop" with local filmmaker Ty Cooper will be held from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., followed by a screening of the 2019 comedic drama "The Farewell" at 7:30 p.m. Both events are open to the public and will be held in the V. Earl Dickinson Building's Main Stage Theatre on the college's Main Campus in Charlottesville.

The "Documentary Filmmaking Workshop" will guide aspiring filmmakers through the process of transforming true stories into compelling documentaries, from developing an initial idea to editing the final cut. Drawing on his experience as a novice filmmaker turned award-winning professional, Cooper will share techniques for everything from funding a project to gathering visual elements that support the narrative while participants gain hands-on experience with the technology that makes it all possible.

"The Farewell," the October pick for the monthly Free Movie Friday series, follows a family who, upon learning that their matriarch has only a short while left to live, make the decision not to tell her. Instead, they schedule a large family reunion under the ruse of a wedding to celebrate before she dies. Based on writer and director Lulu Wang's true experiences with her own grandmother, the film is rated PG for thematic material, brief language and some smoking.

Free, general seating tickets to the film will be distributed, one per person, as the doors to the theatre open at 6 p.m. No advance tickets are available.

The V. Earl Dickinson Building is located at the south end of 501 College Drive. For more information, contact the PVCC Box Office at 434.961.5376 or boxoffice@pvcc.edu.

Deep Creek bridge open to traffic

PRESS RELEASE

The Rt. 629 (Deep Creek Road) bridge is open to traffic. The Virginia Department of Transportation closed the Rt. 629 (Deep Creek Road) bridge over Middle Fork Kent Branch in Fluvanna County for approximately seven months for replacement. The bridge, located 0.2-mile east of Route 631 (Dogwood Drive), was closed to traffic on March 6. The bridge carries about 130 vehicles daily, according to a 2014 traffic count. Under a $1.07 million construction contract, VDOT contractor Crossroads Bridge, Inc. of Rural Retreat replaced the existing timber deck, steel girder bridge. The bridge was built in 1969 and had a three-ton weight restriction. The new bridge is open to all legal-weight vehicles. # One woman's story

BY RUTHANN CARR
CORRESPONDENT

(The names in this story have been changed)

It wasn't supposed to be like this.

Just a year and a half ago Beth thought she'd found the love of her life: Bob. Now she stood in the bucolic village of Palmyra carrying in her pocket a phone recording of him threatening to kill her.

Beth needed a protective order against Bob. She was scared he'd hurt her or damage her home and business. She didn't have time to waste and didn't know what to do next.

This is the story of one woman's effort to get out of an abusive relationship – of what it's like to try and get a protective order in a small rural county – in Fluvanna County.

When they met in the fall of 2017, Bob was a skilled tradesman with a job. Beth said they talked for hours about everything. She thought he was the one. Life was great.

Neither of them were starry-eyed kids. Far from it. Beth was in her late 40s and owned a successful business. Bob was the same age.

Soon after they met Bob moved in with Beth. Bob was waiting on a court settlement from a pharmaceutical company. He told Beth he expected to get hundreds of thousands of dollars, maybe millions.

Bob had several chronic illnesses; had them, Beth said, since he was a child. Shortly after moving in with Beth, Bob decided to quit his job and help Beth with hers. Bob loved to cook and work on cars. He would support Beth in that way.

In December 2017, Bob asked Beth to marry him. She said yes. They planned a late 2018 wedding because Bob's divorce wasn't final.

When the wedding date rolled around, they went ahead with the ceremony even though his divorce still hadn't come through. They'd get married legally later.

But Beth said she knew the night of the wedding it was over.

Things had been going downhill for a while. Beth paid for the entire wedding and had been paying Bob's bills for months as he waited for his settlement. But she just couldn't bring herself to admit she'd made a mistake.

On the advice of friends, Beth did not legalize her marriage to Bob when his divorce was final.

Over the next few months things got worse. Bob's behavior was erratic. They argued constantly.

After a particularly troublesome episode, Beth decided she had enough.

Hoping things would change was foolish.

Armed with the recorded threat, Beth went before a magistrate. The magistrate did not grant her an emergency protective order.

She had to go back home and regroup.

That's what brought Beth to the Village of Palmyra that hot summer day. She had little time to be away from her business before Bob got suspicious. Time was of the essence.

Not knowing where to go, she went to the courthouse.

One of the clerks told her to go to the court services unit in the same brick building as the treasurer's office. She walked up the street to that building, walked through the hallway until she came to a door.

It was locked. There was a note on the door. It said if the door was locked, to call the phone number listed to make an appointment.

She didn't have any more time to waste, so she wrote down the phone number and went back to her house where Bob was.

The next day Beth met with the court services officer and filled out the paperwork. They then went straight to court where the judge granted the protective order. It gave Beth control over her residence, her business and her entire property.

Later when sheriff's officers came to serve Bob the order, it took him more than an hour to get his things and leave.

According to the protective order, Bob was not allowed to contact Beth. Within an hour she began receiving texts from him, which was a violation.

Beth notified the police. Eventually Bob was arrested and found guilty of violating the protective order and sentenced to jail.

Months later, Beth is trying to move on.

She wonders how a younger person without the resources she had goes through such situations. And why it isn't easier to get a protective order? Beth wants to change that so no one else has to go through the shame and confusion she experienced.

That's why she's telling her story.

How and where do you get help?

It's a hard truth that rural counties often have only one full or part-time employee serving victims.

When those people are in court, people needing their services must wait. In Fluvanna, Juvenile and Domestic Relations (JDR) Court is held each Wednesday.

The JDR Court deals only with crimes against or committed by children and crimes among family members or those co-habiting.

The JDR Court Services Unit does intakes (reviews and creates a document) on all juvenile offenders, child victims of abuse or neglect and conducts all investigations ordered by judges in cases involving children, including questions of custody. They also provide probation and parole services for offenders as well as domestic relations complaints.

Fluvanna shares one full-time JDR Court Services Unit worker and one part-time administrative assistant with Louisa. When that one worker is in court or is in Louisa, there is no one immediately available to help a person write out a petition for a protective order. There are three types of protective orders: Emergency, Preliminary and Permanent orders.

Magistrates provide services 24-hours a day, conducting hearings in person or through the use of videoconferencing systems. In order to get an emergency protective order, a person must go to the Fluvanna County Sheriff's Office and appear before the magistrate via videoconferencing.

According to the Fluvanna County website: "If you have an emergency protective order, it expires on the date and time shown at the bottom of the form. If you want a protective order beyond that time, you MUST contact the Court Services Unit at 434-591-1990 in order to request a petition for a protective order. The petition must then be filed with the Fluvanna County Juvenile & Domestic Relations Court no later than 4pm the Tuesday before your current order expires in order for it to be placed on the Court's docket the following day."

Much of this is difficult to follow or understand for anyone, let alone when a person is in crisis.

That's where Domestic Violence Agencies such as the Shelter for Help in Emergency (SHE) can help. Located in Charlottesville, SHE serves Fluvanna residents and offers more than just shelter.

Employees are trained in crisis management and know how to help people involved in domestic violence. They are available by phone 24-hours a day and a SHE advocate can accompany a person to court.

While they do not represent the person legally, the advocate can be a vital support to people going through the court process.

All counties have a Victim Witness Assistant to help victims of all crimes. Sherri Stader is Fluvanna's Victim Witness Advocate. She invites people to call her office and ask for copies of two brochures she created. One is about protective orders – the legal way to keep an abuser at bay. The other, about what happens after charges are filed and includes information on staying safe.

To reach Fluvanna's Victim Witness Assistant, call 434-591-1985

To get it touch with Fluvanna's Court Services Unit, call 434-591-1990.

Domestic abuse

What if it's not you but someone you love?

It is hard when you suspect someone is in an unhealthy/abusive relationship. The first and most important thing is you care. For someone who feels unworthy, that is golden.

There are things you can do and things you can't.

You CAN'T:

- Stop the abuse;
- Make the person end the relationship;
- Put down or be openly hostile to the abuser;
- Give advice;
- Place conditions on your support.

You CAN:

- Learn about domestic violence;
- Talk to the person privately. Tell them what you've noticed and why you're concerned;
- Listen nonjudgmentally;
- Offer to keep the person's packed exit bag in your home;
- Create a code word or phrase they can use to let you know when they need help;
- Ask about their hopes and dreams;
- Help them identify their strengths and things they like to do that build up their self-esteem;
- Offer to keep a log of abusive incidents (this can prove useful in getting a protective order);
- When they signal they are ready to take steps to leave, offer to accompany the person to get a protective order;
- Let them take the lead. It is a vital component to them reclaiming their power. Just be there for them.

How big is the problem?

October is Domestic Violence Awareness month and is represented by the color purple.

October is also Breast Cancer Awareness month. October is awash in the color pink, which represents breast cancer awareness. From Panera's signature cherry vanilla bagel offered only in October, to the ubiquitous pink ribbons, breast cancer awareness is everywhere.

According to the American Society of Clinical Oncology, about 335,000 adults in the United States will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year.

But that is eclipsed by the number of adults in the United States this year who will become victims of domestic violence: 12 million, according to the National Domestic Violence Hotline.

That works out to be around one in three women and one in four men who will experience domestic violence, according to the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence.

The next time you are in a room full of people, or even in a long check-out line, count those around you. Then do the math. If there are 12 people, statistically three or four are likely to have been or will become victims of domestic violence.

And contrary to what you may think, it doesn't affect only certain people or cultures. A judge, doctor, CEO, waitress or mechanic is just as likely to be victims of domestic violence.

According to psychcentral.com: "Domestic violence can happen in any relationship, regardless of ethnic group, income level, religion, education or sexual orientation. Abuse may occur between a married people, or between an unmarried people living together or in a dating relationship. It happens in heterosexual, gay and lesbian relationships."

Sarah Ellis, who works for SHE, said in the past year her agency served the following in Fluvanna:

- shelter staff and volunteers responded to 84 individuals;
- The hotline responded to 62 people requesting support and/or information;
- Direct services were given to 22 individuals including three adults and one child from Fluvanna who stayed in the residential facility for a total of 172 nights.

"SHE offers training to all agencies throughout our area and would be happy to do so for any groups or agencies requesting it," Ellis said. "We do have a Prevention Services Coordinator who focuses primarily on children, youth and schools. We can also work with any county departments that want this service.";

Interested in being a part of the solution?

- Learn about domestic violence – one Google search brings up scores of helpful websites. A few of the best are: domesticshelters.org, futureswith-outviolence.org, loveisrespect.org;
- Find the resources/non-profit agencies that serve your area;
- Support those organizations financially;
- Ask your local domestic violence agency to train workers at your place of business and in the county where you live.

Fluvanna Art Association fall show features “Best Work”

BY PAGE H. GIFFORD
CORRESPONDENT

This year’s Fluvanna Art Association annual fall show was different than those in past years since the FAA membership agreed not to have The People’s Choice Awards Show.

“We’ll see how this is received and with member suggestions, we’ll make changes to next year’s show,” said President Linda Bethke. This was the first year the show was not judged or prizes awarded since the People’s Choice began in 2015. In the past, the public voted for its favorite artwork in each category. Artists with the most votes won. But the idea of the People’s Choice began to lose interest with members who believed that the show favored certain artists more than the work itself.

The FAA decided to return to the reception and exhibit in the fall but with a theme. This year’s theme was “Your Best Work.” This differs from the spring show, which is judged by a professional artist or gallery owner.

There were fewer entries in this show than in the past, but the work was varied and imaginative. Everyone who participated certainly showed not only their best work but their signature work and personal style. Artists like William Snow featured his signature mastery of watercolor and detail in his seascape of “Reflections Low Tide Wellfleet Harbor.” Linda Bethke, also known for her strong and colorful watercolors, showed intensity in “Playing Koi.” The movement of the bright

Helping Businesses and Employees Thrive in Virginia’s Diversified Economy

Delegate Lee Ware, 65th House District

We citizens of the 65th District are privileged to be represented by a legislator who has a large role in shaping Virginia’s tax and related policies of immense importance to employers and employees alike.

As chairman of the Finance Committee in the House of Delegates, Delegate Lee Ware shepherds all tax- and revenue-related bills. As a senior member of the Commerce & Labor committee, he provides crucial leadership on bills that benefit businesses, workers, and taxpayers. As chairman of the Commission on Unemployment, he contributes to the fair administration of one of the state’s most important agencies for displaced employees.

Delegate Ware is a senior member, too, of the Agriculture, Chesapeake, & Natural Resources committee—agriculture remaining, in our ‘high-tech’ era, the leading industry in Virginia. And, he serves on the Small Business and the Employee Retirement Security and Pension Reform commissions.

For his legislative labors, he is endorsed by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) and is highly rated by the Virginia Chamber of Commerce.

Delegate Ware serves voters in two Fluvanna precincts: Columbia (201) and Fork Union (301).

We invite you to join us in reaffirming an outstanding legislator in November.

Nance Stamper's vivid blue canvas with drips and drabs of oranges and yellow musical notes woven with lyrics jumped out at those entering the room. The piece took on a life of its own through the artist's mood and inspiration.

"Music could have been our theme," she said as she pointed to Page Gifford's "Let the Music Play," featuring a collage of musical instruments woven with music in zentangle patterns. Along with Prete's dancer, there was an underlying theme.

Nancy Shaffer's "Love in the Rain" was simple and romantic with two silhouetted lovers hidden under a large red umbrella in the rain under a streetlamp. Shaffer favors clean lines and bold colors in her work.

For abstract, Maria Fiesta Carter's

"Blooming" exhibited her signature splashes of color. Similarly, Betty Scholl's "Dusk and Shadows" reflects her impression of words and moods with blended colors and foggy elements of blue.

Landscapes are always popular and Linda Napier's "Path in the Woods" showed a solid perspective. Windy Payne, known for her sunny and colorful landscapes, brought alive cool waters gushing over rocks in a stream in the middle of a lush green meadow. Windy's use of light gives her landscapes and authentic feeling of nature. Kathy Scott, like Payne, conveyed peace in her soft pastel "Bay View."

for Feeding Fluvanna

Join Grace and Glory Lutheran Church as we welcome and introduce our new pastor, Meredith Williams to the area.

Saturday, October 19th from 5-8 p.m. at Grace & Glory Lutheran Church
683 Thomas Jefferson Parkway, Palmyra, VA

This celebration will benefit the Fluvanna Food Pantry at MACAA. We ask that each participant bring one non-perishable food item to help our neighbors.

Grace & Glory will provide hot dogs, brats and sauerkraut along with some of the congregation's favorite side dishes.

Encourage your friends and neighbors to join us in this celebration. RSVP to admin@graceandglory.org so we can make sure we have enough food for everyone!

In a high school volleyball match the first team to win three games claims victory. On Tuesday, Oct. 1, the Fluvanna volleyball squad hosted the Monticello Mustangs. Three of the four games in this match were decided by a mere two points.

In the first game, the Flying Fluco squad got off to a 3-0 lead behind the serve of freshman Faith Shields. Monticello bounced back with three straight points and neither team managed to lead by more than three points the entire game. The Mustangs had several three-point leads in the middle of the game but the Flucos battled back each time. A service ace by Fluco senior libero Eynne Stafford tied the score at 16-16.

As the first game progressed, Monticello managed to move ahead and stay ahead by a slim margin, with three-point leads at 19-22 and 20-23. The Flucos called time-out when the score went to 20-23. With Shields serving again, the Flucos tied the score at 23-23. However, the Mustangs put the game away by scoring the next two points for a 25-23 win.

In the second game, the Flucos dominated, winning 25-11, to tie the match at one game each. The Fluco net play was too much for the Mustangs as senior McKensie Moore and sophomore Khania Brassfield started recording multiple kill shots. With Stafford serving, the Flucos took a commanding lead moving from 7-4 to 11-4. A seven-point lead is very hard to overcome in women's volleyball, and the Flucos coasted to the 14-point win.

The third game was much like the first, neither team could break into a significant lead and the score seesawed back and forth. The Mustangs rebounded with some good net play of its own, after looking a little shocked in game two, and they maintained a slim lead most of the way. With the Flucos down by three at 18-21, Brassfield recorded a kill shot for a 19-21 score. With Shields serving the Flucos made it 20-21. Monticello scored two in a row for a 20-23 lead and it looked like the Flucos were in trouble.

Fluco coach Christi Harlowe-Garrett called a time-out. The Flucos scored on Monticello's serve and then with Moore serving they scored again on another Brassfield kill shot. The Flucos won a third point in a row for a 23-23 tie. The Mustangs won the next point and needed only one more to win the game and go up two games to one, but they hit the ball deep for a 24-24 tie. With Stafford serving the Mustangs made an error and led the ball hit the floor. Now the Flucos only needed one point to win. The Mustangs hit a wicked diagonal kill shot but it was just out. The Flucos took game three, 26-24.

Game four was deja vu all over again. Although the Flucos jumped into an early 7-2 lead, the Mustangs fought back with five straight points for a 7-7 tie. From that point on, no one led by more than two points. The score was tied at 14-14, 17-17 and 21-21. The Mustangs recorded two straight points for a 21-23 lead. As in game three, Harlowe-Garrett called time-out. After the time-out a Mustang shot was long and with Shields serving, Brassfield recorded a kill shot that tied it up at 23-23. Moore then tapped a shot into an empty space in the Mustangs defense for a 24-23 lead. The Mustangs took the next point and, like game three, the score was now 24-24, in a game to 25, win by two. Moore was too much for the Mustangs in the end. She recorded a kill shot to make in 25-24, and then serve an ace for a 26-24 win.

The Fluco offensive scoring in this game was amazingly well distributed. Junior Molli White recorded 12 kills, Moore had 10, Brassford and junior Lindsey Ward had nine kills. Shields who seemed to be everywhere she should be all night recorded an impressive 39 assists and libero Stafford was also impressive in digging out the Mustang kill attempts.

On Oct. 8, the Fluco volleyball squad was at Charlottesville. On Oct.10 they play at Western Albemarle. On Oct. 15 and 17 they will host Albemarle and Louisa County.

JOIN THE FLUVANNA HISTORICAL SOCIETY AS WE CELEBRATE "SECOND SUNDAYS HOW DID THEY DO THAT?"

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 13
2:00 – 5:00 PM

Have you ever wondered how your ancestors lived their day-to-day lives? How did they cook? How did they make the things they needed? What did they do for entertainment?

Our Holland Page Place Log Cabin Museum will be buzzing as heritage crafters demonstrate their skills. The Louisa Hearth Cooking Guild will be creating delicious dishes over an open fire - come learn about the foods our ancestors ate and how they were prepared! Fluvanna's own heritage crafters will be demonstrating spinning, weaving, and basket-making! Make merry as Howard Markham teaches you the fine points of Colonial Dance - dance sessions at 2:30 and 3:30! Hear about our future plans for making this museum an even more exciting place to visit.

At the historic Village of Palmyra, enjoy a walking tour of our county seat, where history was made. Learn about the thriving businesses that were once here, and about the mills, canals, and locks nearby. Tour fascinating exhibits in the Old Stone Jail Museum, and marvel at recent additions to our Patriot Room; learn more about the rich African American history of this community in our "An Untold Story" exhibit, and contemplate the life of John Hartwell Cocke in our Bremono Room.

At Maggie's House, research local history in our amazing archives or let our volunteer genealogists help you learn more about your own history!

Virginia Department of Forestry prepares for fall wildfire season

Dry conditions are cause for concern

PRESS RELEASE

The Virginia Department of Forestry (VDOF) and federal partners within the state are preparing for what could be a severe fall wildfire season across Virginia. The fire danger is increasing each day the state goes without a widespread, significant rain. Some isolated areas that have been getting showers are not as critical, but most of Virginia has not been so fortunate.

"This is one of the driest falls we've seen in Virginia during the past 20 years," said State Forester Rob Farrell. "The potential for an increased number of fires and more complex fires is significant."

According to Phil Manuel, a meteorologist with the Blacksburg National Weather Service, many areas have gone more than 25 days without significant rainfall. That, combined with the lower humidity levels that are typical this time of year, increase the risk of wildfires. "The short-term forecast (6-10 days) indicates a continuation of this dry spell and the long-range through the end of October does not look much better," he added. This time of the year there is always the possibility of a tropical storm to bring rain to Virginia, but so far there are none on the horizon.

Virginia's fall wildfire season typically runs from Oct.15 until the end of November or early December. It has been several years since the traditional fall wildfire season has begun facing such dry conditions.

As of Oct 7, more than 24 localities in Virginia have enacted a county-wide ban on all outdoor burning. These localities are mainly located in southwest Virginia, and this number will likely increase over the next several days as the drought continues. "We support each county's decision to take the proactive step of establishing burn bans," said VDOF Director of Fire and Emergency Response John Miller. "Placing restrictions on burning is not a task easily taken by the county government, but if this prevents a single wildfire from occurring, it will be worth it. One never knows if that one fire prevented could have also saved a life."

The DOF asks all citizens, especially those who live in counties with a burn ban in place, to obey all local restrictions and postpone any burning until we get a significant rainfall event and the burn bans are removed. If you live in any area that does not have any restrictions on burning, please, be extra careful.

- Don't burn on windy days
- keep your burn piles small,
- have water and tools nearby,
- Never leave your fire unattended.
- If you are burning and your fire escapes, call 911 immediately.

"How this season turns out remains to be seen," said Farrell, "But the potential for a severe fire season is very real. VDOF personnel have ramped up preparedness and we urge the public to do their part to help reduce the number and severity of fires this fall."

Unsung Heroes in War and Peace

BY PAT WILSON
CORRESPONDENT

At the recent African American Heritage Festival, Trooper George Grady Sr., an interpreter from the Petersburg Chapter of the Ninth and Tenth Horse Cavalry Association, informed visitors of the historical contribution of Buffalo Soldiers in war and peace.

Veteran George Grady has stories to tell about his two tours of duty during the Vietnam War, but it's his research and interest in the Buffalo Soldiers that leads him to share his expertise with students, church members, civic organizations and festival visitors. His display and artifacts tell about the black horse cavalry that was vital to the settlement of the American West, along with the infantry regiments that served the nation in wartime.

In 2004, Grady's passion began when, at the urging of friends, he joined the Baltimore chapter of the Ninth and Tenth Buffalo Soldiers Horse Cavalry Association. Later, when a friend moved to Petersburg in 2006, Grady helped establish a chapter in that area.

"I became so enthused about the history and the way the Buffalo Soldiers were treated that I researched more," said Trooper Grady, a resident of Louisa County. "Then I started giving short presentation to various civic groups, then churches and schools."

Now 48 members strong, the group meets every third Saturday. The chapter is named in honor of Mark Matthews, the oldest surviving Buffalo Soldier who died in 2005 at the age of 111 and is buried at Arlington National Cemetery.

Buffalo Soldiers

In 1866, the Ninth and Tenth cavalry units, along with four infantry units, were established by the Department of the Army with the assignment to patrol the West. One duty was to assist wagon trains of settlers through Indian territories as they homesteaded the Great Plains. The soldiers also built and manned forts such as Fort Sill in Oklahoma. They protected mail routes and carved out roads and trails.

"The irony is that once the settlers set up towns, they passed segregation laws to keep the Buffalo Soldiers out," he said. "The soldiers were often falsely accused of crimes and some were hung."

The men also fought in various Indian Wars earning numerous Medals of Honor. They would even become some of the first National Parks rangers.

"The term Buffalo Soldier was coined by the Cheyenne Indians because the buffalo was a chief source of their livelihood and when it was cornered, it came out fighting," said Grady. "The black soldiers often wore hides in cold weather, so with their dark features and curly hair, as well as the fact that they were fiercely courageous, the Indians gave them the name, which the men considered as a term of respect."

Black regiments, both mounted and later as infantry, would participate in wars under the command of white leadership. Both cavalry and the infantry fought with Teddy Roosevelt and the Rough Riders during the Spanish-American War. Black cavalry regiments under command of General John J. Pershing chased Pancho Villa into Mexico. In 1917, the war department commissioned two all-black infantry divisions which fought as part of France's fourth army. President Woodrow Wilson referred to the men as "Buffalo Soldiers." The term was used in World War II to describe black units that saw combat during the invasion of Italy. Again, they often experienced discrimination from fellow soldiers, commanders and civilians. The cavalry was deactivated in 1944.

Preserving History

With 45 chapters across the United States, the Ninth and Tenth Horse Cavalry Association holds conventions yearly in various locations. Grady uses the occasions to spend a month or so visiting relatives and army buddies in nearby states, in addition to attending the annual event.

He boasts six children, 11 grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren and three great-grandchildren scattered mostly in the southeastern U. S. region.

A veteran of the Vietnam War, Sergeant First Class E7 Grady served 20 years in the United States Army. The combat engineer saw action on the front lines as his unit cleared land for helicopter landings, build road and bridges and established land mines. For 16 years, Grady was a master paratrooper with 109 jumps to his credit.

Grady moved to Louisa County in 2001 since he had always had a desire "to live in the country." He continues his research into history. Using his power point presentation and detailed display, the historical interpreter welcomes opportunities to explain the role of the Buffalo Soldiers, their courage in battle and their strength in overcoming the discrimination they experienced while serving their country.

As part of his display, George Grady has a photograph of Jackie Robinson who served in a cavalry regiment at Fort Riley, Kansas after being drafted in 1942 and before his record setting baseball career.

John Nichols (far right), a close friend of George Grady, served with prizefighter Joe Louis (center) during basic training in an all-black unit at Fort Riley, Kansas at the start of World War II. Nichols later fought with the 28th black regiment in Northern Africa.
