Supervisors eye broadband expansion as virtual school looms

BY HEATHER MICHON
CORRESPONDENT

The Fluvanna Board of Supervisors continued their deliberations over broadband expansion at their meeting on Wednesday (Aug. 19), a discussion made all the more urgent by the need to get more than 3,000 students ready for the start of virtual learning next month.

With Supervisor Don Weaver (Cunningham) absent for the evening, the Board voted 4-0 to approve a $45,900 request from Fluvanna County Public Schools for the purchase of 200 Verizon Wi-Fi hotspots and four months of data. These hotspots will allow families that have cell phones to access the internet. Another 50 hotspots have been donated to the county by Shentel, a regional telecommunication company.

This money will come from the $4.8 million given to the County through the Federal CARES Act.

Supervisors also voted 4-0 to take the next steps in a proposed broadband expansion plan proffered by CVEC. If it reaches final approval, the expansion will cost $520,000 in CARES funding.

Under the plan, CVEC would extend underground fiber cable for 7.4 miles along Rt. 15 from near Carybrook to the edge of Fork Union, and east along Rt. 6 from Dixie to Holmhead, including Gravel Hill Road and Davis Lane. This extension would provide access for an estimated 150 homes and businesses. CVEC would also install free Wi-Fi hotspots at county buildings and properties for public use.

Bringing Wi-Fi to underserved parts of the county has been a goal for the Board in recent years. Aside from increasing residents' access to remote learning, telehealth, and telework, it's a vital part of the economic development plan.

However, Finance Director Mary Anna Twisdale cautioned supervisors that, since they would be utilizing CARES funding, their decision had to be strictly based on the pandemic. "This can't be about [developing] county assets or economic development," she said. "The only way CARES will pay for this is if it is about virtual learning and telework."

Along those lines, Supervisor Mozell Booker (Fork Union) raised concerns that the proposed route wouldn't actually reach many students, arguing that many people along those corridors were retirees. "I don't know if we're helping the right people," she said.

She also expressed frustration that she hadn't been able to get information on where Fluvanna County students actually lived. "We need to make decisions based on more facts," she said.

But with the clock ticking towards the December 30 deadline for use of CARES funding, the Rt. 15-Rt. 6 corridor was seen as the easiest and most viable route for rapid development and would give them more options for future development, and Booker voted with the majority to move forward.

Parks and Recreation Director Aaron Spitzer gave a presentation on a plan to open two to three facilities for students to access Wi-Fi for their schoolwork in the evenings.

Spitzer said they could fit between 16-20 socially distanced tables each at the Carybrook Gym, the Fluvanna County Community Center in Fork Union, and perhaps the Beaver Dam Baptist Church in Troy. Each facility would be open weeknights from 6:30-8:30.

Families would have to sign up in advance for a table, with each table holding up to two siblings and a parent. Parents and children would have a temperature check at the door and be required to wear masks at all times and use hand sanitizer before entering. Each site would be manned by one staff member and be sanitized at the end of each night.

Spitzer also outlined an outdoor gym program for children in grades 1-8 to run from Sept. 8 to Oct. 29. Each age group would have their own weekly time slot, with staff leading them through a distanced program of running, stretching, yoga, and other activities.

The program would require a temporary staff of five people part-time at a cost of $12,000.

While the program wasn't up for a formal vote, Supervisor Booker and Supervisor Patricia Eager (Palmyra) indicated that, given the difficulties of keeping small children separate, they felt the plan was too risky. Spitzer said he would work on the plan and bring it back to the Board at a later date.

Supervisors also approved $31,000 in CARES funding for COVID-related site improvements, furniture, fixtures, and other items for the Planning Department, the new Registrar's Office, and the Fluvanna library.

They also got their first look at what might become their new home.

A representative of the architectural firm Crabtree, Rohrbaugh & Associates showed them drawings of proposed renovations of the County Administration Building's basement to turn it into a space for Board meetings and other county meetings.

Their usual home at the County Courthouse is closed for meetings for the foreseeable future and their current meeting space in the Morris Room holds only 10 people under social-distancing guidelines. The basement renovation would allow about 40 at a time, and up to 77 when or if restrictions are lifted.

Due to the configuration of the basement space, several supervisors found the proposed floorplan a little awkward, particularly when it comes to access for those with mobility issues. "I'm not expecting this to be a long-term solution," said County Administration Eric Dahl, but he felt the new space would hold them over until a new administration building can be constructed near Pleasant Grove at some future point.

Supervisors approved $68,200 in CARES funding to Crabtree, Rohrbaugh & Associates to conduct the architectural and engineering plans for the space. The project would need to be fully completed by Dec. 30.

The Fluvanna SPCA will be closed to the public until further notice. We are trying to do our part to help cut down on the spread of COVID-19, and with our animals' and employees' best interests in mind we are trying to reduce foot traffic to help keep our employees healthy. The animals at the shelter will continue to receive wonderful care just as they normally do, so no need to worry. If you are interested in adopting or if you would like to drop off donations during this time that we are closed to the public, you can make an appointment to do so by contacting our shelter manager: manager@fspca.org. We appreciate your understanding and support during this difficult time for everyone, and we will be sure to keep you updated as soon as we will be open again to the public.

25 Years THIS WEEK'S PET IS RACER! 2 YRS OLD

Sadly, my previous family had to surrender me because I was having issues using the potty in the litterbox. My friends here at the shelter are trying to figure out why, because I use it just fine here. Otherwise I am a very loving guy who enjoys laying under blankets and poking my head out. I also love you wrap my paws around you and nuzzle your face. I am not recommended to be an outdoor kitty, because it scares me. I do enjoy the company other other felines and I even like most dogs!

I am current on all shots, micro-chipped and neutered.
Would you give me a chance?

Shirley Ann Webster

At 85 years old, Shirley passed away peacefully, after a long battle with pancreatic cancer. Born near London, England, to Lillian and Joe Warton, Shirley narrowly escaped being bombed during World War 11. She married John in 1957, and raised two boys, Peter and David. Having graduated from a Secretarial College, she spent many years, either volunteering in a Citizen's Advice Bureau or working for a temporary agency, because she loved meeting and helping all kinds of people. A willing crew member, Shirley cruised and raced in small yachts, in the Clyde, and English Channel with many crossings to France, and in the Bay of Islands, in NZ.

The family moved to the USA in 1978 and lived in Stamford, CT, Kent Island, MD and Annapolis, MD, before settling at Lake Monticello in 1998. Shirley and John joined the Friendship Force of Charlottesville, and the Lake Monticello Sociables, and volunteered with Habitat for Humanity, and Meals on Wheels. Inveterate travelers, Shirley and John visited Canada, the Arctic and Antarctic, East Africa, Costa Rica, Puerto Rico and Barbados, Ecuador, the Galapagos Islands and the Amazon rainforest, New Zealand, Tahiti, Morea and Fiji, and well as many trips to England and Scotland to see friends and relatives.

Shirley was known for the twinkle in her eyes, the stories she told of life in England during the war, and her willingness to volunteer.

Shirley is survived by her husband, John, sons Peter and David and his wife, Margaret Ann and their great-niece, Jenna, sister Vivian, nieces Caroline and her husband, Richard and Shona and her husband, Mark, nephews Stuart and his wife, Helen, and Ian and his wife, Jenny and their families. She is also survived by her sisters-in-law, Christine Murphy and her husband, Ross and Jane Mann and their families. She was predeceased by her sister, Jocelyn Kerslake.

The pandemics of 1918 and 2020: What have we learned?

BY PAGE H. GIFFORD
CORRESPONDENT

It is new and frightening, and Americans today have never witnessed or experienced anything like this pandemic. Our grandparents or great grandparents may have lived through the horrific death toll and economic impact of the 1918-1919 pandemic. But what was different? What have we learned?

Tricia Johnson, director of the Fluvanna County Historical Society, said the impact of the 1918 pandemic was devastating on Fluvanna residents. There were 8,500 residents of Fluvanna at the time and an estimated that 2,833 people were infected or about a third of the population. All told, 46 people died. (With COVID-19, to date, Fluvanna has 207 cases and nine deaths.)

Among the first fatalities in the 1918 pandemic were five Fork Union Military cadets all of whom died within four consecutive days. The fifth died later at home. Following this was the death of 72-year-old Sheriff Robert S. Campbell. The virus did not discriminate when it came to age.

Also, Alfred Lee Profitt of Shores, a W.W. I soldier discharged due to scrofula (a form of TB) died. His system was already compromised and along with complications of influenza, he died on December 10, 1918. He is buried in his family plot, which still exists today on private property off Shores Rd. not far from Caring for Creatures.

In Virginia in 1918, there were two million people and 326,000 were infected (15 percent) and 16,000 died. (With COVID-19, to date, Virginia's 8.5 million in population has suffered 111,000 cases and 2,436 reported deaths.) By the end of the 1918 pandemic, 675,000 people lost their lives in the U.S. As of Aug. 23, deaths in this country has risen to slightly over 175,000.

In 1918, people had less contact than they do nowadays. Traveling meant walking, or riding on horseback; very few had cars though some traveled by train or ship. The most likely culprit in the spread of the 1918 pandemic was soldiers being discharged from overseas who had already contracted the disease. The FUMA cadets were not an isolated incident and not surprising when most of the infection rates were rampant among World War I soldiers returning home or in army camps.

There were three waves: the spring of 1918, the fall of 1918, and the spring of 1919. The second wave was most likely due to the Armistice Day (Veterans Day) celebration and the end of the war. That sounds familiar. In 2020, cases escalated due to Memorial Day and July 4th celebrations.

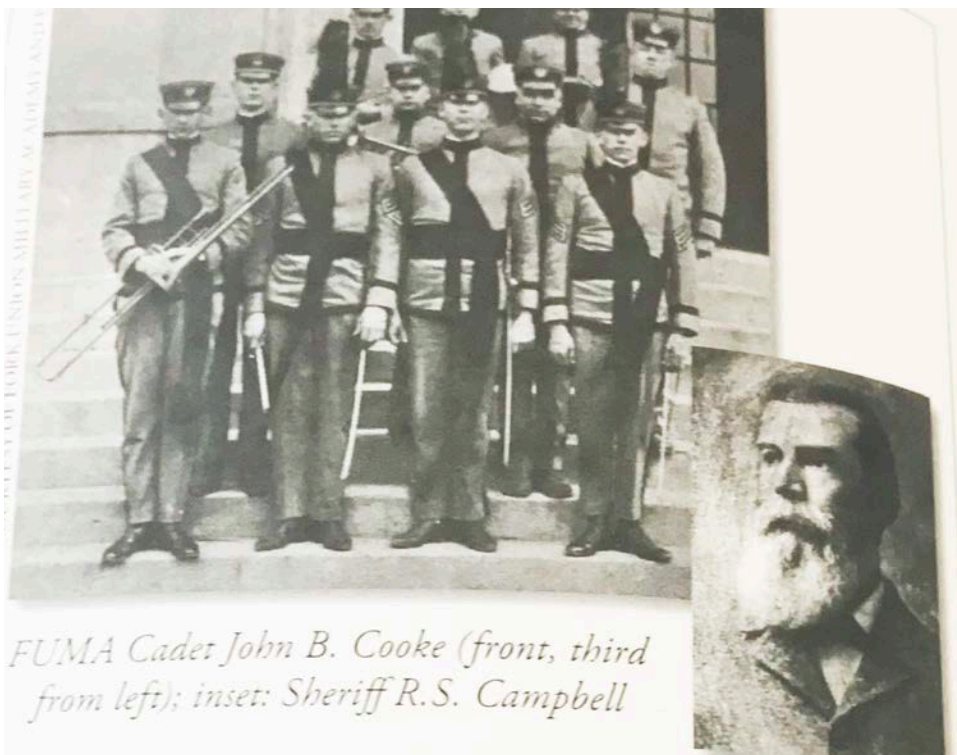

The public health response was swift and organized, but President Wilson, being preoccupied with a world war, never made a statement regarding the pandemic or its impact on the civilian population. The administration tried not to distract from the war effort which was responsible for the spread of the virus and increasing deaths. There were limited resources for the pandemic and unlimited resources given to the war effort.

There was a shortage of doctors with 30 percent serving in the armed services.

Not unlike where we are today, similar responses included uncertainty, fear, ignorance, and wishful thinking, influencing civilian and government behavior. In 2020, Americans are repeating some of the same behaviors.

Preventative measures were implemented by state and local governments, but officials were lacking transparency in communicating with the public, causing more widespread panic and fear and jeopardizing their credibility. In one example in 1918, in Chicago, when one hospital reached 40 percent capacity, the health commissioner announced, "Worry kills more people than the epidemic." Experts agree that government transparency is key during a public health crisis. Denial may be a safer alternative but has been proven to make a situation worse.

Public Health Departments grew out of these advances and the belief in the ability of man to control nature. Sanitation, vaccination programs, and other public hygiene efforts in the late 19th century enabled public health officials to gain power and authority. However, the enormity of the 1918-1919 pandemic challenged the public health agencies. The massive death toll from the pandemic was puzzling and alarming. Many of the measures formerly known to work were ineffective. Lacking the organization and infrastructure and constrained by the war, they were unprepared for an event of this magnitude. Dr. Victor C. Vaughn, Dean of the University of Michigan School of Medicine, and adviser to the U.S Surgeon General during W.W. I, observing cramped hospital wards and flooded morgues, stated, "Bodies stacked like cordwood."

Their aim was to reduce the transmission of the pathogen by preventing contact following the ancient guidelines of the past and like we do today. Back then, public health orders were based on scientific understanding of the microorganisms of influenza and how it is spread. Today, we do it the same way with scientific evidence. The conclusions are the same to prevent the spread of the disease.

The most frequently discussed and debated public health measure in the journals of the time was school closings. In the United States, school closure was not as widely accepted as it was in Europe. One article in the Journal of American Medical Association in 1918, stated that "the desirability of closing schools in a large city in the presence of an epidemic is a measure of doubtful value." The American Public Health Association (APHA) debated the effectiveness of closing schools against the loss of educational studies. They believed school closings were thought to be less effective in large urban rather than in rural areas where the school represented the point of exposure of the infectious agent -- an ill-conceived idea considering spread was more prevalent among larger groups of people in closed areas in cities than isolated people in rural areas. The closing of schools and other public institutional to reduce the epidemic were not widely accepted. Many were in favor of herd immunity in Europe, believing, as we do today, that shutting everything down would cause greater unemployment and depression.

The more restrictive methods of infection control were quarantines and isolating those who were ill. Because of the strain on facilities, only severe cases were to be hospitalized while mild influenza patients were to remain at home. The APHA also supported institutional quarantines to protect people from the outside world in establishments like asylums and colleges, and military camps similar to our quarantine of long-term care facilities.

They set up hospital wards with social distancing, practiced good hygiene, and used disinfectants and sterilization methods. The JAMA describes in graphic detail the procedures for disinfecting areas from hospital beds to troop trains even to the placement of antiseptic hand solution in influenza wards. Today, it's rubbing alcohol, Lysol, and Clorox. Nurses would wear special blouses inside the wards, removing them when the left to reduce transmission. A precursor of our PPE today in isolation wards.

There is little that separates us from the past in how we responded and proves history does repeat itself.

Fluco sophomore shoots 64. Lake tournament results

BY DUNCAN NIXON
CORRESPONDENT

Lake Monticello golf pro Mark Marshall has confirmed that Fluvanna County High School sophomore Killian Donnelly recorded an astonishing eight under par score of 64 on Friday, Aug. 21, playing from the regular men's white tees.

Marshall said that he has no records as to the course record at the Lake Monticello course for golfers playing from the white tees. This is not surprising as course record scores are normally only from the back tees, and in tournament play. The back tees at the Lake are the blue tees which are very difficult and rarely played. Marshall advises that in his tenure at the Lake Monticello course, 64 is definitely the lowest score he has ever heard of from the white tees. Donnelly played on the number one spot for the Flucos last year as a freshman. This year, due to the COVID-19 crisis, fall sports, including golf have been postponed and hopefully will resume in late winter.

In the past few weeks, the golfers at Lake Monticello have been competing in three Match Play championships. In match play, each hole is a separate competition. If a player beats his or her opponent on the first hole, he or she is one up. If the players tie on the next three hole the one up status continues to apply. If the player who lost the first hole then wins two holes in row, he becomes one up. If one player is ahead by 4 with three holes to play, the match is over and the winners is said to have prevailed 4 and 3.

There were three separate Match Play competitions, an open competition from the white tees with no handicaps taken into account; a senior competition from the gold tees, with no handicaps taken into account, and a handicap competition from the gold tees. All of these competitions were very close. In the open competition from the white tees, Stan Leap defeated Jarred Williams by a score of three and one. This means that going into the 17th hole Leap was up by two, and he won the 17th hole to be ahead by three with one to play. Williams is also a Fluco golfer. He is a senior this year and played in the number two slot for the Flucos last season.

In the senior competition, with handicaps not taken into consideration, from the gold tees, it was Stan Leap winning again. This time he topped Jim Beach. They were tied after 18 holes and Leap won on the first extra hole. In the handicap competition from the gold tees, John Stenz and Paul Schmidt were tied after 18 holes. As they are good friends, they decided to stop and assumed that they would be co-winners. Alas, it was not to be. They were advised that like other sports such as baseball and basketball, which have extra innings and overtime periods, there are no ties in golf tournaments. They were told that their match was not over and if they declined to complete it, they would both be disqualified. As a result, Schimdt announced they was withdrawing and Stenz was declared the winner.

On Saturday, Aug. 22, the 18 hole and the 9-hole couples competitions were held at the Lake Monticello golf course. Ten teams competed in the 18-hole tournament and only four in the nine hole competition. In the 18-hole competition, the winners in the net competition were Rich and Barb Barringer who recorded a gross score of 93, for a net of 71. In second place was the team of Karl and Lorraine Bergstresser with a gross of 87 and a net of 71. This tie was resolved per the rules of the competition by starting with the scores on the 18th hole and working backward until one team's score was better than the others. Third place in the net score went to the team of Debbie Underwood and Bud Nelson, who came in at 87 and 73. Winning the low gross competition was the team of Mike Hanson and Sarah Johnson with a score of 77. In the nine-hole competition the winning net score was posted by the team of Phil Skeps and Cathy Morrell with a 32. The winning gross score was a 45 posted by Edwina and Tery Heyer. All winners received store credits at the pro shop.

Vote Biden

After 3 years and 8 months in office, we now have enough evidence of Donald J. Trump's leadership.

The economy was growing for over 10 years until COVID-19. When faced with a crumbling economy and high unemployment, what did Trump do? 50 million people applied for unemployment. 7.8 million jobs were lost. (Bureau of Labor Statistics).

Trump ranks number 12 out of the fourteen presidents since the Great Depression in job creation. He ranks number 1 in unemployment. (Forbes). National debt grew by $5.2 trillion. (Newsweek, 5/14/20).

How has Trump handled social and racial tension? Our country is torn apart by the death of George Floyd and racism. On June 1, NPR reported, "Peaceful Protesters Tear-Gassed To Clear Way for Trump Church Photo-Op." Trump's response: The police officer who killed George Floyd was "a bad apple."

Trump described the Aug. 12, 2017 Unite the Right rally in Charlottesville as having "very fine people" on both sides. He questions Kamala Harris' citizenship in a birtherism attack.

What did Trump do for healthcare? The U.S. is the world leader in COVID-19 deaths. Trump opposes increased testing, (STAT News, 7/20/20), ignores the advice of doctors, and recommends injecting yourself with disinfectant. Trump signed the Right to Try law which was already in effect in 41 states. Insurance companies don't always cover the cost. (righttotry.org).

How has Trump supported our democracy? He attempted to change the election date. (U.S. Constitution Article 1, Section 4). When that was unsuccessful, Trump attacked the U.S. Postal Service to suppress mail-in vote. (Deseret News, 8/13/20).

Trump took an oath on January 20, 2017, that he "will to the best of [his] ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States." In 2016, he claimed, "I alone can fix it." If this is his best, then we deserve better.

We deserve a leader, someone who looks forward with courage, who can lead through a crisis and restore integrity to the presidency.

Vote for a leader, for our future, for our children, for everyone. Biden.

- Valerie Palamountain, Lake Monticello

Vote GOP out

Welcome to a brave new world or, as an ole' geezer friend of mine put it, "It's a wonderful life, if you don't weaken!"

The ride through the recent health, economic and social disruption has been downright exciting, and then you have to add in an exuberant election season. With the advent of COVID-19, those with stocks saw a 30 percent drop and then a virtual full recovery. Many with jobs, and health insurance, lost them with minimal, in some cases no, recovery. A powerful, organized, and effective national response to the pandemic hasn't just been slow, it's virtually non-existent. A few nay-sayers suggest the pandemic is little more than a bad flu season. Tell that to the 166,000 plus families who have lost loved ones! The excess death tally of the last seven months suggests the 166,000 deaths attributed to COVID is an undercount.

For nearly four years, while borrowing and giving a trillion dollars to corporations and the wealthy, the president and his Republican congressional accomplices have actively sought to dismantle our health care system, doing away with protections for pre-existing conditions, while promising but not even formulating a grand new comprehensive and less costly health care system. On July 17th, the president told the FOX faux news network "a detailed expansive and comprehensive health plan would be presented within two weeks." Two weeks passed . . . nothing, and then he said it would be presented around the end of August. Don't hold your breath!

Having passed dramatically effective but excitingly expensive economic responses to the pandemic, the administration and a bipartisan congress temporarily alleviated much of the pain, but that too has passed. While the House passed legislation for on-going relief over two months ago, the Republican senate is AWOL, refusing to negotiate, while the president tries to artfully deal knowing that any deal would then have to be renegotiated with the Senate (not).

Now, attempting to dismantle the postal system, it seems the president wants to cripple, if not eliminate, the pending election. It's time to vote the GOP out!

The Fluvanna SPCA will be closed to the public until further notice. We are trying to do our part to help cut down on the spread of COVID-19, and with our animals' and employees' best interests in mind we are trying to reduce foot traffic to help keep our employees healthy. The animals at the shelter will continue to receive wonderful care just as they normally do, so no need to worry. If you are interested in adopting or if you would like to drop off donations during this time that we are closed to the public, you can make an appointment to do so by contacting our shelter manager: manager@fspca.org. We appreciate your understanding and support during this difficult time for everyone, and we will be sure to keep you updated as soon as we will be open again to the public.

THIS WEEK'S PET IS: SHEBA APPROX. 3 YRS

I am three years old, I walk perfectly on a leash and I love love love squeaky toys! People tell me I have the prettiest face! I am missing some fur on my back because the people who I used to live with forgot to give me any flea and tick treatments. I was covered with fleas. That made me very itchy and made my skin sore. The nice people at the shelter gave me a bath and flea treatment. I feel much better. Soon my hair will grow back just like new!

Fun is my game!

Serving the communities dental needs in Louisa

BY PAT WILSON
CORRESPONDENT

With government assistance and though the generosity of businesses, churches and individuals, the Louisa County Resource Council provides free supplementary food for eligible clients through various options. These on-going services are familiar to most residents, but a newer program provides dental assistance.

Vickie Southall, UVA nursing instructor, periodically brought her student interns to Louisa County as part of a rural nursing course. Follow-up discussions among the students noted the acute need for dental care which they observed while doing routine blood pressure and diabetes testing for the organization's food assistance clients. In addition, a 2018 study by the Thomas Jefferson Health District found Louisa County to have nearly twice as much need for dental care as surrounding areas.

"The nursing interns had done some background research and concluded that about 50 percent of county residents had not seen a dentist in two to three years," said retired dentist Dr.

John Hodge.

Similarly, Cathy Portner, LCRC office manager, confirmed that numerous income-eligible clients served by the feeding programs were suffering with oral discomfort. Some expressed that the pain and swelling were so intense that their diets were limited to soft foods.

Because of the study and observations, Southall, Hodge and LCRC executive director Lloyd Runnett conferred to discuss optional solutions. In early 2019, the LCRC board decided to initiate a program to help with adult dental care, particularly emergency assistance. Donna Kirkley joined a committee with Hodge, Southall, Portner and Runnett to head up the project.

"I was asked to talk with dentists in the area about a voucher project," said Hodge. "Six dentists across the county agreed to sign up with us. Then, we began asking for donations and people were most generous. As the project developed that year, grants from area foundations enabled us to increase the number of people that we could help."

Qualified adult clients are eligible to receive vouchers, now set at $500, to cover emergency assistance. The initial step is to complete an application. Along with indicating the specific dental problem, the form requires information on previous dental care, if any, and general health. Qualifying applicants must show proof of Louisa residency but do not have to be registered for food assistance. Once approved by a committee member, a voucher is issued and Portner sets up an appointment. Dentists are selected on a rotating basis, although location of the dental office in relation to the client's residence is considered. A $25 co-pay or volunteer service at LCRC is required of voucher recipients.

"Last year we assisted 55 clients, this year we will be able to help about 10 to 15 people a month," said Portner. "Most clients require extractions or fillings which vouchers cover. We can exceed the voucher amount if emergency cases require more extensive work, but that determination is made on a case-by-case basis."

Although the program's goal is focused on relieving pain, Hodge anticipated that additional grants and donations will permit preventative care or minor aesthetic work that might result in better employment opportunities. By mutual agreement, once the patient is referred, LCRC has no responsibility for the work done. Clients are encouraged to continue a client/dentist relationship.

Participating professionals are Dr. Darryl Pearlman (Louisa), Dr. John Andre (Louisa), Dr. Mohammed Arafa (Mineral Dental Care), Dr. Kirk Williams (Louisa Comprehensive Dental), Dr. Michael Clark (Piedmont Dental @ Lake Anna) and Dr. John Knight, Jr. (Spring Creek Dental). Hodge and Portner praise the generous support of the dentists. On several occasions, when the costs exceeded the voucher, the dentist wrote off the remainder of the invoice.

Additional information about eligibility guidelines is available at the LCRC office on Resource Lane just north of the intersection of Chalk Level Road and Davis Highway between the towns of Mineral and Louisa. Cathy Portner, office manager, can be contacted at 540-967-1510 during office hours, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. LCRC maintains a website, louisaresource.org and an email address, louisaresource@gmail.com.
