THIS WEEK'S PET: ADELITE

Adelite came from a hoarding home with her friends. Her name used to be #8. She is learning to trust, but you can't move fast with her. Once she likes you, she will want all the love from you. She enjoys being petted and will ask for more when you stop. Adelites meow is soooo cute! It is unique. She is looking for a home that can allow her to adjust at her own pace and a clean home to rest my head. She is FeLV and FIV positive, so she'll need someone able to give her a little more TLC when it comes to her health. Adelite can be fostered until spayed, but she is up to date on vaccines and preventatives at this time.

Art tour revival

BY PAGE H. GIFFORD
CORRESPONDENT

It has been 11 years since the Fluvanna County Historical Society sponsored the last art studio tour. Artist Linda Staiger took on the task of reviving the artists' tour but ran into a roadblock regarding an ordinance that charged artists/artisans for operating businesses out of their homes. Artists were reluctant to join the tour and Staiger and others from the Fluvanna Leadership Development Program set the groundwork by resolving the ordinance issue and moving forward with plans to do what they hope to be the first of many artists' tours.

"We were able to reach out and communicate through an arts community that has evolved in the last several years into a cohesive and collaborative community. And we had a great team of volunteers who have been working on this for nearly a year. The team began the project and with community sponsors and dedicated work, has been able to bring the idea to fruition this fall. It's a great opportunity for people to explore what's available in the county," said Diane Wilin, who is the organizer of the event.

Wilin and others who have been working on the project have learned about the needs of artists in the community and how tours would be beneficial.

"There are many artists in Fluvanna, some connected to the local organizations, and some not. We found some artists who live and create here, but their exhibition and show opportunities are in other places up and down the east coast and some even farther, she said. "As the plans for the Studio Tour solidified and the news started to spread, we heard from artists who are interested in applying for next year. We look forward to the possibility of expanding the number of studios. Showcasing the local talent and providing these artists an opportunity to show and sell work close to home is our goal."

Arts, performing, visuals, and crafts can generate interest in towns and counties, attracting those interested in supporting the arts. Wilin points out that the studio tour will certainly help local artists meet buyers and build entrepreneurial businesses while bringing in county tax revenue.

"Bringing people into the county for a day also brings revenue to restaurants, and other businesses as well. There are 20 artists at ten different locations and visitors will get to see our beautiful county landscape as well."

Some of the artists have participated in the past, including Lindsay Nolting, whose impressionistic paintings feature bright colors and broad sweeping brushstrokes. Linda Staiger will show off her tranquil landscapes and Diane and Jim Wilin will also be participating. Erika Mitchell of Sweet Art Emporium will be showcasing her bold jewelry designs and Mike McGurk will discuss his extraordinary pastels, and the realism he achieves with painstaking details. Mike Harrison will feature his ceramics and Chris Nothnagle his woodworking. Among the 20 artists are ten from the Fluvanna Art Association, including Janie Prete with her ethereal watercolors, Susan Edginton and her beautiful colored pencil work, Marcie Stahl and Linda Napier.

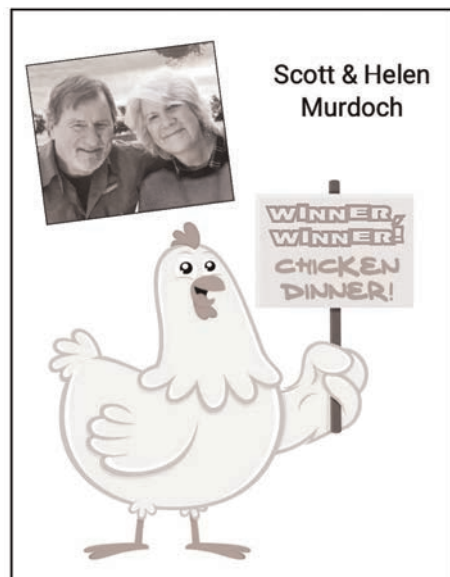

This is an opportunity for people to see the work and talk to the artists about their work.

"I have to add- as an educator and artist - it's not just about dollars. The Studio Tour is an event that will enhance our cultural knowledge, increase awareness of our community members and their talents, and will be educational for many. I'm always amazed at what I learn about the creative ways in which artists solve problems and develop ideas and their inspiration."

The tour is on Oct. 15, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and is self-guided. For more information, participants, maps, and directions visit www.artsfluvannacounty.com

Winners announced in "Great New Orleans Giveaway"

CONTRIBUTED BY JUDY FISH

Scott Murdoch had joked with friends Friday night that he "just couldn't wait to go to New Orleans" and before he went to bed, he found out he had actually won the first prize in the Lake Monticello Community Foundation's "Great New Orleans Giveaway."

"I was just joking with friends," Murdoch said. "I don't think I have ever won anything like this before," he said of the three-night stay at the Hyatt Regency Centric on Bourbon Street in the heart of the French Quarter. "We are really excited about this!"

Murdoch said he and his wife of 48 years, Helen, only bought one raffle ticket

"to show our support for the Foundation and the Playground." Murdoch has also performed his music to support the Foundation's efforts to build an all-inclusive playground.

"We have relatives to visit in New Orleans," he said. "This is the best $25 we have ever spent."

The Foundation raised $2,325 from this latest raffle, which ended at Cunningham Creek Winery Saturday night when the lucky winners were drawn from the 93 tickets sold. An additional $1,026 was raised from other donations at the event where local band, Cake Fight, performed for nearly three hours.

Jackie and Roger Geer got an early anniversary present when their ticket was pulled for a three-night stay in New Orleans in the Pontchartrain Hotel in the Garden District. "We are celebrating 50 years of marriage this week," Jackie Geer said. She said she only bought one ticket in the raffle. The couple plans to cash in their second-place prize early next year.

Maureen Donahue won two nights at the Starling Atlanta Midtown, the third-place prize, and Karen Snyder won two nights at any Graduate Hotel in the U.S., which was the fourth-place prize.

Foundation Treasurer Anne Stoppe said that Saturday night's efforts brought the money raised for the all-inclusive playground up to $77,498. There are several more fundraisers planned to reach the $100,000 target, she said.

Schedule annual chimney sweep and inspection ahead of heating season

VIRGINIA FARM BUREAU PRESS RELEASE

Annual chimney inspections can help homeowners secure peace of mind.

As fall sets in and temperatures begin to drop, now is the time to assess the safety of chimneys, fireplaces and heating units.

"Your chimney should be cleaned and inspected by a licensed, reputable service each year, which can help prevent fires," said Dana Fisher, chairman of the Virginia Farm Bureau Federation Safety Advisory Committee. "Cleaning should include removal of accumulated soot, debris or animal nests."

The Chimney Safety Institute of America asserts that even rarely used chimneys should be inspected annually. Besides the buildup of combustible soot or animal nests, other types of structural deterioration can make a chimney unsafe to use.

The association noted that having a professional examine a chimney will help a homeowner be aware of any problems that can be addressed before lighting a fire.

"A thorough inspection of the chimney can locate cracks, which can cause fire to spread from the chimney to your home," Fisher said.

The CSIA reminds homeowners that although gas is generally a clean-burning fuel, those using gas logs in a fireplace still need to take precautions. A chimney can still become non-functional when the flue is blocked, forcing carbon monoxide, fumes and soot into living spaces.

Regular maintenance on heating units also can save money on energy bills.

While a licensed chimney sweep can address clogs, buildup and structural problems, homeowners are encouraged to take extra precautions during the heating season.

Keep fireplace hearths free of debris, decorations and flammable materials. Remove any branches or leaves from the roof or anywhere that could block the chimney. Burn only seasoned, dry wood in fireplaces and wood-burning stoves, and always keep a fire extinguisher nearby.

Additionally, check all smoke and carbon monoxide detectors to ensure they are functioning. Replace the batteries once a year, and test each detector monthly.

To locate your nearest CSIA Certified Chimney Sweep, visit csia.org/search.

Letters to the Editor

Cruelty to children

Glenn Youngkin's attempt to discriminate against transgender children (The 2022 Model Policies) is a violation of state and federal laws. Virginia's Human Rights Act bars discrimination in schools based on gender identity. And a 2020 U.S. Supreme Court decision, written by former President Donald Trump appointee Neil M. Gorsuch, determined that civil rights law barring sex discrimination covers transgender people. In 2020, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit ruled that a transgender student could not be barred from using a boys' bathroom, and the Supreme Court declined to hear an appeal of that ruling.

The sheer cruelty of this proposed law, cruelty to children, is unfathomable.

Because real men are never cruel to children, I will no longer refer to Glenn Youngkin using masculine pronouns. And because they have made it clear that they are not the governor of all Virginians, they are not the governor of anyone, and I will not glorify them with that title.

-Deborah Weiss, Palmyra

No Need to Wonder

Mr. Deegan's Letter to the Editor in the Sept. 15 issue of the Fluvanna Review was disingenuous at best and tracks with the lies/partial truth reporting of the liberal mass media. He listed several programs that he said Congressman Good is "against." This is blatantly misleading. What Mr. Deegan failed to state is that the Democrat controlled House and Senate rolled all these good programs into larger, costly appropriation bills that included excessive left-wing programs that Congressman Good and virtually all other Republicans and several Democrats opposed. Voting against the larger 'bad appropriations bill' meant those few good bills, strategically tucked within it by the Democrat leaders, would not be approved had the larger bill failed. In short, Congressman Good was for all the good programs Mr. Deegan said he was against, or improved versions of what was included. Implying Congressman Good does not support veterans is particularly upsetting to me. As a retired Army officer, I can unequivocally opine that Congressman Good is an ardent supporter of veterans and active military members. Rather than attack Congressman Good, maybe Mr. Deegan can spend time educating his fellow constituents on what his candidate would do for Fluvanna County and the United States. I would argue he has nothing positive to say – so, just attack the opponent. Promising things and actually being able to get things accomplished are two separate matters. Like other Democrats, his candidate would march lock-step with the other Democrats regardless of the policy. After these mid-terms, when the Republicans take over the majority in the House and Senate, they will address the Biden and Democrat Congress failures – the Afghanistan withdrawal debacle, our decimated U.S. military, threats by Russia and China which are at historic highs, the failing economy, crushing inflation and gas/food prices, the flood of over one million illegals across our open Southern border, the illegally smuggled poisonous fentanyl which has killed over 100,000 Americans, and Democrat run cities in lawless chaos, to name a few. Sad and infuriating how the Democrat led government messed things up so horrendously and so quickly.

-Colonel Paul Bethke, USA (Retired), Palmyra

Definitely makes you wonder

About that postcard I received from District 5 Congressman Bob Good, which I referenced in my Sept. 15 Letter to the Editor -- the one where Good offered assistance to senior citizens grappling with Medicare paperwork during the fall enrollment period.

As previously mentioned, I was quite puzzled by the gesture, given Good's obvious aversion to supporting healthcare initiatives, Medicare-specific included, that ultimately benefit working class families, children and military veterans. A fact borne out by his repeated no votes on this life-and-death issue.

In hindsight, I neglected to highlight a notable line of text in his mailer that truly caught my attention. Especially since this is the only time during his term in office that I can remember him sending something unsolicited to his constituents.

The specific passage that stood out for me? It reads: "Paid for by official funds authorized by the House of Representatives."

Interesting. His gesture of good will concerning something he opposes as a norm. Printed and distributed at taxpayers' expense. And just in time for early voting in Virginia. Certainly reeks of political double-dealing to me.

I'll leave it to the attorneys among us to weigh in on the legality of his suspicious use of our tax dollars to finance what some might consider a twisted form of outreach orchestrated by his campaign. But at a minimum, it does give one reason to pause and question what two more years of ethically-challenged Good might mean for us as election season approaches. Yes, definitely makes you wonder.

-John Deegan, Palmyra

Fluco golfers host Jefferson District Meet

BY DUNCAN NIXON

On Monday, Sept. 19 the Fluvanna County High School golf team hosted seven other schools from the Jefferson District at the Lake Monticello course. The weather was fine and the course was in excellent shape. In high school golf, each team enters six players and the best four final scores are added together to determine the team score. This is golf, so the low score wins.

Leading the Fluco team, which is coached by Bryan Searcy, was senior Killian Donnelly. He finished with an impressive birdie on the par five eighteenth hole, posting an excellent score of 74, or two over par.

Donnelly came on strong with a 34 on the back nine. Following Donnelly, with scores that are more common in high school golf, were junior Mason Chiovaro with an 88 and freshman Will Bishop and senior Cohen Purviance with 89s. Kessler Potter, the Fluco's lone female player was close behind at 91. Donnelly's 74 tied for second place in the individual scores, only two strokes off the best score. Of the 48 competitors, only six shot in the 70s.

The Fluco team score of 340 was one stroke away from a third-place finish. Western Albemarle was the easy winner with two scores in the 70s and two 80s Albemarle High was second and Goochland High topped the Flucos for third place.

At the high school level the sport is co-ed. The Flucos and several other schools had a girl player in their top six. The winning team, Western Albemarle, had three young women in its top six. The boys play from the regular men's tees, the distance is a serious 6,296 yards. The girls play from the regular women's tees, and their distance is 5,051 yards, also a legitimate test. The Lake Monticello course is not easy. The fairways are tight and tree-lined and the greens can be quite tricky. There is enough water and sand to intimidate the average golfer. There is not a single hole where an errant tee shot can land on an adjoining fairway.

Letters to the Editor

Will Fork Union ever have grocery store?

As the Fork Union Supervisor, I often hear requests for a grocery store in the Fork Union Village. In response, I set out to understand why there is no longer one in the community. When there was a local grocery, most residents did their weekly shopping elsewhere, using the grocery store as a convenience store, stopping in only to grab a few last-minute items. As a result, storeowners could not sustain the expenses.

Fork Union is a special place to live. Situated in the heart of the county, Fork Union is a vital part of Fluvanna. The James River forms one of our borders, and the rural character of our county can be seen throughout our district, which is also home to the county's Pleasant Grove Park and Carysbrook Performing Arts Center.

Yes, Fork Union has natural beauty and boasts recreational and cultural attractions. We are also home to more businesses than many realize - restaurants and a deli; a florist; insurance agents; banks; a pharmacy; a barber shop, beauticians, and a hair care store; a hardware store; discount stores; gas stations and convenience stores; a thrift store; a realtor; a nursing home; auto repair store; funeral homes; a lumber and equipment company; various businesses and offices, and a business park to accommodate growth.

Will we ever have a grocery store? I think we will, but it has to be a grocery store that can survive, and as a community, we have to support it. Our economic development director is also studying alternatives. In the meantime, I want to acknowledge and appreciate the businesses that are essential to the Fork Union community.

-Mozell Booker, Supervisor, Fork Union District

Reconsider Good

Do you plan to reelect Bob Good to Congress? It is important that you reconsider. In the past two years these are some of our fellow Americans Bob Good has voted against:

1. Against our military service personnel - He voted against the annual National Defense Authorization Act.
2. Against Veterans - He voted against the PACT Act which provides health care for veterans who were exposed to toxic substances.
3. Against heroes - He voted to refuse to honor the officers who defended the Capitol on Jan. 6, 2021.
4. Against babies - He voted against a bill to end the baby formula shortage.
5. Against diabetics - He voted against capping the cost of insulin at $35.
6. Against women - He voted against reauthorizing the Violence Against Women Act.
7. Against all of us! - He even voted against funding an office to monitor domestic terrorism.

But there have been some "yea" votes too. Such as:

- * Voting to continue big oil company's subsidies.
- * Falsifying the 2020 presidential election.

I encourage friends and neighbors to vote for compassion and common sense, someone who actually cares about people - Josh Throneburg for Congress.

-George Coussoulos, Lake Monticello

The Fluvanna County High School cross-country teams hosted a meet against Jefferson District foes at the Pleasant Grove course on Sept. 21. Teams from Western Albemarle, Louisa County and Charlottesville High were the visitors. A decent crowd of spectators were on hand, and the weather was excellent for the runners.

The Fluco girls team was strong, finishing in second place. The first five finishers count in these meets. Sophie Farley and Ruby Frazier lead the Fluco's team taking third and fourth place. They were followed by Madeline Creasy who finished 11th, Kayla Kozella who came in 14th and Kate Best who finished in 18th place.

The Fluco boys team was not as successful as they finished fourth. The top five boys were Ryder Petrylak who finished in 13th place, Kevin Sloan who was 16th, Zachary Butler who was 22nd, Zach Jefferies who finished 23rd and Jonathan Gretz who came in 25th. Rose Brogan coaches both squads.

Witches & Wizards paddle, pass out candy

Cake Fight. Photos by Judy Fish

While Laker Lindsay Maisch enjoys the solitude of solo paddle boarding, she also likes to create community fun and that's how she came to organize the first ever (for Lake Monticello) Witches & Wizards Paddle last year. That inaugural event drew 25 costumed paddlers and dozens of children to Main Beach, she said.

Missed the fun? No worries. Maisch is hoping this year's event grows even larger when the Witches & Wizards gather at Beach 3 on Oct. 22 (Saturday) at 12:30 p.m. to paddle in kayaks, canoes and on paddle boards across to Main Beach to pass out candy and treats to costumed children. Children and their parents should be on Main Beach by 12:45 p.m., Maisch said.

"I was thrilled with 25 paddlers for the first event," Maisch said. "I am hoping for many more this year. Some of the costumes last year were so creative. I can't wait to see what this year brings."

"I am so happy I moved to Lake Monticello," added Maisch, who moved to Lake Monticello three years ago. Maisch operates a home organizing business.

Costumes are encouraged at the Second Annual Witch & Wizard Paddle and just like last year, prizes will be awarded for best costume and best cackle, Maisch said.

Supervisors adopt two-year goals

BY HEATHER MICHON
CORRESPONDENT

Following their annual leadership retreat in late August, the Board of Supervisors adopted its two-year goals and revised version of its mission statement during its meeting Wednesday (Sept. 21).

Assistant County Administrator Kelly Harris reviewed the finalized two-year plan – formerly known as the ‘strategic initiatives,’ even though “they were neither strategic nor initiatives,” she noted.

The four-page document lists about two dozen goals under the heading of service delivery, communications, project management, community development and enrichment, and financial stewardship and efficiency.

Many of these items have been on the to-do list for some time, and others are impossible to complete within a two-year timeframe. However, having a compact list of goals and priorities assures that critical issues won't fall off the county's radar.

One example mentioned during the discussion was the implementation of a credit card payment system for the treasurer's office. This is something residents have been wanting for several years, but has not yet been put in place.

County Administrator Eric Dahl said County Treasurer Linda H. Lenherr was looking for a one-step process that integrated smoothly with the county's existing payment processing system and was planning to reach out to colleagues in other counties to discuss their experiences with vendors and systems.

Supervisors approved the plan by a vote of 5-0.

They did not reach that same unanimity on a revised mission statement.

The mission statement adopted in 2016 reads: Fluvanna County is committed to providing an excellent quality of life for our citizens and businesses through the delivery of competitive public services and programs in an efficient and effective manner.

Draft revised versions following the August retreat all included language about preserving Fluvanna's ‘rural character.’

The most popular of the four options stated: Fluvanna County is committed to providing an excellent quality of life for our citizens and businesses through the efficient delivery of core services and programs while preserving the unique identity and rural character of the county.

Supervisor Tony O'Brien (Rivanna) felt the language regarding identity and character was unnecessary. “We define the character and the goals of the county in our comprehensive plan that we upgrade every five years, and I just don't see the point of making the change,” he said.

The motion passed on a vote of 4-1.

tisement of a public hearing on proposed changes to the county's noise ordinance.

The current noise ordinance has been in place since around 2009 and was based on a Virginia Supreme Court ruling that required localities to set new standards on judging noise complaints.

"We adopted a set of standards based on decibel levels," said County Attorney Fred Payne. In theory, law enforcement could use sound meters to determine whether noise complaints met the threshold.

However, as Lake Monticello Public Safety Director and former Fluvanna County Sheriff's Office officer David Wells explained, the sound meters had proven practically useless in the field and made enforcement almost impossible.

Under the proposed revision, "no person shall permit, operate or cause any source of sound or sound generation that is audible in any other person's residence with the doors and windows to such other person's residence closed."

Supervisors Chris Fairchild (Cunningham) and Patricia Eager (Palmyra) questioned Wells and Payne on how the use of firearms would play into noise complaints.

Wells said the language of the ordinance didn't prohibit the use of firearms already legal under state law but was instead geared towards "the guys that have probably had a couple of beers and go out at 2 a.m. and decide to go dump a magazine."

The public hearing will take place on Oct. 19 at 7 p.m.

Bremo plant before demolition. Photos by Harvey J. Sorum

When the Bremo Power Plant first came online in 1931, it was hailed as a piece of cutting-edge engineering. The coal-fired power station took years to build at a cost of millions of dollars and promised to bring the blessings of modern life to communities all along the James River.

Its work long since done, the building fell on Friday (Sept. 23) in under ten seconds.

The controlled implosion of the turbine building and its smokestacks took place as scheduled at around 10 a.m. after road and river traffic was halted in a two-mile radius around the plant.

The removal of the turbine building is another big step in the planned clean-up and reclamation of the plant, which was shut down in 2018.

Crews have been working for almost a year to remove asbestos panels from the nearby administration building, double-bagging each piece before transport to an approved facility outside Fluvanna. By the end of this year, Dominion hopes to have removed all signs of the power plant and begin the process of turning it back into green space.

In the summer of 2021, the county signed off on a 224.5-acre landfill site where Dominion plans to place 6.2 million cubic yards of toxic coal ash, produced by the plant between 1931 and 2012, which has been held in covered holding ponds for years. Containing the coal ash in a lined and covered landfill will reduce the risk of contaminating the river or local groundwater.

The landfill project is expected to take close to a decade at a cost of $500 million.
