Mary, tell us a little about your background prior to your starting Caring for Creatures.

My love affair with animals began in childhood. I loved to walk and play with our neighborhood dogs and my heart went out to those who were neglected. One dog that lived behind us was chained and rarely interacted with his humans. In the winter I would give him fresh water and would take food from our refrigerator to give him. In my early 20s I began volunteering with animal shelters wherever I lived. It was through my experience as a volunteer that I was inspired to create a place where animals were not euthanized within a week of arriving at the shelter. My full-time employment included working at a law firm, stock brokerage/investment company, I managed a large apartment complex west of Chicago and I worked with a commercial real estate developer just prior to moving to Palmyra to begin CFC.

When did Caring for Creatures open?

I moved onto the CFC property on August 16, 1988.

Why did you locate in Fluvanna County?

I lived in the northern Virginia area and very quickly determined that I could not afford property in that area so began looking elsewhere. We originally had a contract on a property in Orange, Virginia, but an issue with the ground water made it necessary for us to walk away from that property. The current CFC property was advertised for sale by owner in the Washington Post. We were seeking a larger property that would provide privacy and a buffer between CFC and any neighbors to hopefully prevent barking dogs from annoying the neighbors! We also wanted a place that would be a healing environment for traumatized animals. The property included a residence, a garage and a very old small barn structure.

Could you describe your facilities?

Currently, the sanctuary consists of a main office/kitchen building, The Eleanor K. Friede Feline Residence which houses our senior cats and some of our leukemia cats; The Scratching Post which is our largest cat residence with six rooms and a large central kitchen; all the cat areas have enclosed outside porches to safely provide fresh air and sunshine for those cats who wish to spend time outside. We also have a Training & Education Center which is currently being utilized to provide indoor kennels for a number of our dogs. We have about 27 large dog areas that include 4'x8' insulated and heated dog condos.

Do you have a paid staff and/or volunteers?

We have paid staff to handle the animal care feeding/cleaning tasks as well as medical care; two office staff and a grounds/maintenance staff. Staff is a combination of full- and part-time employees. NOTE – we have two open positions for animal care staff!! CFC also has an awesome volunteer corps to enhance our operation. Volunteers do all sorts of tasks that include: dog walking/socializing, cat socializing, washing dishes, cleaning cat rooms, cleaning dog yards, feeding dogs, administrative tasks, maintaining of our website, Facebook page, transporting of animals to veterinary appointments, picking up supplies, and building/repair tasks. We welcome new volunteers!

What walks of life do the volunteers come from?

Pretty much all walks of life – from business professionals, stay-at-home parents, small business owners, and retired individuals to younger business professionals.

How do you train volunteers?

We do a volunteer orientation monthly. The orientation for dogs is at 11 a.m. and the cats are at 1 p.m. Both sessions run about two hours in length. New volunteers learn general sanctuary guidelines and procedures, meet the animals and even do a few dog walks and socialize with the kitties. Volunteers are informed of the sanctuary's guidelines and rules for working with the animals and we advise them of all opportunities for helping the sanctuary. New volunteers also receive support from long-time volunteers on their first few visits after orientation.

What positions do you have for volunteers?

There are many ways volunteers can be of assistance: dog walking/socializing, giving dog baths, cat socializing, brushing/combing cats, assist staff with cleaning the animals' living areas, washing dishes, transporting animals to and from vet appointments, fundraising events and projects, taking photos of the animals, creating fun videos, repairs & maintenance. The list is extensive!

Out of curiosity, how many years has the senior volunteer been with you?

Many of our volunteers have been helping out for years. Some volunteers have been providing their time, love and talents for close to 20 years!

Periodically you need the services of a veterinarian. How is this handled?

We regularly need the services of a veterinarian. CFC works with several different veterinarians to provide quality care for our animals. Marty Betts, DVM, has been making monthly visits to CFC since 2008 to do exams, rabies vaccines, cat neuters, and any number of medical procedures. We take animals to vet hospitals for spaying/neutering, diagnostics and exams, dentals, etc. This is where our volunteer transporters come into play. We could use two or three more volunteers who would like to assist with this task.

Do you have a favored supplier or do you purchase food for your animals wherever you can?

Food is an important aspect of restoring and maintaining a healthy animal. Most of the animals who come to us are not in robust health! Rather, they are in varying states of neglect or suffering from long-standing conditions. As a result, we feed the highest quality of food our budget will allow. We purchase our food supplies from several different sources depending on the needs of our animals. A number of our animals may need special diets to assist with a particular medical condition – such as diabetic animals, those with allergies or IBS type conditions.

What are your sources of revenue?

The sanctuary survives on gifts from individuals, fundraising activities and events, and some grants. We do not receive any support from local or state governments. Our monthly expenses average about $35,000.

How does the public find out about your operation? Do you advertise in any way?

CFC does have a website (<https://www.caringforcreatures.org>) and a Facebook page. We do a weekly Pet of the Week radio spot on WCHV with Joe Thomas on Friday mornings – the spot runs around 8:05 a.m. We rely on articles such as this to introduce Caring For Creatures to folks who may not know of us.

Do you have a newsletter someone can use as a sales tool to help get donations?

Yes. We issue about three hard copy newsletters per year. We also do an e-newsletter every month to provide regular updates on the goings on at the sanctuary. Interested parties can sign up to receive this e-newsletter on the home page of our website; or, just email us at CFCHOME@aol.com and provide your email address.

Do you encourage the public to personally visit Caring for Creatures?

Yes! Now that COVID has eased a bit, we are open for visitors during our open hours (Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.). We still do adoptions by appointments so that we can make sure one of our adoption counselors is available to work with potential adopters. Most first-time visitors are surprised when they see the size and scope of our sanctuary.

Is there an overlap between Caring for Creatures and the Fluvanna County SPCA?

RUDY TALKS TAXES

BY RUDY GARCIA, OWNER, RIVANNA WOODS FINANCIAL / TAX SERVICES

Tips to Protect Your Social Security Number

Very few things in life can create a higher degree of stress than having your Social Security number (SSN) stolen. This is because, unlike other forms of identification, your SSN is virtually permanent. Here are some things that you can do to minimize the risk of having your number fall into the hands of the wrong people.

• Never carry your card. Place your SSN card in a safe place. That place is never your wallet or purse. Only take the card with you when you need it.

• Know who needs it. As identity theft continues to evolve, there are fewer who really need to know your SSN. Here is that list:

-The government. The federal and state governments use this number to keep track of your earnings for retirement benefits and to ensure you pay proper taxes.

-Your employer. The SSN is used to keep track of your wages and withholdings. It also is used to prove citizenship and to contribute to your Social Security and Medicare accounts.

-Certain financial institutions. Your SSN is used by various financial institutions to prove citizenship, open bank accounts, provide loans, establish other forms of credit, track digital payments, report your credit history or confirm your identity. In no case should you be required to confirm more than the last four digits of your number.

• Challenge all other requests. Many other vendors may ask for your SSN, but having it may not be essential. The most common requests come from health care providers and insurance companies, but requests can also come from subscription services when setting up a new account. When asked on a form for your number, leave it blank. If your supplier really needs it, they will ask you for it. This allows you to challenge their request.

• Destroy and distort documents. Shred any documents that have your number listed. When providing copies of your tax return to anyone, distort or cover your SSN. Remember, your number is printed on the top of each page of Form 1040. If the government requests your SSN on a check payment, only place the last four digits on the check, and replace the first five digits with Xs.

• Keep your scammer alert on high. Never give out any part of the number over the phone or via email. Do not even confirm your SSN to someone who happens to read it back to you on the phone. If this happens to you, file a police report and report the theft to the IRS and Federal Trade Commission.

• Proactively check for use. Periodically check your credit reports for potential use of your SSN. If suspicious activity is found, have the credit agencies place a fraud alert on your account. Remember, everyone is entitled to a free credit report once a year. You can obtain yours on the Annual Credit Report website.

Replacing a stolen SSN is not only hard to do, it can create many problems. Your best defense is to stop the theft before it happens.

Now is the time to start getting yourself ready for the end of the 2022 tax year. Don't hesitate to call or email us with any questions or concerns. 434-442-4044. Info@rwftaxservices.com

Staff and volunteers at Caring for Creatures. Photo by Harvey J. Sorum

Caring For Creatures and the FSPCA are rescue partners – as we are with other area animal rescue groups such as Green Dogs Unleashed and Cat Action Team. We do what we can to assist the FSPCA. We have been able to transfer animals from their facility to ours – such as leukemia and FIV kitties. We often will get stray dogs show up at the sanctuary (or they are abandoned nearby). Whenever possible we hold these animals and report their arrival to the FSPCA should they get a lost report matching one of the animals. If not reclaimed, we keep the animals, provide full medical care, and seek loving and responsible homes for them.

When someone wants to adopt one of your dogs or cats, what steps do you take to make sure the new owner and the pet are compatible? In addition, do you sell the potential pet?

The first step in our adoption process is to complete our adoption application form which can be done right from our website. The application form for both dogs and cats can be found under the ADOPT tab. We review the application and do a veterinary reference. We make a commitment to every animal in residence that we will do our very best to find a loving and responsible home. Once the adoption application has been approved, we work with the potential adopter to match what they are looking for with one of the animals in residence, based on what we know about our animals. We do ask an adoption fee. We also require that if, for whatever reason, an adoption does not work out or the adopter can no longer provide quality care, that the animal be returned to CFC. We always accept an animal back no matter how long he/she may have been in a home.

Where do the "creatures" come from? Are they pets that owners want to find a new home for or are they runaways?

We receive animals in any number of ways: strays, transfers from shelters, owner surrenders and/or as a result of the death of an animal's human.

If your facility ever reaches near full capacity, what then?

The reality is we cannot accept every animal in need of help. We are regularly at capacity and cannot squeeze in one more! CFC does offer courtesy listings of animals in need of re-homing on our website and do special posts for them on our Facebook page. We provide individuals in need of help with a copy of our resource list which has listings of other shelters and/or rescues who may be in a position to assist. If someone needs assistance in feeding their animal, we help as we can to provide them with food. Our goal is to assist in whatever way we can so the animal can remain in the home or remain in home until such time a new appropriate home can be found.

If you ever plan on retiring, what lies in the future for Caring for Creatures?

CFC has a small dedicated Board who would be responsible for hiring a replacement. However, we are looking for that special person or persons who may be drawn to the work of animal rescue and would like to learn from the ground up and be trained to carry on the duties I currently handle in order to provide a smooth transition. Obviously, we are seeking an individual who is dedicated to animal rescue and committed to a long-term position.

Anything you want to add?

Simply put, animal rescue is hard work on so many levels. We cannot do this work at the level we do without the help from the community. We are grateful to so many of you who have helped and supported our mission for so many years. You are our partners and over our 34 years of operating, thousands of animals have been saved thanks to you. Thank you!

Carysbrook opens with Virginia Folklife film

BY PAGE H. GIFFORD

Carysbrook Performing Arts Center opened Friday, Sept. 9, with its first show of the 2022-23 season and its first film. About 79 people attended the reception and film sponsored by the Fluvanna County Arts Council and Virginia Humanities.

The film, In Good Keeping in 2022, is part of an ongoing series celebrating the culture and traditions of native Virginians and those who have made Virginia their home.

Seven profiles of mentors and their apprentices were featured, talking about the folkways, ancestry, history, and culture connected to Virginia. Those from other countries living in Virginia shared their unique traditions, incorporating them into modern-day Virginia.

The film begins with an Ethiopian coffee ceremony given by Lemlem Gebray. Gebray, who is teaching her daughters to carry on the tradition, explained how she makes and brews the coffee and its importance in everyday living. She said it was similar to the tradition of English tea time. In the ceremony, she sets the area, the guests sit on the floor, and she pours the coffee. Then they say prayers, similar to Americans saying grace before a meal. All are welcome to join in and friends and neighbors are treated like family. It is a ritualistic yet warm atmosphere.

Gebray isn't introducing something alien to Virginia but something no longer practiced by Americans - serving coffee or tea more formally. To many Europeans and those on other continents, tea and coffee are taken more seriously than in America, where it has become more of a tradition to grab a brew and go. Gebray reminds us of our lost traditions of fancy silver or china tea and coffee sets, and even after dinner demitasse cups which most of the current generation has never been exposed to.

There are many large Filipino communities throughout the U.S. and Virginia. Ken Garcia Olaes is learning from his mentor and mother, Lelis Garcia Olaes, about baking traditional Filipino bread in a shop that has been a staple in their community for over 20 years. He couldn't imagine what it would be like if the traditional bread-making operation and Angie's Bakery did not continue because of its identity in the community.

Yara Cordeiro discussed with her apprentice the art of Capoeira, Brazilian martial arts, and dance. There are many similarities to Asian martial arts though it's faster and more energetic than the quiet stealth movements of the Japanese or Chinese.

The next segment of the film takes one on a journey through familiar rolling hillsides and pastures of Virginia to the Blue Ridge Mountains where Bluegrass music is preserved. Their focus was to pass along the traditional music of Virginia to the next generation of musicians, like mentor Mac Traynham and his apprentice, Ashlee Watkins from Australia.

Eddie Bond and Andrew Small continue the age-old tradition of fiddling. The original music of Virginia started with the violin because of its portability and as an easy way to create music and various moods. From Jefferson to the common rural folk, fiddling became a way of life. It has a long history and a musical heritage that began with that one instrument, spreading through Virginia and beyond.

Fixing these instruments is another custom connected to Virginia musicians. Chris Testerman and his apprentice make fiddles, and Walter "Skip" Herman and his apprentice T.K. VanDyke, fix them..

Before the reception and film, Pat Jarrett, digital media specialist with the Virginia Folklife Program and Horace Scruggs, discussed being part of preserving the traditions and history that give modern society a better understanding of how people lived. Scruggs mentioned the evolution of the banjo, an instrument associated with early southern culture.

"The banjo was made by slaves from a hollow gourd with three strings. Later, it was crafted more like a drum." It was a reminder that many of the instruments adopted by Americans had their roots in other cultures, including Spain and Mexico as well as Africa.

Jarrett was excited by all the history and knowledge of these customs and rituals originating from the ancient roots of many cultures. In the film, Jarrett uses a drone to capture the panoramic view of the James and Rivanna Rivers where Scruggs, along with his daughter Hanna, a genealogist, Justin Reid, and historian Niya Bates, took a four-day journey down the rivers, following in the footsteps of their enslaved ancestors. They stopped along the way, including at the Bremo Plantation. They discussed the lives these people lived navigating the river and moving goods, and providing services.

Jarrett's fascination with the subject is the same as that of the many other young apprentices that are being mentored who are learning about their cultural heritage and how to preserve it.

County works to strike balance between development, rural character

BY HEATHER MICHON
CORRESPONDENT

The Planning Commission heard an update on the progress of the county's 2040 Comprehensive Plan during its monthly meeting on Tuesday (Sept. 13).

Community Development Director Douglas Miles reviewed the two key priorities that emerged during a series of open house meetings this past spring and early summer: Fluvanna residents want to protect the county's fundamentally rural character and focus development on the Fork Union and Zion Crossroads areas.

Miles said he and his staff were working on how to implement and strike balances between residents' desires for things like tree buffers and enhanced site landscaping for businesses with businesses' need for visibility.

Citizen advocacy groups focused on rural preservation and historic preservation met over the summer and were in the process of finalizing presentations to bring to the Planning Commission at its Oct. 11 meeting.

If all goes according to the current plan, Miles said they hoped to have a draft document completed by the end of the year, which could then be refined and completed over the winter and spring of 2023.

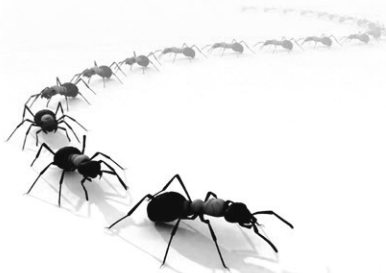

There will be public hearings and other opportunities for community input before a finalized plan is approved by the Board of Supervisors.

Comprehensive plans are detailed documents designed to set out community preferences and priorities for the county's development over a 20-year period and are updated every five years. However, the COVID-19 pandemic delayed the planned 2020 update until earlier this year.

Chairman Barry Bibb asked commissioners to select a couple of areas of the plan where they had interest or experience so they could take a deep dive into the material and come up with their own suggestions on goals and objectives.

The update was the only business before the commission for the evening. Its next meeting is scheduled for Oct. 11 at 6 p.m. at Carysbrook Performing Arts Center.

New Methodist minister welcomed

CONTRIBUTED BY PATTY SCLATER

Palmyra United Methodist and Haden Chapel United Methodist Churches welcomed a new minister and his family in July. He likes to be called Sung (pronounced like rung.) Sung and his wife, Hyesun, (pronounced like hey sun), have two sons. Kwangmin graduated from UVA this spring. Joseph, a junior at Fluvanna County High School, loves soccer. Kwangmin graduated from the University of Virginia this spring. Joseph, a junior at FCHS, loves soccer.

Sung followed in his father's steps as a Methodist minister. He was ordained as a Full Connection Minister in the Korean Methodist Church in 2003. A thirst for further knowledge of methodism brought him to Drew Theological Seminary in New Jersey to complete his Master of Divinity in 2004.

Sung has been serving God's churches for over 30 years as a pastor. Beginning in 2008, he served three churches in Brunswick County (Petersburg District) for four years. After that, he was assigned to Rustburg United Methodist Church (Lynchburg District), where he served for seven years. This was followed by three years at Granberry Memorial United Methodist Church (Staunton District). He was recognized as a Full Connection Elder, a five-year process, by the Virginia Conference in 2016.

Sung was asked for his perception of his new churches as well as the community. From the flowers adorning the parsonage dining room table upon arrival, gift cards to local restaurants and a church reception, he and his family have felt very welcomed, he said. Additionally, when the church family learned that both he and Hyesun were experiencing the effects of long-term COVID, they brought food to the parsonage, he noted. They have been overwhelmed by the generosity and thoughtfulness shown them. He has found both churches to be mature spiritually as well as humble, kind and peaceful. He added that the community, too, has been very kind.

Sung stresses the importance of connections in his sermons. Sung is blessed musically and shares that talent with the churches. In addition to a beautiful tenor voice, he accompanies his solos with the guitar, one of several instruments he plays. He has also been known to pepper his sermons with a sense of humor.

He said that he wanted a challenge and to be useful. Palmyra's Mission Team quickly took him up on the useful part. Both he and his wife pitched in for two days, wherever they saw a need, at the recent yard sale. He is looking forward to Haden Chapel's homecoming, and will help wherever needed there, as well.

THIS WEEK'S PETS: REDD AND LUCKY

PVCC Visual Arts to kick off opening of two exhibitions

PRESS RELEASE

The Piedmont Virginia Community College (PVCC) Visual Arts Department will host a reception to mark the opening of two new exhibitions in the PVCC Gallery on Friday, Sept. 23, from 5 to 7 p.m. Together, the exhibitions highlight works by student artists, writers and designers and the faculty that teach them. Both exhibitions will be on display through Nov. 5.

In the North Gallery, "The Fall Line Retrospective: PVCC's Literary Magazine Looks Back" celebrates 14 years of creativity and collaboration with writings and artwork from the student-created magazine. First published to highlight the variety and quality of creative writing by PVCC students, The Fall Line grew over the years to include original artwork by art students and design work by students in the Graphic and Media Arts program. Attendees to the reception may pick up a copy of the 2022 issue and enjoy readings from selected works at 6 p.m. in the gallery.

The South Gallery will display the "Annual Faculty Exhibition," which features artworks created by PVCC art and graphic design faculty members and offers a look into their creative lives as professional artists outside the classroom. This year, works will include media as varied as oil painting, ink drawing, video animation, ceramics and sculpture. Participating artists include Rebekah Wostrel, Rick Weaver, Jonah Tobias, Jeremy Taylor, Ed Miller, Aaron Miller, Lou Haney, Todd Free, Tom Clarkson and Fenella Belle.

The PVCC Gallery is located on the third floor of the V. Earl Dickinson Building at the south end of 501 College Drive and is open when the building is open, including all arts performances. Generally, hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

New USDA guide provides road map for underserved farmers

VIRGINIA FARM BUREAU PRESS RELEASE

Considerations for the 2023 Farm Bill are well underway among Washington legislators, but in the interim, the 2018 Farm Bill continues to bear fruit for American farmers.

The bill—officially the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018—includes provisions that aimed to support historically underserved farmers, including minority producers, women, veterans, beginning and limited-resource farmers.

To fulfill that mission, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Production and Conservation agencies have produced a guide to help disadvantaged farmers better utilize USDA's network of agencies and resources.

Published in July, "Get Started: Resources for Historically Underserved Farmers and Ranchers" serves as a road map for producers as they make their first connections with USDA.

The 40-page document includes information on how to work with USDA's Farm Service Agency, Natural Resources Conservation Service and Risk Management Agency.

The FSA section of the guide provides information about loans and programs offered by the agency, including those that specifically aid underserved farmers and ranchers, and information on disaster assistance.

The guide also outlines how farmers can get in touch with the NRCS for help to develop conservation plans, apply for financial assistance to implement them, and determine their eligibility for certain programs.

Lastly, growers can learn about crop insurance qualifications in the RMA section.

Other topics addressed include urban agriculture and organic certification. Readers also can learn about additional resources offered by USDA and other agencies, such as local conservation districts and state agriculture or natural resource departments.

USDA's new guide for underserved farmers "should help producers focus their search for services and assistance they may require," said Tony Banks, senior assistant director of agriculture, development and innovation for Virginia Farm Bureau Federation.

"USDA is a large agency with numerous programs. It can be a daunting search for anyone unfamiliar with the agency," he continued. "This guide will be especially helpful for locating programs and services of interest to beginning, limited-resource, socially disadvantaged, veteran and women farmers and ranchers who are looking to get their start in agriculture or utilize the resources that are available to them."

("Aqua Virginia" or "Company") completed the filing of an application ("Application") with the State Corporation Commission ("Commission") for approval of a water and wastewater infrastructure service charge plan ("WWISC Plan" or "Plan"), and for authority to implement water and wastewater WWISC riders ("Water WWISC Rider" and "Wastewater WWISC Rider," collectively, "Riders") recovering costs of approved infrastructure replacement in a program substantively identical to the WWISC pilot program authorized by the Final Order entered October 19, 2018 in Case No. PUR-2017-00082 and the WWISC authorized in Case No. PUR-2019-00209.

Through the Application, Aqua Virginia seeks approval for:

1. Recovery of a revenue requirement of approximately $411,000 via the proposed Water WWISC Rider associated with approximately $6,185,000 in WWISC-eligible water main replacement projects;
2. Recovery of approximately $148,000 in revenues via the proposed Wastewater WWISC Rider associated with approximately $1,490,000 in WWISC-eligible wastewater infiltration and inflow ("I&I") projects;
3. Aqua Virginia proposes a volumetric charge of $0.3910 per 1,000 gallons of water used and $0.5205 per 1,000 gallons of wastewater billed, to be applied across all customer classes and all bills rendered with an ending read date equal to or greater than the effective date of the Company's proposed WWISC tariff. The true-up component of the proposed Riders is zero; and
4. Aqua Virginia has requested to add to customer bills, the Company's new Water WWISC and Wastewater WWISC Riders, effective for the period from 120 days after filing of this Application until the filing of the Company's next WWISC proceeding or the effective date of interim base rates in its next base rate case, whichever comes first.

The proposed WWISC projects include six main replacement projects and three wastewater system rehabilitation projects:

- Aqua Virginia's Twin Cedars system. Twin Cedars is a community of approximately 31 homes in Caroline County. This system experiences a main break rate of approximately 224 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a non-revenue water ("NRW") of 26%. The entire system is comprised of two-inch PVC mains. The proposed main replacement project will replace approximately 2,400 feet at a total project cost of $280,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Callao system. Callao serves a community of 134 homes in Northumberland County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 47 breaks per 100 miles per year. Of the 2.8 miles of distribution mains in the system, approximately 4% are asbestos cement and 46% are cast iron. The remaining distribution mains are PVC. The replacement of the asbestos cement and cast-iron mains requires approximately 8,570 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $895,000.
- Aqua Virginia's White Stone system. White Stone is a town with approximately 276 connections in Lancaster County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 22 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a NRW of 31%. Of the six miles of distribution mains in the system, approximately 14% are asbestos cement and 35% are cast iron. The remaining distribution mains are PVC. The replacement of the asbestos cement and cast iron mains requires approximately 21,000 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $2,135,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Foxwells system. Foxwells is a community of approximately 69 homes in Lancaster County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 71 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a NRW of 36%. Of the 3.3 miles of distribution mains in the system, approximately 54% are steel. The remaining distribution mains are PVC. The replacement of the steel mains requires approximately 8,030 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $760,000.

- Aqua Virginia's Pelham Manor system. Pelham Manor is a community of approximately 71 homes in Culpeper County. The primary driver for this project is the main break rate of approximately 235 breaks per 100 miles per year. The project requires the replacement of approximately 8,350 feet of mains and is estimated to cost $980,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Lively system. Lively is a town with approximately 145 connections in Lancaster County. The system experiences a main break rate of approximately 38 breaks per 100 miles per year and has a NRW of 39%. Of the 3.5 miles of distribution mains in this system, approximately 52% are cast iron. The remaining mains are PVC. The replacement of the cast iron mains requires approximately 10,530 feet of new mains and is estimated to cost $1,135,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Lake Holiday wastewater system. Lake Holiday serves 976 customers in Frederick County. As of December 2021, the percent of I&I over the prior 12 months was approximately 18% and the peak day peaking factor was 4.9. While the percent I&I is within the desired range, the peak day peaking factor presents major challenges to operations and compliance. Peak day flows of this magnitude can overwhelm the capacity of both the collection system and the treatment facility. The proposed I&I projects will rehabilitate approximately 22,307 linear feet at a total projected cost of $500,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Lake Monticello wastewater system. Lake Monticello serves 4,921 customers in Fluvanna County. As of December 2021, the percent I&I over the prior 12 months was 24% and the peak day peaking factor was 2.4. The proposed I&I projects will rehabilitate approximately 13,430 linear feet at a total projected cost of $750,000.
- Aqua Virginia's Lake Land'Or wastewater system. Lake Land'Or serves 875 customers in Caroline County. As of December 2021, the percent I&I over the prior 12 months was approximately 38% and the peak day peaking factor was 2.8. The proposed I&I projects will rehabilitate approximately 7,855 linear feet at a total projected cost of $240,000.

If the Commission approves the proposed Riders, the monthly residential bill for an Aqua Virginia water customer using 4,000 gallons per month would increase, on average: for water service, by about 3.15% or $1.56 and for wastewater service, by about 3.49% or $2.08. The Company will calculate the WWISC Rider as follows:

1. The Company will determine the eligible infrastructure replacement costs by rate schedule as defined below for the period the WWISC rider will apply.
2. The Company will estimate the water and wastewater sales by rate schedule for that period.
3. The Company will divide the eligible infrastructure replacement costs by the estimated water and wastewater sales to arrive at the WWISC Rider that shall be allocated in conformance with the revenue allocation approved by the Commission in Case No. PUR-2020-00106 by rate schedule.

Interested persons are encouraged to review the Application and supporting documents for the details of these and other proposals.

TAKE NOTICE that the Commission may apportion revenues among customer classes and/or design rates in a manner differing from that shown in the Application and supporting documents and thus may adopt rates that differ from those appearing in the Company's Application and supporting documents.

Per the Company's request for interim rates, the Commission granted the Company authority to begin charging customers for its proposed WWISC Riders on an interim basis and subject to refund and interest for billings made on or after December 13, 2022, and has done so with express notice that the Commission may adjust such WWISC rates based on the final outcome of these proceedings.

The Commission entered an Order for Notice and Hearing in this proceeding that, among other things, scheduled public hearings on the Company's Application. On January 25, 2023, the Commission will hold a telephonic hearing, with no witness present in the Commission's courtroom, for the purpose of receiving the testimony of public witnesses. On or before January 18, 2023, any person desiring to offer testimony as a public witness shall provide to the Commission (a) your name, and (b) the telephone number that you wish the Commission to call during the hearing to receive your testimony. This public witness hearing will be webcast at scc.virginia.gov/pages/Webcasting.

witness hearing, to receive testimony and evidence related to the Application from Aqua Virginia, any respondents, and the Commission's Staff.

THIS WEEK'S PET: HELENA

Helena is a lovely 3 year old hound with unique coloring- she's light tan with a black back and tail.

She was very shy when she came to the shelter. When she goes out for a walk, she is a combination of bouncy happiness and nervousness.

She prances like a horse! Even though she's shy, she warms up quickly and wants to be your friend. She walks well on a leash. There's a bit of stop and go because she will prance along and then stop because she's worried. Once you talk to and encourage her, she's fine.

She would probably like toys once she has a little more confidence. You won't find a more delightful dog!

Come meet Helena!

Lieutenant governor engages farm women at annual leadership conference

VIRGINIA FARM BUREAU PRESS RELEASE

A keynote speech became a lively agricultural advocacy forum at the annual Virginia Farm Bureau Federation Women's Leadership Conference in Harrisonburg on Aug. 27.

Lt. Gov. Winsome Earle-Sears discussed the status of Virginia agriculture and forestry, and then took the opportunity to learn from experts in the room—hundreds of Virginia Farm Bureau women of all ages.

Citing a $165 billion state budget and a net increase of $17 million in the general fund, Sears shared an overview of recent agricultural investments, which include $3.2 million to reestablish the New Kent Nursery; $2.9 million to increase the Agriculture & Forestry Industries Development Fund; $2 million for Virginia Fresh Match food program; $1.4 million for cannabis food product regulation; $1 million to establish the Forest Sustainability Fund; almost $1 million to establish the Virginia Spirits Promotion Fund; and $1 million in American Rescue Plan funding to support operations of Virginia 4-H centers.

Farmers' participation in the legislative process is crucial, she said.

"Legislators will believe you faster than they believe each other," Sears continued. "You're the experts showing us how to get it done. We can't come up with all the answers. That's why we need to hear from you."

In an impromptu forum, she asked the farm women to share what's on their minds. They discussed animal husbandry laws, access to rural healthcare, the shortage of large animal veterinarians and funding for agricultural best management practices.

Orange County Farm Bureau Women's Leadership Program co-chair and Virginia Agriculture in the Classroom ambassador Lexie Chambers, who raises cattle and crops with her husband, asked about agriculture education.

"Resources are definitely needed in more places in the state, and my own county specifically, to help grow these programs and chapters," she said. "Agriculture is our number one industry, and youth are the future of Virginia agriculture. How can we get students more interested?"

Sears asked Chambers what she thinks can be done to promote agricultural education. Chambers said streamlining the process to get new educators certified is a good start.

"That way those with real-world experience are the ones teaching students," she said. "Ag education is very hands-on and allows students to leave high school and get a job, or go to college and further their education to become vets or nurses in the industry."

She also suggested expanding teacher contracts, and more state-funded grants for class projects.

"What you have done is just advocated for your position," Sears said. "When your senator or delegate looks for people who can talk about the issues—because you're being affected—you're the one we need to hear."
