The importance of culinary history Recipes from Fluvanna's Black community

BY RUTHANN CARR
CORRESPONDENT

Nina Monroe is mining relationships with older friends and relatives for recipes.

And now she'd like to reach readers.

The owner of The Elephantz Trunk recently joined the Fluvanna Economic Development Tourism Advisory Council.

"It seemed as if the African American culture wasn't included (in plans/suggestions), Monroe said. "I mean, we're not going to go rafting down the James River."

So Monroe suggested searching for, cataloging and publishing a list of recipes from the people and the county she grew up in: Fluvanna's black community.

"I feel this is a missing part of Fluvanna's Black culture," she said.

Monroe grew up in Bremo Bluff where her mother still lives.

Two of the recipes she has gleaned so far are for buttermilk cornbread with crackling and wild rabbit and gravy.

"So many of mothers and grandmothers didn't cook from a written recipe," Monroe said.

When she asked her mother for how much flour went into a dish, she said, "I don't know, we just threw in what we needed."

That's one of the obstacles to sharing the recipes. Monroe often has to sit with a relative while they make the dish and write down the ingredients, amounts and steps.

Her mother told Monroe to bake the cornbread at 425 degrees.

"I knew she cooked on a wood stove and I asked how she knew what the temperature was. She said those stoves had a gauge on top. I had no idea," Monroe said.

Tricia Johnson, director of the Fluvanna Historical Society, said culinary history is important.

"It's not only a reflection of how families spent their time together but it shows what their resources were and what they did with them," Johnson said.

"Culinary history is fascinating because it teaches us about what people had and how they creatively used what they had."

Monroe said the recipes will be available in a downloadable pdf version online at www.fromfluvanna.org.

"We'll have blog posts highlighting the recipes," she said.

Gale Babcock Robertson

Saudi Arabia. A "career Army wife," she expertly balanced volunteering, leading Army spouse organizations, developing friendships, playing tennis, painting and providing a wonderful home (wherever they were stationed) for her two boys and twin daughters.

They retired to Lake Monticello in Palmyra, VA in 2001 where she became very active in the community to include the Fluvanna Singers and the Palmyra United Methodist Church. In June 2017, they relocated to The Fairfax Retirement Community at Fort Belvoir, VA where she peacefully passed after 10 years of enduring Alzheimer's disease.

Gale Robertson was preceded in death by her husband of 62 years, Major General, U.S. Army (Ret) George R. Robertson. She is survived by her son, COL (USA, Ret) Russell and his wife, LTC (USA, Ret) Susan of Fairfax Station, VA; her son, Randall and his wife, June of Rockledge, FL; daughter, Christina Paxson of Troy, VA; daughter Robin von Tagen of Brentwood, TN; 11 grandchildren, 3 (soon to be 4) great-grandchildren, her brother Larry Babcock of Fairview, NC, and sister Lynn Blankenship of Merritt Island, FL.

Gale will be buried beside her husband at Arlington National Cemetery (date to be determined). www.FairfaxMemorialFuneralHome.com.

Gale Babcock Robertson, devoted wife, mother of four, grandmother of 11, and great grandmother, passed away on Thursday, January 21, 2021, at the age of 82.

Gale was born in Vancouver, Washington on April 24, 1938. She was Senior Class President and received an Associate's Degree at Sullins College in Bristol, VA before marrying George R. Robertson of Turin, Georgia upon his graduation from West Point in 1958. Raised an "Army Brat" herself, she was accustomed to the military lifestyle and, along with George's military career, moved well over 40 times in her life, including Hawaii, Alaska and ic development coordinator, is excited about the project.

"It gives us a socially distant event to participate in," he said. "Families across the county will be able to experience the traditions of Black families from Fluvanna. This is a substitute to inviting people in for a meal and a story. I hope others will join in and try to recreate the meals. I know I will."

EDTAC works on increasing awareness of Fluvanna and the things that make Fluvanna special, Rothamel said. The group completed the 101+ Things to Do in Fluvanna, a way for residents to have a personal experience in Fluvanna's uniqueness.

"With this project, the families submitting recipes are inviting residents into their kitchen. I look forward to recreating these tastes from Fluvanna," he said.

Nina Monroe is looking for recipes that have been passed down from generation to generation, she said.

"I'm looking for cultural/ comfort / soul food recipes that were and are a staple of the black household."

Send your recipes to Monroe at theelephantztrunk@gmail.com

Monroe hopes to publish the project by mid-February.

Letters to the editor

Good supported insurrection

The article in last week's paper stating that Bob Good was simply exercising his right when he objected to the electors of certain states, is accurate. The writer, Ms. Rateau, compares Good's actions with those of several Democrats in the past twenty years. Her history is accurate. However, her context is faulty.

The Democrats she cites were making allegations related to specific electors. Their objections were pro forma, as all the Democratic candidates who had lost their elections had conceded weeks earlier. More importantly, none of the losing candidates spoke a word that encouraged the public to question their defeats.

The context of this year's election is entirely different. Donald Trump used the office of the presidency on several occasions to intimidate election officials, and most egregiously incited his supporters to find ways to overturn the election. Many followed through with riot and mayhem at the Capitol. Mr. Good was not simply exercising a right, he was in reality supporting insurrection.

-George Coussoulos, Lake Monticello

Well failure feared

Moving from an urban site to this bucolic setting in 1987, zoned A1 (agriculture), my property nestled next to a story-book hundred acre wood riddled with serene trails, briskly flowing Ballinger Creek, animals, and nature, I found home! Here was privacy, peaceful country living, stars in the quiet night sky, and freedom to exist and raise children with room to run. The only drawback has been limited water supply through my well.

Harsh reality arrived quite abruptly in October 2020 when a developer suddenly knocked on my door and announced his intention to cut down the entire beloved 100 acre wood and create a subdivision adjoining my entire property line. My heart sank, and I grieved.

This suburban density is planned for a rural area zoned A1 not serviced by public water or sewer which includes plans for a total of 48 homes (18 immediately adjacent to my property line), each on approximately 0.35 acre lots, each with a well and never-before tried or proven septic/drainage field systems that will service four homes in a documented water-problematic area of Fluvanna County. It includes topographical slopes in some areas too steep to ever consider sleigh riding. This subdivision is a startling deviation from other homes in the area.

Many Palmyra neighbors have documented testimonies such as well/pump failure, multiple wells dug before tapping water, and turning off pumps daily to allow water to re-accumulate before use can resume. The fear is very real that current and future Fluvanna County citizens will experience well and spring failure in this setting at their own expense. Perhaps Fluvanna County will have to step in and rescue failing or faltering wells of its citizens by providing an expensive and prohibitive public water supply because of this dense urban plan.

It is my opinion that the developer who stands to benefit financially from this subdivision should bear the expense of piping water to it, sparing Fluvanna County and citizens from assisting him in his financial gain.

RUDY TALKS TAXES

BY RUDY GARCIA, OWNER, RIVANNA WOODS FINANCIAL / TAX SERVICES

4 Ways to Make Sure Your Tax Return Doesn't Get Stuck

2021 has arrived like a whirlwind. January is in the books. E-filing for the 2020 Tax Season begins on February 12th and that is just around the corner!

As the tax filing season gets underway, now is a great time to review some tips to help ensure your tax return is processed without a delay. Also included are reminders of some surprising tax situations this year because of the pandemic. For small businesses there are some organizational hints that seem to work and a thoughtful article for all of us to consider about how we tend to undervalue the worth of our personal identities.

Please call if you would like to discuss how this information could impact your situation. If you know someone who can benefit from this newsletter, feel free to send it to them.

Here are four ways to make sure the preparation of your tax return keeps humming along until it gets filed.

1. Keep tax documents in one place. Missing items is one of the biggest reasons filing a tax return gets delayed! Find a place in your home and put all tax documents in this one place as you receive them. Common missing items this year will include the new 1099-NEC for any taxpayers that are contractors, consultants or part of the gig economy.

2. Organize documents by type. Every tax professional has a story of someone bringing their documents to them in a shoebox or storage container. All this does is increase the amount of time it takes to prepare your return, so it's best to sort your documents in tax return order. Pull out last year's tax return and create folders for each section including income, business/rental information, adjustments to income, itemized deductions, tax credit information and a not-sure bucket.

3. Create list of special events. You receive a Form W-2 from your employer every year. You may get a 1099-INT from your bank if you earn interest income on your deposit accounts. But selling a home usually doesn't happen every year. Retiring from a 40-year job doesn't happen every year. Sending a child to college also doesn't happen every year (although it might seem like it does!). If you don't write down these unusual events as they happen, you might forget them when your tax return is being prepared. And you may not remember until the moment your return is about to be filed. This is sure to cause delays.

4. Don't forget your signature! You may be surprised to learn that even if you electronically file your tax return, you still must sign Form 8879, which authorizes the e-filing of your return. So whether it's a traditionally-filed paper tax return or one filed electronically, a signature is required.

These are four of the more common reasons why the preparation of your tax return may get delayed. Be prepared and file your return without a hitch! The time is right to call or email now to set up your virtual or in-person appointment.

PUBLIC NOTICE Pleasant Grove Park Wildlife Meadows Restoration Controlled Burn

Fluvanna County will soon begin the next phase of meadow management and restoration at Pleasant Grove Park by conducting a series of prescribed controlled burns. The burns will take place in two wildlife meadows, as indicated by the yellow encircled areas in the image below.

As part of the County's long-term meadow maintenance plan, controlled burns will allow us to retain these areas as valuable, and rare, wildlife habitat, as well as arrest the natural progression of these meadows into forest. The first two controlled burns are planned for February 2021 when wind, humidity, and other weather conditions are more likely to be favorable. Native grasses and wildflowers are dormant at this time of year and wildlife nesting has not begun.

Five years ago, the Fluvanna County embarked on a plan to create native wildlife meadows at Pleasant Grove. The first step, no longer mowing certain areas, created nearly 70 acres of wildlife meadows, some of the largest areas of native meadow on public property in Virginia, outside of national parks. While the actual burn will be conducted by trained and experienced Virginia Department of Forestry personnel, the County is coordinating with many other agencies to prepare, conduct, and follow-up after the burn. The agencies involved in the planned burns include the: Fluvanna County Fire Departments, Fluvanna County Sheriff's Office, Fluvanna County Public Schools, Virginia Department of Transportation, Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources, Virginia Cooperative Extension, Rivanna Master Naturalists, and Fluvanna Master Gardeners. After the burn, donated native grass and wildflower seeds will be planted, particularly in the areas disturbed by creating a fire line around the perimeter of the burned area.

If you have questions about the planned controlled burns, please visit the County website at www.fluvannacounty.org, or contact Aaron Spitzer, Director of Parks and Recreation, by email at aspitzer@fluvannacounty.org or by phone at 434-589-2016.

Fluco boys start strong, hang on to top Orange 53-48

BY DUNCAN NIXON
CORRESPONDENT

The Fluco boys' basketball squad outscored the Orange County Hornets 16-9 in the first quarter on Jan. 29, and Orange never led the rest of the way. Maurice D'Alessandra was hot for the Flucos as he hit two three-point shots in the middle of the quarter and then sank three free throws after being fouled on a three-point shot. His nine points in the first quarter equaled Orange's total for the quarter. The Flucos also had a three pointer by Kobe Edmonds and four points from John Rittenhouse in the quarter.

The second quarter was a low scoring affair as both teams were having trouble getting off makeable shots. Xavier Copeland had two baskets for the Flucos. One came on a steal and a drive for a lay-up and the other came on a lay-up off a nice pass by D'Alessandra. Both teams scored eight in the quarter for a half-time score of 24-17.

In the third quarter, the Flucos continued to have problems finding their stride. The Hornets picked up their game somewhat and they outscored Fluvanna 12-7 to cut the margin down to two points at 31-29. D'Alessandra had another three-point basket for the Flucos and Rittenhouse and Copeland both contributed two points.

The pace of play heated up significantly in the final quarter, as both teams put up more points than in any previous quarter. The quarter started well for the Flucos, as Rittenhouse scored on a layup, Edmonds made a steal and went coast to coast for a lay-in. Orange countered with a lay-up and Rittenhouse nailed a three-point shot. The Flucos were back in the lead by seven, at 38-31. Copeland scored a basket and a free throw, while Orange recorded two two-point baskets and the score was 41-35 with three minutes left. D'Alessandra made his fourth three point shot and Copeland made a steal and fed Rittenhouse, who was fouled and made two free throws. The Hornets refused to go away, sinking a couple of three pointers in the final minutes to cut the Fluco lead to three points twice. However, the Flucos handled the pressure well as D'Alessandra, Rittenhouse and Copeland all converted clutch free throws, as the clock wound down, to preserve the Fluco lead.

After the game, Coach Heath Bralley commented that his team played very Fluco Boy's Basketball continues on page 8.

I got my name because I like to talk. A lot! I have no potty issues and I am not a fan of other felines. I am however a character. I like to growl while eating, purr when laying with you, talk when I am confused. I used to follow my human to the bedroom and lay with him in between his legs. I do not like to be picked up though. It is uncomfortable. I also enjoy being brushed. My human laughs at me when I get the zoomies. Unfortunately, that human had to surrender me due to medical needs. We just found out that I am hyperthyroid. I am currently taking a medication daily that goes in my ear. The cost of the medication is $30 dollars a month. The only thing that I like to eat is kitten pate and kitten dry. I would need to get this medication daily, and it could get costly so please consider this before taking me home. My new friends here at the shelter know that I will also need a dental in about 6 months to a year from what our vet friend has said. Please think of me and call the shelter to schedule an appointment to meet me. I miss my home and it will take me some time to adjust to a new one. Will you be patient with me?

well in spurts, but was not as consistent as he would like. He was very enthused by the energy and defense contributed by Copeland. Copeland was in the face of the Hornets top gun all game. The Flucos won their first match-up with Orange, but in that game the Orange star guard scored 51. Copeland held him to 20 in this game. High scorers for the Flucos in this game were D'Alessandra and Rittenhouse with 18 and 17 respectively. Copeland pitched in with eleven points and some outstanding defense and rebounding. Point guard Kobe Edmonds had a quiet night in scoring, but he is always a steady hand throughout the game. It was announced before the game that Edmonds, a junior, has passed the 1,000 point mark for his career.

At the time of this article the Fluco boys were 8-3 on the season. They played Charlottesville on Feb. 1 and Orange again on Feb. 3. They finish up this abbreviated season on Feb. 5 against Monticello.

The situation with regard to postseason play is still unclear.

Doctors answer questions about vaccines

BY PAGE H. GIFFORD
CORRESPONDENT

On Jan. 26, the Fluvanna Chapter of the NAACP hosted a forum on Zoom with medical experts from the University of Virginia and the Blue Ridge Health District, associated with the Virginia Department of Health, discussing questions regarding the COVID-19 vaccines and vaccinations.

The panel included Dr. Taison Bell M.D., an assistant professor of medicine in the divisions of Infectious Diseases and International Health and in Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine at U.Va.

It also included Dr. Cameron Webb M.D., who is a practicing internist, assistant professor, the director of health policy and equity at U.Va.'s School of Medicine. Webb also helped found the Health Equity, Law, and Policy Research Laboratory at U.Va. Webb has been tapped for a senior role in President-elect Biden's response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The panel also included Dr. Denise Bonds of the Blue Ridge Health District (former Thomas Jefferson Health District).

The discussion opened with questions regarding the disease, its structure, and how the vaccine works to bolster immunity using the body's defenses.

Dr. Bell began talking about the family of viruses known as CoV, including SARS and MERS. COVID-19 is related to SARS CoV-2.

"Variants are important and the reason they make the news is they spread more easily," said Bell. Dr. Webb addressed how the vaccine works in the human body to ward off the virus by giving detailed examples.

"If you have any questions ask your healthcare professional," said Webb. He recommends that those who want information do not search online because some information may not be accurate.

The question was asked why the virus is more deadlier for African-Americans and other minorities.

"The African-American community has been neglected and not getting what they need. We need to make sure that we protect as many as possible," said Bell. Under the new administration, there is work being done to assure that the minority communities and native American reservations are included in the vaccination process. The problem in many of these areas is getting the people's trust in taking the vaccine. Particularly there is hesitation in the Hispanic communities because of misinformation and more education is needed.

"The vaccines have been researched for over a decade and it appears to work well across ethnicities," said Dr. Webb. Dr. Bell added, "The vaccines were developed using well-studied technology and were rigorously studied with independent oversight at all levels." Drs. Webb and Bonds agreed with Dr. Bell that the vaccines against COVID-19 are very effective for preventing symptomatic COVID-19 infection and are generally very safe.

Questions regarding reactions and allergies were uppermost in most people's minds. Dr. Webb explained that some may have a reaction to the first dose such as pain at the injection site, some muscle or joint aches, some fever, or a headache. Some may experience a few of these mild side effects or nothing at all.

"My wife had a temperature of 101 after the first dose and then a temperature of 102 with the second dose but my parents had zero side effects," said Dr. Webb.

"The severe allergic reaction is a rare side effect but everyone should be aware of it," said Dr. Bell. He added that those with severe allergic reactions, such as a rash or the throat swelling and closing up are one in 100,000 with the Pfizer vaccine and one in 400,000 with Moderna's. "Speak with your physician if you have specific questions or concerns."

"It has been very well tolerated, only one person has had very mild symptoms," added Dr. Bonds. They did add that if you are a heavy user of alcohol or are sick, do not get vaccinated until you are in better shape.

Regarding the cases that have been declining in Virginia and elsewhere in the U.S the doctors stated this is no time to become complacent but to remain vigilant.

"After coming down from recent highs earlier this month it does look like our case counts and hospitalizations are coming down. Unfortunately, much of this is connected with the increase in holiday related travel," said Dr. Bell. "We should remain vigilant because this virus has shown an ability to persist when we let up our guard. Additionally, the UK variant spreads easily and will make sticking to our strategies to contain the spread of the virus that much more important."

Dr. Bonds added, "The best mask is the one you're going to wear." She also suggests following the new guidelines for mask-wearing and find one that has double layers of tightly-woven fabric.

Those waffling on the idea of getting vaccinated or refuse to do so for personal reasons might try to see it from Webb and Bell's perspective. Though a day for them is often grim they are still hopeful things will turn around with the vaccine and everyone doing their part to save lives, including their own by wearing masks, social distancing, and washing their hands. Dr. Webb usually sees people who are not as severe but may need treatment and isolation whereas Dr. Bell sees much worse and is frank about what he witnesses on a daily basis including death. But even the aftermath of COVID-19 changes lives.

"Life changes for survivors," said Dr. Bell. "They may experience depression or other physical changes affecting their lives which may not have been the case prior to the illness."

As for the vaccine roll-out it has been slow, frustrating, confusing for many. The key to organizing is in the planning of logistics, effective communications, and timing once there are enough vaccines to go around.

"The federal government sends a certain amount and it is just 100,000 in the state of Virginia. The Blue Ridge Health District (this includes Albemarle, Fluvanna, Louisa, Green, and Nelson) makes up three percent of the population so that would be 2,800 doses per week. But now it looks like the federal government will be increasing the doses to states," said Dr. Bonds.

The leading question was when would it be available at doctor's offices.

"Eventually, you will get the vaccine from your physician's but since these vaccines are so fussy, having to store one in ultracold temperatures, it is more likely that pharmacies like CVS, Walgreens, or Walmart will be able to provide it," said Dr. Bonds.

Regarding long-term immunity, Dr. Bell stated, "Long-term immunity is not definitive but drug companies are tracking those who have been vaccinated." There is a lot for these doctors to consider with the disease itself, the mutations, and the short and long-term effects. What we do and the choices we make will influence the outcome of the pandemic.

"Once we see cases decline and stay low as we start to gradually resume our usual activities, we will know then that we have turned the corner. I don't expect this to happen until we achieve herd immunity," said Dr. Bell.

For more information about vaccinations or to take the surveys, visit <https://www.vdh.virginia.gov/blue-ridge/covid-19-vaccination/> or call the district's COVID_19 hotline at (434)972-6261.

PUBLIC NOTICE

THE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

FOR

THE COUNTY OF FLUVANNA

Public notice is hereby given that the Board of Equalization for Fluvanna County will meet for the purpose of hearing complaints of inequalities including errors in acreage. Upon hearing such complaints, either oral or written, the Board will give consideration and INCREASE, DECREASE, OR AFFIRM such real estate assessments. Before a change can be granted, the taxpayer or his agent must overcome a clear presumption in favor of the assessment. The taxpayer or agent must provide a preponderance of the evidence that the assessment of the property is not uniform with the assessments of other similar properties or that the property is assessed in excess of its fair market value.

If you wish to appeal your 2021 Real Estate Assessment, please contact the Board of Equalization at (434) 591-1903 or boe@fluvannacounty.org by March 31, 2021 to register your appeal.

Due to the continuing Public Health Emergency, Board of Equalization Meetings will meet with modifications. ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Plaintiffs Beverly Payne and Shelby Payne have filed a Complaint that seeks to quiet title, and then to partition, a 10-acre parcel of land identified as Tax Map 18-A, parcel 50, located at the intersection of Route 600 (South Boston Road) and Route 709 (Martin Lane), purchased by Pleasant Martin and Richard Martin in 1925. There is a home on the property where Plaintiffs live, and where their families have lived since 1925. Plaintiffs believe that they have identified all known heirs of Pleasant Martin and Richard Martin, except for the heirs of Mildred Martin, who had been the second wife of Colonel P. Martin. Colonel P. Martin died on December 3, 1996, and our information is that Mildred Martin survived him. Plaintiffs do not know who the heirs of Mildred Martin might be. RAB Performance Recoveries appears to be a foreign corporation that has a judgment against one of the potential heirs.

There will be a hearing on March 19, 2021, at 1:15 PM, in the Circuit Court for the County of Fluvanna, Palmyra, Virginia 22963 at which time Counsel for Plaintiffs will ask the Court to set a trial date and to make various other decisions in an effort to determine who the proper parties are.

Notice is hereby given to the heirs of Pleasant Martin and Richard Martin, and to the Individuals specifically named above, that you should appear at that time to protect your interests.

Accordingly, the Court ORDERS that this Order be published in the Fluvanna Review, a newspaper of general circulation in Fluvanna County, once each week for four successive weeks, and that it be posted at the front door of the courthouse of this Court.

Entered this 15th day of January, 2021.
